STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Acts regulating the transport of native laborers to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and their employment there, have been the subject of much observation and comment, and various proposals have been laid before the Government, with the view on the one hand of making the contract lighter to the laborer, and on the other hand, of relieving the employer of labor from some of the burthens that previous legislation had laid upon him, but which experience had shewn to be too heavy for him to bear. Of these suggestions those which seemed most feasible have been adopted in the present Bill. It seemed, moreover, desirable that all the provisions of the law upon this subject should be included in one Code, and therefore, it is proposed that the original Acts III. of 1863 and VI. of 1865, should be repealed, and their provisions with the required modifications re-enacted.

The principal changes introduced in the proposed Bill are the following:—

The alteration of the name of Protector, to that of Inspector of Laborers.

The reduction from six months to four of the period after which non-payment of wages entitles a laborer to the rescission of his contract.

The alteration of the terms upon which a laborer is entitled to purchase his discharge.

Allowing two periods of imprisonment amounting in the whole to sixty days, suffered by a laborer for desertion, to determine his contract.

Providing for the settlement by a Committee of the nirikhs or daily tasks to be performed by laborers.

Extending the provisions of Section 40 of Act III. of 1863, which exempts parties of not more than ten laborers proceeding to the Tea Districts from the provisions of the law, to parties of twenty laborers.

Giving power to the Lieutenant-Governor to suspend emigration during any season or from any particular District.

Providing for the cost of restoring laborers who may have deserted, and be returned under warrant, being paid by the party taking out the warrant.

Enabling the Lieutenant-Governor to require Returns of the sickness and mortality amongst laborers, and to prescribe the nature of the hospital accommodation to be provided for them.

The abolition of a minimum rate of wages.

Providing that the weekly holiday shall not necessarily fall on a Sunday.

Providing that the rights and liabilities under laborers' contracts devolve upon and bind the owner of the estate for the time being, without reference to the mode in which he may have acquired the ownership.

In addition to these changes, several formal and verbal alterations have been introduced, and the provisions of the two former Acts have been consolidated.

Progress of the Wards' Institution.

Memorandum from T. B. LANE, ESQ., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 451A., dated the 8th February 1867.)

SUBMITTED to the Government of Bengal, with a suggestion that it be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette.

From BABOOS ROMMANATH TAGORE, DIGUMBER MITTRA, and HURENDRA KRISHNA, Visitors of the Wards' Institution, to T. B. LANE, ESQ., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(dated the 21st January 1867.)

WE have the honor to submit the following report on the progress of the Wards' Institution for the official year 1865-66.

Number of Boys.

2. The total number of boys who have been in the Institution during the year under report was twelve, of whom one has been sent to his native district, the profits of his estate, greatly reduced by certain recent adverse decision of the High Court, being insufficient to defray the expenses of his stay in Calcutta; and another to the Benares Wards' Institution by order of the Board of Revenue, leaving 10 names on the rolls at the close of April last. The accessions during the year were three.

Age, caste, and birth place.

3. The ages of the boys now in the Institution range between 7 to 18 years, four of them being under the 13th and six above the 15th year of their age. They belong to the several castes of Brahmins (4), Kahetreas (1), Kayasthoo (2), Tili (1), and Jugis (2). Two of them are from the district of Mymensing, one from Cuttack, two from the 24-Pergunnahs, two from Dinagepore, one from Rajshahye, and two from Midnapore.

Course of Instruction.

4. The course of instruction followed by the boys continues the same as heretofore. They read at home for two hours in the morning and evening, and attend the Hindoo School for six hours during the day. The reading at home is carried on under the Directors aided by three English Tutors and a Pundit. The routine followed appears to us in every way judicious. Sufficient opportunites are given to the boys both in the morning and in the afternoon for relaxation and healthful recreation, without any encroachment upon their proper time of study.

General progress.

5. The advantages derived under the course of tuition have been marked. All the boys got their promotion at the last annual examination of the Hindoo School, and one successfully passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta University. At the last quarterly examination of 1865 Promothanath Roy stood 7th in a class of 50, and Baidyanath 4th in a class of 30, and they maintained those positions to the end of the year. At the annual examination Baidyanath Pundit, Umesh Chunder Roy, Hemanath Dutt, and Rajendrakishore Chowdhury obtained more than half the number of marks attainable in their respective classes* one-third being considered sufficient for promotion. The result of the first quarterly examination of the current year was equally favourable to the boys. It shewed Hemanath to be the 12th in a class of 38, Sooreendra 20th in a class of 35, and Rajendra Kishore 19th in a class of 31. The most unsuccessful on that occasion were Prithninath Roy, Brindaban Chunder Chowdhury, and Juggut Chunder Chowdhury. They stood 22nd and 30th in class of 35 and 32 respectively. Juggut proved the most backward, but he is young and smart, and has every prospect of improving, but his brother, Brindaban, the Director reports, is a big, stubborn, stupid boy, never likely to learn anything.

6. The progress made by the boys in drawing appears to us to be perfectly satisfactory. The time devoted to this branch of their study is limited to two hours a week.

Drawing class.

7. We are glad to notice that the Director has placed a small library of Juvenile books at the disposal of the boys, with a view to encourage in them the habit of reading for entertainment, and they freely make use of the same. The library should be extended by the addition, from time to time, of books of fairy tales and the like, so that the boys may always be attracted by variety and novelty.

Library.

8. The Director reports the conduct of the boys to have been generally good. The Order Book kept by him shows only a few cases of corporal punishment and those only for boyish faults, which, however much requiring correction, do not imply habitual or serious misconduct. Considering that most of the boys come to the Institution at an advanced age and very much spoilt by over-indulgence, it is satisfactory to know that their official guardian has so little to complain of them.

Conduct.

9. Every encouragement is afforded to the boys to betake themselves to active out-door exercise. A teacher of gymnastics attends on them every day, opportunities are allowed them to indulge in such games as cricket, quoits, hoops and trapbat; horses are placed at command for riding, and walking and swimming are daily enforced. We have often noticed that the boys take to these exercises with alacrity and have derived much benefit from them.

Exercise.

10. The sanitary condition of the Institution continues perfectly satisfactory. The boys look cheerful and in good health, and we understand that none of them had to complain of any serious illness. In our visits during the year under report, we did not notice any case of sickness.

Health.

11. In an Institution kept up for rich youths who are permitted to retain each a separate establishment of his own, and have guns and saddle-horses, the average cost per boy must be heavy. But it was not much more so in the last than in former years. The total of the general charges amounted to Rupees 17,014-10-10, against Rupees 16,177-4-1 of 1864-65, shewing an increase of Rupees 737-6-9. A part (Rupees 299) of the increase is due to additional teachers having been retained from the beginning of the year, a part to the interest due to Government for advances received from the General Treasury having increased to Rupees 1,008-4-6 from Rupees 859-5-4 of 1864-65, and a part (Rupees 289-3-10) to increased cost of lighting and contingencies.

Expense, general.

12. The personal expenses for boarding, clothing, tuition, saddle-horses, and private servants for (12) twelve boys for 124 months amounted to Rupees 24,588-7-10, against Rupees 18,905-10-8 for 14 boys for 111 months in 1864-65. The apparent increase is Rupees 5 682-13-2, or Rupees 27-15-7 per boy per month; but if a rateable allowance be made for the difference in the number of months during which the boys lived in the Institution in the two years, the actual increase would amount to Rupees 3,468-10-6½. Nor is that a fair index of the actual increase on account of the wards generally, for out of Rupees 3,468-10-6½, Rupees 1,920 are due to the cost of Arab horses purchased for three of the rich boys, and Rupees 959-13-3 for stabling, leaving Rupees 488-13-3½ to be placed to account of the recent heavy rise in the cost of food and clothing. The highest cost for any one boy during the year amounted to Rupees 4,353-12-6, and the lowest to Rupees 1,187-4-8, the average being Rupees 2,049-0-7. In 1864-65 the highest was Rupees 2,692-4-3, and the lowest Rupees 1,219-8-9, the average being Rupees 1,636-1-10. Some of us have examined the lists of daily ration and clothing allowed to the boys, and are of opinion that the Director exercises judicious discretion in checking extravagance, without in any way denying the boys any of the comforts and conveniences which they would have enjoyed had they remained at home.

Expense, personal.

13. We give in the margin the names of the gentlemen who visited the Institution during the year under report. The remarks made by them in the Visitors' Book are uniformly satisfactory. His Excellency the Viceroy, with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and the Hon'ble W. Grey, visited the Institution in November 1865, and were, we understand, perfectly satisfied with every thing they saw.

Report of Importation of Rice into the Jajipore Sub-Division.

From T. E. RAVENSHAW, Esq, Officiating Commissioner of the Cuttack Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 35, dated the 11th March 1867.)

I HAVE the honor to inform you that in a letter dated 18th February, the Assistant Collector at Jajipore noted considerable importations are at present being made for the country on the north and north-west of Cuttack, and 30 to 40,000 Maunds must have passed the northern boundary of Jajipore Sub-division within the last four or five weeks, coming in from Keonjur, Sohroh, Agurparra, Ambohatta, and Nilgirey. These supplies are being spread over the country between Jajipore and Mohanuddy, much of it going to Ootieun, Tekun, Chowdcoolah and Kendraparra. Again in a letter dated 25th February 1867, the Assistant Collector again notes that the Importations coming into the Sub-division are beginning to affect the prices of grain; 1,200 Maunds had reached the Jajipore bazaar during the week, and the Deputy Collector had, when on duty in the Mufussil, met large droves of bullocks laden with rice, coming from the north and north-west, for distances of from twenty to thirty miles. These supplies were being brought by villagers who had grown it themselves. The greater portion was being sold to Mohajuns and dealers, at about 24 seers per Rupee. Importations at Jajipore were gradually on the increase and were expected to continue until rain falls, and cattle will be required for ploughing the land in place of transporting grain.

2. Owing to remission of Government revenue but few of the Jajipore local ryots had been compelled to sell their grain to pay their rents and were holding it most persistently, so much so that the artizans and labouring classes were depending on outside traders for their daily supply of rice. Many of the ryots in Pergunnahs which escaped inundation, are said to be redeeming their property pledged to Mohajuns during the pressure of last season's famine; so far but little Government rice had been sold, as the grain-dealers keep their prices just below the Government fixed rate of Rupees 3-4-0 per maund. This is not altogether unsatisfactory, and the general activity and trade reported is encouraging.

The mean Temperature and the mean Wet Bulb are derived from the twenty-four hourly Observations made during the day.

The Dew-point is computed with the Greenwich-constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1 foot 2 inches, and that of the Anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Acts regulating the transport of native laborers to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and their employment there, have been the subject of much observation and comment, and various proposals have been laid before the Government, with the view on the one hand of making the contract lighter to the laborer, and on the other hand, of relieving the employer of labor from some of the burthens that previous legislation had laid upon him, but which experience had shewn to be too heavy for him to bear. Of these suggestions those which seemed most feasible have been adopted in the present Bill. It seemed, moreover, desirable that all the provisions of the law upon this subject should be included in one Code, and therefore, it is proposed that the original Acts III. of 1863 and VI. of 1865, should be repealed, and their provisions with the required modifications re-enacted.

The principal changes introduced in the proposed Bill are the following:—

The alteration of the name of Protector, to that of Inspector of Laborers.

The reduction from six months to four of the period after which non-payment of wages entitles a laborer to the rescission of his contract.

The alteration of the terms upon which a laborer is entitled to purchase his discharge.

Allowing two periods of imprisonment amounting in the whole to sixty days, suffered by a laborer for desertion, to determine his contract.

Providing for the settlement by a Committee of the nirikhs or daily tasks to be performed by laborers.

Extending the provisions of Section 40 of Act III. of 1863, which exempts parties of not more than ten laborers proceeding to the Tea Districts from the provisions of the law, to parties of twenty laborers.

Giving power to the Lieutenant-Governor to suspend emigration during any season or from any particular District.

Providing for the cost of restoring laborers who may have deserted, and be returned under warrant, being paid by the party taking out the warrant.

Enabling the Lieutenant-Governor to require Returns of the sickness and mortality amongst laborers, and to prescribe the nature of the hospital accommodation to be provided for them.

The abolition of a minimum rate of wages.

Providing that the weekly holiday shall not necessarily fall on a Sunday.

Providing that the rights and liabilities under laborers' contracts devolve upon and bind the owner of the estate for the time being, without reference to the mode in which he may have acquired the ownership.

In addition to these changes, several formal and verbal alterations have been introduced, and the provisions of the two former Acts have been consolidated.

No. 370.—In continuation of Government General Order No. 1060 of 23rd December 1864, and in accordance with instructions received from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, His Excellency the Governor General in Council is pleased to lay down the following revised scale of consolidated salaries for Officers of Her Majesty's Indian Medical Service.

2. The number of Medical Officers allowed for each Presidency town with its immediate suburbs, and the allotment of duties amongst them, are based on the recommendations of the Commission appointed to take this subject into consideration ; but it will be open to the local Governments to modify the proposed allotment of duties, in such manner as from time to time may seem most desirable, with reference to the convenience of the service, provided the prescribed number of Officers and the aggregate of salaries is not exceeded.

3. The appointments of Presidency Surgeons in Calcutta will eventually cease to exist, the duties being performed by the several Medical Officers holding appointments at the Presidency who are not debarred from private practice. These Officers will be required to attend those servants of Government entitled to gratuitous aid, who may seek their services, and also to serve in rotation as Members of Standing and other Medical Committees.

4. Present incumbents of these or other appointments which it is proposed to abolish or absorb, will not necessarily be affected at present, and during the gradual introduction of the new arrangements, the cases of any Medical Officers who are unable to take up the whole of the duties assigned to them, will be individually and specially considered.

5. Officers holding the appointments marginally noted, are debarred private practice.

Principals of Medical Colleges.
Principal Medical Storekeepers
Resident Medical Officers in Colleges and Hospitals
Secretaries and Statistical Officers to Inspectors-General.
Secretaries Sanitary Commissioners.
Examiners, Medical Accounts.

This Rule will not however, be enforced in the case of any present incumbents who may have received authoritative permission to engage in such practice.

6. Medical Officers holding appointments at the Presidency, and not provided with public quarters, will be granted Presidency house-rent according to relative rank, and on the scale granted to Officers of the Staff Corps holding appointments at the Presidency towns.

The grant of Presidency house-rent is limited, however, to salaries not exceeding Rupees 1,400 per mensem.

7. The allotment of Civil Stations and Residency charges to their respective classes will be notified hereafter.

8. In order to render this scale of Indian Medical salaries more complete, the salaries of the administrative appointments and regimental charges already provided for in Government General Orders No. 1060 of 1864 and No. 901 of 1863, have been included.

9. Officers of the Indian Medical Service will be on the same footing as Military Staff Officers as regards pay and allowances to be drawn while absent on leave,—the pay of their rank as laid down in paragraph 29 of Government General Order No. 1060 of 23rd December 1864, being in all cases taken as the basis of the calculation of the moiety due to the absentee and to the Officer officiating—present incumbents being allowed the privilege of receiving, during such absence, either the allowance thus due to them under the Military Regulations under the revised scale of Regimental pay and Staff salary, or that to which they would have been entitled under the old scale both of pay and staff allowance.

10. The scale of salaries now sanctioned will be brought into operation from the 13th of November 1866, the date of the receipt of the instructions of the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, and be made to apply in all cases where there is no reduction in the present aggregate salary.

11. Present incumbents whether drawing the old regimental rate of pay with, or the new regimental rate of pay without, Staff salary, will have the option of retaining such rates, if more beneficial than those now ordered, except in cases where the salaries have been specially fixed, pending the revision now brought into effect.

Condition of the District of Singbhoom in connection with the Famine.

Memorandum from E. T. DALTON, Esq., Commissioner of Chota Nagpore,—(No. 588, dated the 22nd March 1867.)

COPY of the foregoing correspondence submitted through the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, for the information of the Board with reference to Government Memorandum No. 532, dated 8th February 1867.

From T. B. LANE, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 565M., dated the 29th March 1867.)

I AM directed to submit, for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor, copy of a memorandum No. 588, dated 22nd instant, from Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, and to suggest that it may be published for general information.

From W. H. HAYES, Esq., Deputy Commissioner of Singbhoom, to the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore,—(No. 35, dated the 28th February 1867.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your circular memorandum No. 268, dated 20th instant, annexing Government letter of the 4th idem, on the subject of obtaining accurate and constant information of the condition and prospects of the District in connection with distress. I beg to state that from personal and careful enquiries I have been assured that there is nothing to fear, where the pressure of high prices of grain was being felt. I have reported in my letter of the 20th instant the measures that have been taken to find employment for the poor, which the people pronounce sufficient to take them to the sowing time, when plenty more work will occur. In some places in the District it would appear labourers seem averse to availing themselves of work that can be had, as I have just been informed that the Patnaique at Huldipokur, who is prepared to expend 240 maunds of Paddy on the preparation of some lands, cannot get any labourers. The Zemindars have assured me that they will readily make loans of grain to their cultivators if it is necessary, and that if there is any difficulty this year it will not occur before Shrabun or July, and then only if the rains fail about sowing time. I feel, however, so impressed with the changeableness of opinion on such matters that before I received your memorandum under reply I had written to the Zemindars, desiring to be early informed of any change for the worse, there are no exportations of paddy from my District, the tendency is among those who possess money to buy in as much as they can for the reason that the market is expected to get dear, the stock of this grain therefore will be more than sufficient for the requirements of the District.

Measures taken for the Relief of Distress in Nuddea.

From T. B. LANE, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 492M. dated the 20th March 1867.)

I AM directed to forward, for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor, copy of a letter, with enclosures, from the Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

From R. B. CHAPMAN, Esq., Officiating Commissioner of the Presidency Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 140Ct., dated the 15th March 1867.)

IN continuation of my No. 72Ct., dated 15th March, and in reply to Board's Order No. 100B., dated 8th January, I have the honor to submit the accompanying succinct, but interesting, report by Lord Ulick Browne, of the measures taken for the relief of the distress arising from the scarcity in Nuddea last year.

2. The separate communication referred to in Lord Ulick Browne's 20th paragraph (being a Report upon the extent to which zemindars and others assisted the people), has been laid before the Government, by whom it had been originally called for.

3. I need not add much to Lord Ulick Browne's Report. I think it shews that the scarcity in Nuddea though severe was not famine, and that the measures taken for the relief of the distress which it caused, were energetic and efficient. I know that Mr. Dampier has a very high opinion of the intelligence and zeal with which Lord Ulick Browne exerted himself throughout the year, and in this opinion I quite concur. Upon the separate Report I have already spoken of, I expressed my high appreciation of the labors of the various private gentlemen who assisted Lord Browne.

4. I learn from the Reverend Mr. Schurr that at the depot at Kapasdanga he expended altogether in money and kind Rupees 6,382, besides the money allotted to him by the Central Committee at Kishnagur. This Rupees 6,382 was supplied to him by the Reverend E. C. Stuart and others from Calcutta, and was spent chiefly in the relief of the Native Christian population of the neighbourhood either gratuitously or in return for labor.

5. Although Lord Browne's Report bears a somewhat old date, it only reached me yesterday evening, and the Memorandum which accompanies it must be nearly a month old.

6. I do not feel it necessary to suggest that any provision should be made now for any State relief in this district during the current year. Should serious distress unexpectedly return, the means of relieving it will be no doubt forthcoming, but I do not anticipate that there will be any great suffering this year.

7. Since Lord Ulick wrote his Memorandum the price of rice has fallen in this district, and it has still a downward tendency. I intend, as already promised, to submit shortly a full report upon the whole subject, but as I have been in this district for the last two months and have made many enquiries, I can, so far as Nuddea is concerned, foretell its purport to some extent at once.

8. The ous or early crop was, as is well known to the Board, unusually abundant: it is the main staff of this district. The aman rice so important in Bengal generally, is exceptionally unimportant here: this crop did, undoubtedly, fail to a considerable extent for want of moisture. The cold weather crops speaking generally have been fine, though much of the grain (of which a large breadth was sown) was destroyed by insects just at the time of its greatest promise, and some of the oil seeds suffered, though to a less degree, from the same cause.

9. Upon the whole, the produce of the district has been ample for its wants. The stocks of the dealers had, however, run low; and they have been much alarmed by the occurrences of the last year; the ryots, too, had got deeply into the mahajan's books. The consequence is that a good deal of the produce has passed into the hands of these dealers, and the ryots have not much of their own to come and go upon. The district stores have, however, been replenished, and though a natural anxiety, not yet subsided, keeps prices high, the food is there and will be forthcoming in case of need.

10. It follows that there is no fear of famine, though there may be distress among the non-producing classes.

11. As to the tract of country referred to by Lord Browne in his Memorandum, I have ridden through it. The aman crop there occupies, for this district, an unusually prominent place in the resources of the cultivators, and its failure, therefore, affects them rather seriously. As I passed along, the people were all busy gathering in a fine cold-weather harvest of barley, grain and such like crops. Perhaps their hearts were cheered by their immediate occupation, but, at any rate, I could not hear of any distress or any serious anxiety. Though the people expected "rather hard times" for the last month or two before next harvest.

12. Mr. Schurr told me that he had, himself, considerably abandoned the apprehension to which Lord Browne refers.

13. The price of labour, meanwhile, is so high in the neighbouring district of Jessore, that the Magistrate has been unable to get the usual cold-weather repairs of the roads done. A common cooly, he tells me, is earning six annas a day, and a cart Rupees 20 a month on the Goalundo extension of the Eastern Bengal Railway, and labour is not to be had in the district. It would be obviously inexpedient to attempt the artificial employment of labour in this district under such circumstances.

14. Return of the original enclosure is requested.

From Lord H. Ulick Browne, Magistrate and Collector of Nuddea, and Officiating Additional Judge of Jessore and Nuddea, to the Commissioner of the Presidency Division,—
(No. 368, dated the 28th February 1867.)

At the request of the Officiating Magistrate, I have the honor to submit the Report and Statement called for in the letter from the Board of Revenue, No. 100B., dated the 8th ultimo, received with your Memorandum No. 105, dated the 10th idem. I have been unable to do so before, as all the papers connected with Relief Operations were wanted in connection with the requirements of the Famine Commissioners.

2. A Relief Committee was formed at Kishnaghur on May 9th, 1866. It was composed of Mr. W. F. McDonell as President, the Reverend C. H. Blumhardt, Dr. F. J. Earle, Baboo Judoonauth Roy, Baboo Doorgapersad Ghose, and myself as members, and Mr. G. Graham as Secretary.

Sub-Committees were formed at all the Sub-divisions but Kooshtea, at Santipore, and at two or three other places.

3. The proceedings of these Committees had reference to charitable relief alone, i. e., the relief of those unable to work regularly at roads, tanks, &c.

Relief works for those (whether men, women, or children,) who were stronger and able to work tolerably well, were conducted by myself as Magistrate, with the assistance of my official subordinates and many European and Native gentlemen

4. With regard to charitable relief the following principal relief depôts were formed by degrees as the distress increased.

In Kishnaghur and its immediate neighbourhood 5, in other parts of the Kishnaghur Sub-division 5, in Chooadangah 4, in Ranaghat 6, in Meherpore 2, in Kooshtea 1, in Bongong 1.

The Reverend F. Schurr managed a large depôt at Kapasdangah, chiefly through subscriptions he received from Calcutta.

In addition to the above there were several minor depôts scattered about the district, i. e., gentlemen aided the Committee by distributing relief at their residences when the latter happened to be at a distance from large depots.

There were altogether, great and small, about 40 centres of relief in the district.

5. The system of relief was to give so much rice and 1 pice wherewith to buy some pulse or vegetable to each person daily. At first relief was given in money alone at some places, but as soon as arrangements could be made in each case, the first mentioned plan was introduced.

The only exception, as long as it lasted, was at Nischindpore, where Mr. Hills gave 1 pice each to a great number of persons. The proceedings of this gentleman were not under the control of the Relief Committees or the Magistrate, money being sent to Mr. Hills under the orders of Government. It was, however, found necessary to stop the indiscriminate distribution of relief at Nischindpore.

6. The number of persons relieved from first to last by charitable relief was 601,123, it being understood that one person relieved for three days counts as three persons.

7. The great majority of the people who received charitable relief having suffered months of privation, were so weak and in many cases so emaciated that no work could be required from them, as the majority were of the coolly classes and understood nothing that did not involve moderately hard labor. Where, however, it was practicable, some light labor, such as husking rice for a short time and spinning thread or helping others who did the most difficult part of the spinning, was required by the distributor of relief. But in every case, however, what was required, was demanded merely as a check on undeserving applicants and fully answered its purpose. In the worst part of the district, it was only necessary to look at the applicants for relief and no test was required throughout the operations. I continually impressed on those in charge of depôts the necessity of referring more able bodied of both sexes to the relief works, and in this way there was little chance of getting any return from the amount expended in charitable relief.

8. There was comparatively little distress among any but the lowest class, and consequently little necessity for peculiar and indirect modes of relief. There were a few cases in which employment in spinning was given to respectable women, and in a very few instances they were relieved gratuitously for a short time. But the principal operation of this nature was conducted at Kishnaghur where, at the recommendation of Baboo Judoonath Roy, some distressed weavers were assisted in the following manner:—Food and a little money was given to them in return for their labor at their own trade with materials supplied by the Relief Committee, and under the able superintendence of the Baboo, the operation was very successful. The cloth thus made was sold when the market was favourable, and the entire expenditure was realized, so that 300 people were well supported for two months without any ultimate cost whatever.

9. With regard to relief works, these were commenced before any charitable relief was distributed. I suspended operations during the Doorga Poojah holidays, as I felt sure that private charity would do whatever was necessary while the festival lasted. The works were resumed on 5th November in a few places as the necessity of this was unmistakeable, and the last of the money is now being expended in finishing some works of great public benefit.

10. The amount expended on relief works under my instructions was Rupees 40,006 The number of men, women, and children employed up to date was 337,059, the principal of calculation being the same as in paragraph 6, and when the last Rupee shall have been expended the total will probably amount to another 8,000.

11. In addition to the above, a sum of Rupees 22,962 was expended at my recommendation from the Imperial Public Works Funds in repairing the Imperial Road to Moorshedabad between Kishnaghur and the boundary of this district, as the road lies in a tract of country that had suffered intensely owing to the loss of the early ous crop of 1866, in addition to the misfortunes of 1865. This gave employment to 94,406 persons.

12. I am informed by the Executive Engineers that there were no other works specially undertaken in consequence of the distress, but a large sum was spent on the feeder-roads out of Local Public Works Funds, which must have aided materially in alleviating local distress.

13. The relief works consisted of repairs and construction of roads, tanks, and bunds. The first object was to provide employment for those in distress without requiring them to go to any great distance from their houses, and that being carefully borne in mind, the next object was to get as good a return for the expenditure as possible. It so happened that there was a good field for improvement at each of the principal centres of distress, so that no money was expended in one place which I should have preferred to spend at another, no wholesale contractors were employed; the work people were paid direct, generally by a daily wages which varied according to sex and age from 3 to 10 pice, but sometimes by task work. Payment in food was attempted once or twice, but it was found that the charitable relief gave quite enough to do in that respect, and money payments prevailed every where.

14. The value of the work done in proportion to the money expended varied considerably according to the nature and degree of supervision in each case, and to the bodily condition of the people employed. I made every effort to secure payment being made in the presence of the gentleman superintending the works, and speaking generally it was made accordingly, though sometimes, and especially in the case of Baboo Judoonath Roy and Mr. Blumhardt, the daily assemblage of numbers of persons at a private residence was a decided inconvenience.

Of course much depended on the bodily state of work people. Where there had been much distress for some months little work could be expected, and the physical condition of many at the worst places was such that no one would have thought of employing them at such labor under ordinary circumstances.

On the whole, I think the return may be estimated at about half what it would have been, had none but able-bodied men been employed.

15. One point in connection with the scarcity deserves notice and that is, how the laws of supply and demand, so sure in their working in civilized countries with complete and easy system of communications, failed to overcome prejudice on part of the people generally against engaging in any unusual undertaking, and combination on part of grain dealers. Those who watched the grain market were enabled to see beyond a doubt that during the worst months there was an artificial increase of price in some places beyond the effects of the scarcity solely owing to the above mentioned causes.

16. For some time there was a difference of 10 annas a maund in the price of rice, not only of the same quality generally, but exactly the same, and bearing the same name at Kishnaghur, and at a place 10 miles off with good means of communication; at the outside the cost of transport from one place to another would have been 2 annas a maund, leaving a handsome margin for profit until prices became more equal, but though the difference was well known and a subject of loud complaint in the dearer place, no one thought of undertaking even a trifling speculation : " It was not the custom."

17. At one time I advised a number of persons connected with the Courts, such as Vakeels, Omlah, and Mooktears, who were constantly complaining of the prices charged by the grain dealers of Kishnaghur, to combine and get enough rice to provide themselves and their families from Kooshtea or elsewhere, and thus become independent of the dealers. For a long time nothing was done, but at last an enterprising Mooktear having first applied to me, (of course unsuccessfully) for a loan from the Government or Relief Committee's funds, took the matter in hand, and the first importation caused a fall in the market of 12 annas a maund.

18. On the Relief Committee importing some rice, the Kishnaghur dealers offered to take it all at whatever price was necessary to give the Committee a clear profit of 2 annas a maund, so keen was their anxiety that no one should possess a seer of rice that had not passed through their hands.

19. With regard to the enquiry of the Board as to whether any measures of relief will be necessary during the current year. On the whole I do not think that such measures will be necessary, but I beg to enclose an extract from a Memorandum with which I handed over to the Officiating Magistrate a letter from Mr. Schurr, who fully anticipates distress in his neighbourhood, owing to a local failure of crops, in about two months time. I think it would be prudent to include in the Board's estimates a sum of Rupees 25,000 for relief works in this district in case they should be found necessary hereafter.

20. I have already reported, in reply to a separate requisition, the names of the persons of all classes who chiefly aided in relieving distress, and have recorded the obligations I am under to several gentlemen, official and non-official, European and Native, for their valuable and energetic assistance during a time of much trouble and anxiety.

Having seen Mr. Tower's Report, and also having considered the rise in price of food since the last month, this is what I think and recommend.

(2.) I do not think that after the good crops that have been general in the district (though there were failures in particular localities), there will be anything like the distress there was last year, unless of course the early crop should fail this year. But from what Messrs. Schurr and Towers say, there is likely to be some distress a little later in the particular locality referred to in this correspondence.

(3.) In my tour I only saw the village of Chaprah out of all those falling in the line of proposed road, and the condition of the people there was quite satisfactory. But the villages referred to by Messrs. Towers and Schurr are some miles from Chaprah and the state of things there may well be different.

(4.) Again, Mr. Towers reports the failure of one kind of cold-weather crop in the part of his Sub-division furtherest from that referred to by Mr. Schurr.

(5.) There is, too, still a difficulty in getting employment in many places.

(6.) Lastly, the price of common rice is higher now than it was a month ago.

(7.) Altogether it does not seem unlikely that there may be distress in particular localities in two or three months' time and relief works may be necessary, though I doubt if they will. In reply to an enquiry from the Board, I shall recommend that a sum of Rupees 25,000 be included in their estimates for relief works in this district in case they should be found necessary hereafter.

From H. L. Harrison, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 1293, dated the 29th March 1867.)

With reference to your letter No. 492M., dated the 20th instant, and its enclosure, I am directed to request that the Board will be so good as to convey, through the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, to Lord H. U. Browne and to the other gentlemen mentioned, the best thanks of Government for their active, generous, and successful exertions in relieving distress during the recent scarcity in the Nuddea District.

On the Distress in Chota Nagpore.

From T. B. Lane, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 518M., dated the 25th March 1867.)

Sir,

I am directed to submit, for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor, copy of a letter from the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore and its enclosure, and to request that they may be published for general information.

From Colonel E. T. Dalton, Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, to T. B. Lane, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 448, dated the 12th March 1867.)

Sir,

With reference to paragraph 4 of your letter No. 434B. of the 23rd January 1867, I have the honor to submit for the Board's information a full report by Lieutenant R. C. Money on the famine relief operations undertaken in his district during the past year.

2. The report appears to me to embrace all matters on which the Board need information, and I see no occasion to add any thing to it on my own account or to comment on it. In regard to the action of my own office, I reported fully to Mr. Dampier, as Famine Commissioner, in November last, and on the 9th instant submitted a report on the whole subject to the Government.

3. I have already repeatedly brought to notice the active and benevolent exertions of the Maunbhom Relief Committee, and have had the satisfaction of conveying to them the approbation of the Government and the Board, I would now add that both as District Officer during the most trying season and as President of the Relief Committee, Lieutenant R. C. Money discharged his duties to my entire satisfaction, and I have great pleasure in bringing his merits to the favorable notice of the Board and Government.

4. The report from Singbhoom was submitted with my letter No. 223 of the 11th ultimo. In regard to the Hazareebaugh and Lohardugga Districts there is nothing to add to the particulars given in my general report No. 2161, dated 13th October 1866, except the separately annexed Statements shewing the receipts and expenditures in Burhee, Maunbhoom and Hazareebaugh, and brief reports from Major Boddam and Mr. A. G. Wilson.

Report on Famine in Maunbhoom.

The cause of the famine in Maunbhoon is briefly as follows:—

Maunbhoom is a district from which grain is freely exported, but into which it is never imported. The exports are chiefly rice and lac, the imports, English cotton goods, salt and tobacco. The roads by which grain leaves the district are chiefly viz. Hazareebaug, Midnapore and Raneegunge. The ryots, as a rule, are deeply indebted to the local Mohajuns, comparatively few of them are sufficiently provident to retain seed for the sowing of their fields, and have, in consequence to borrow from the Mohajuns under promise of repayment at harvest time with interest, varying from 100 to 150 per cent. It therefore follows that a large portion of yearly harvest falls into the hands of Mohajuns, by whom it is stored or exported. To obtain money to pay their rents, the ryots also sell to Beparees a portion of their grain which is by them exported.

In 1863 and 1864, although there was no regular failure of crops the harvest was not considered good, and was less plentiful than usual; owing to this and to the fact that unusually large quantities of grain were exported after the Cyclone to those parts of Bengal which had suffered from it (this district having entirely escaped,) there was very little grain in store in Maunbhoom at the commencement of 1865.

In 1865 the crops generally all over the district failed. The causes were various. In some places the failure was entirely owing to short rain-fall and a disease called "kurkur," in other to kurkur alone, and in some parts of the south-east where there had been no failure of rain and where the crops appeared to promise well, a small white worm attacked them as they were ripening and regularly cut them down. Thus from one cause or other hardly any portion of the district escaped without serious loss of crop. It is very difficult to ascertain correctly what the real loss at each spot was. It varied from 4 to 12 annas more or loss and may be calculated all round at more than half of the regular harvest. The greatest loss was experienced in Burrabhoom, Raipore, and those parts of the south-east of the district which are bordered by Midnapore and Singbhoom.

The first indication that distress was impending was afforded by petitions from Zemindars at the close of 1865, requesting that exportation might be stopped. More Beparees than usual came into the district towards the end of 1865 and very large quantities of grain were exported. Petitions on this subject were at once forwarded to the Commissioner and short of forbidding exportation, every step was taken to induce the Zemindars and land-owners to do all in their power to discourage it. This, however, had no effect, and I believe that half of the actual harvest of 1865, small as it was, was carried out of the district, leaving barely 4 annas in the country, if as much. The Beparees who came into the district vid Bancoorah told me they were forbidden to take grain from that district by the Magistrate and therefore more of them than usual came into Maunbhoom. This I reported to the Commisrioner and reference being made, it appeared that the Magistrate of Bancoorah had issued no orders on the subject. It was, however, a fact that for some reason or other, an unusual number of Beparees did come into Maunbhoom.

It had been determined in 1865 that in January 1866 a District Agricultural show should be held in Puruliah prior to the Divisional shew to be held in February at Ranchee.

Judging from the indications I have above alluded to that there would most probably be a famine in the district in 1866, I in December 1865 proposed that the District Agricultural show should be postponed till times of greater prosperity. The Commissioner accordingly sanctioned the postponement of the Agricultural show.

I had but little chance of judging of the state of the district during my winter tour, as I had not been long in camp when I was summoned to Calcutta, my child having cholera. After this I had to take leave and was absent for some little time from the district. Shortly after my return from leave, I found that crime was increasing in the south-east of the district most alarmingly, that the prevalent offence was grain dacoity, and that it was very evident those who committed such offences did so in the hopes of getting food to save their lives.

I was convinced that it was a matter of urgent necessity that relief should be given, and I gave notice to the Zemindars that I wished them to come in and meet me and other residents in Puruliah in order that we might take into consideration what steps were necessary to give assistance to the people.

The meeting was held on May 21st at the Circuit House, Puruliah. The attendance of the Zemindars was, I regret, small, only Rajah Radha Kissen Singh, of Burrabhoom, Rajah Kassinath Singh, of Joypore, Juggernath Singh, Zemindar of Beygoonkodar, Domun Sing Maukee, of Torang, Hitteshur Dhul of Soopore and Annund Singh Thakoor, of Mahta, being present. There was but one opinion expressed at this meeting, viz., that it was necessary to give assistance to the famine stricken.

I proposed that a subscription list should be opened, and that with the funds collected, dhan should be imported and sold at different depôts to be opened throughout the district at low rates, and that when we saw the working of this plan we could, if necessary, commence gratuitous relief.

My idea was, and I still think it would have been the best for the district, that by importing dhan and enabling the petty farmers to get it at very low rates, we should secure the cultivation of the usual amount of land and also induce the Mohajuns and Moodees, who were then generally believed to have large stores of grain, to throw them open, and advance grain, and thus food would be brought within the reach of all. This view being opposed by Mr. Dacosta, Principal Sudder Ameen, who proposed that public works should be commenced, on which the starving classes could be employed; the two propositions were put to the vote and the majority of the meeting being in favor of public works, Mr. Dacosta's proposition was agreed on.

The Board of Revenue approved of Mr. Dacosta's proposition in opposition to mine.

A committee composed as follows was then appointed to carry out the plan of relief adopted, viz.:—

Captain Judge ...
Mr. Onasch ...
„ Dacosta ...
Baboo Nobeen Chunder Paul ... } Members.

Myself, President and Secretary.

The working committee commenced business on the 22nd May.

At that meeting I informed the committee that the subscription promised amounted to Rupees 3,000, and that we might count on Rupees 5,000 in all from the district. In addition to this Colonel Dalton, the Commissioner, promised a monthly subscription of Rupees 200.

It was determined that a road should be opened between Raipore and Ambica Nagur and work commenced at five Stations, at each of which 100 men and 100 women were to be employed daily.

The anticipation of the committee then was that their operations would have to be carried on during the next three months at least, and that with the funds in their hands this was all that they could do.

In accordance with this, arrangements were immediately made and the five Stations opened. This plan of road-making did not answer, and it was but natural to expect that it would not, starving people cannot work satisfactorily and will go no distance to try and get employment. These five Stations were kept opened throughout the relief operations, but the number who went for work was always small, being below the 200 estimated for at each Station, and the relief afforded by this means was but little. Finding it necessary to have more extended and effectual means of relief, on the 30th May I brought to the notice of the committee the necessity for giving away food and on that day it was determined to open depôts for gratuitous distribution of rice at Burrabhoom, Ambica Nuger, Phoolkoosma, Raipore and Soopore, at each of which depôts 150 were daily to receive half seer of rice.

More depôts, could, with advantage have been opened, but the committee were limited in funds.

To carry out this plan as effectually as possible, I placed these depôts under the management of the Zemindar at each place, and sent to them by the hands of Mr. McDougal, Inspector of Police, full instructions as to the manner in which the depôts were to be worked. Mr. McDougal was directed to explain these instructions at each place and see them carried out.

From the reports received distress seemed most severe about Burra Bazar, I therefore directed Captain Judge to proceed there and enquire into the state of the people, and gave him Rupees 500 to use as, on arrival, he might deem best Captain Judge opened a road with this money from Burra Bazar towards Puruliah. This work like all the others of similar nature, proved a great failure.

At a meeting held on the 4th June, provisions were made for this road being constructed, and 250 employed on it daily. At this meeting I brought to the notice of the committee that our expenses were then about Rupees 100 daily, and that the means at our disposal would not accomplish one twentieth of what was needed.

On 25th June I proposed opening depôts at Bagmoondee and Torang, which was done. Distress was now rapidly increasing and cholera was appearing all over the district, and from several Pergunnahs reports were received of deaths from starvation and cholera. The number of paupers who were daily flocking into the Station rendering it necessary that some steps should be taken to provide for them, I proposed that a depôt be opened at Puruliah, and this was agreed on. It was also agreed to erect a shed for the beggars who would come to this depôt.

At this meeting it was determined to open a leper fund, but this plan dropped as the lepers were provided for at the depôt.

The Reverend Mr. Onasch, German Lutheran Missionary, kindly consented to take the management of the Purulia depôt at which raw rice was given to the applicants.

The committee at this meeting made an earnest appeal to the Government through the Commissioner for a large grant, as they considered the distress in Manbhoom not less than that in Midnapore, and were of opinion that the present arrangements were not only inadequate to the wants of the district, but such as they were, could not be carried out without Government aid.

On the 23rd of June I received Rupees 2,000 from the Board of Revenue, and at a meeting held on that date I was enabled to tell the committee that I had also received a letter from Secretary to the Board of Revenue saying that Rupees 3,000 would immediately be sent for the fund and on the same day I got another letter saying that 5,000 maunds of grain would be sent via Burrakur for the Manbhoom District.

On 28th June I brought to the notice of the committee the advisability of substituting cooked for raw food at the depôts and this was carried out. Having received bad accounts from Govindpore Sub-division, I brought this also to the notice of the committee, who passed Rupees 500 to be sent to Mr. Yardly, Assistant Commissioner in charge, to be expended in giving relief The balance in hand at this date was only Rupees 473 The Rupees 3,000 had not been received from the Board, and the committee felt greatly crippled for the want of funds. At this time not being able to go into the interior myself owing to the heavy press of criminal work and necessity for speedy disposal of grain cases, so as to keep down the number in an overcrowded Jail, I asked Mr. Onasch to go, and he kindly did so.

At this time I also opened a road from Manbazar to Puruliah, so as to give work to those who would take it.

The funds at the diposal of the committee being so low, on the Commissioner's suggestion I took over all road-making from the committee and carried it on out of the local road fund. These works should properly be debited to relief operations, as they cannot be looked on in any way as works; they are, however, all shewn on the district road accounts.

On the 4th July the grant of three thousand Rupees from the Board was received, and it came only just in time.

On the 5th July the committee determined to open a relief depôt at Manbazar, which was accordingly done, and to purchase 500 maunds of dhan and send it to Umbica Nugger, which was also done.

On the 17th July I received Rupee 3,000 more from the Board.

At this time the number receiving daily gratuitous relief in the district was only 1,900.

On the 18th July the first instalment of Government rice came into the Station.

On the 22nd July I called a special meeting to take into consideration the necessity for starting a relief Hospital in Puruliah, and this was accordingly done.

By this time Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal, who had come to the Station, was in the committee.

At this meeting I also brought to the notice of the committee the necessity for doing something for orphans, and accordingly an orphanage was started, the management of which was kindly undertaken by Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal.

On 3rd August I proposed to the committee that the number of depôts be raised to ten and each put under management of paid establishments. This was agreed on, the depôts to be kept up being—

Puruliah, Burra Bazar.

Maun Bazar, Raipore.

Umbica Nugger, Joypore.

Soopoor, Heshla and Govindpore.

By this time it had been agreed that all who applied at the depôts and who were in need should be fed.

By August the number who came into the depôts had largely increased, it was now that the famine was being felt with the greatest severity; in this month and September the deaths by starvation were heaviest. This was, I fear, enhanced by the rains cutting off for many days together communication between the depôts and the villages near, and thus preventing the people going to them.

The geopraphical features of the district are such that to afford effectual assistance during the rains, it would have been necessary to have had a depôt in almost every village in the south-east of Maunbhoom.

From May to November my time was exclusively taken up in trying dacoity cases under the Sessions power vested in me under Act XV. of 1861, that I found it very difficult to give to relief operations the time I wished and it was impossible for me to make any tour of the depots. In this period I tried myself 800 dacoits and the time of my Assistants was equally taken up with trying cases of theft, of which there were very many more than usual. The Puruliah Jail in which there is only room for 200 prisoners, now held over 400; cholera in July appeared in the Bazar, and every effort had to be made by the prompt decision of cases and flogging of those convicted to keep down the number in jail. Notwithstanding all the efforts of the local officers, the number in jail rose to 500, but I am glad to say there were only seven deaths of cholera in it.

The necessity for further assistance so as to enable me to give more time to relief operations which were in themselves in my opinion the most important duty devolving on me as District Officer, was much felt by me at this time and brought to the notice of the Commissioner. In connection with the famine and consequent increase of work no extra assistance was given to the District Officer. There were in fact fewer officers available for work than there had been in 1865, as Mr. Westland was transferred from the district in August last, and Mr. Weeks, who returned from leave on 9th August, was ill the greater part of the time he was in the Station.

As the proceedings of the committee were weekly forwarded to the Board, it is needless to make a precis of them. They shew that the committee was at first constantly short of funds and often in debt, but that remittances were continually sent by the Board. That the number fed steadily increased up to October. That new depots were constantly being opened, till there were at last twenty-five of them in the district under the committee and three private ones, to two of which, viz, Jheriah and Pandra, Government grain was supplied.

It may here be noticed that the 6,000 maunds of grain, 3,500 of rice and 2,500 of dhal sent by the Board, 5,000 vid Burrakur and 1,000 vid Bancoorah, suffered much from the heavy rains and from having to be brought a distance of forty miles over bad road with unbridged rivers in country carts when the rains were at their height. The rice sent to Burrakur first got damp in the Railway in transit owing to leaky vans, as there was no available godown in Burrakur, it got further damp there, and while in transit which took several weeks, it got still more damp. The result was that a portion of this rice was rotted. All that did thus become rotten was carefully separated from the rest of the rice and sent to the jail garden for manure, but a resident in the Station was seen by the guard over the rice to take away portions of the rotten stuff in a basket, and shortly after this the chief Calcutta journals had samples of rotten rice sent to them as specimens of the stuff with which the Puruliah Committee, acting under my orders, were wilfully propagating cholera in Maunbhoom. The most noticeable thing in the matter of "the Puruliah Rotten Rice" was the gullibility of the Editors of the Calcutta periodicals who could so promptly believe what to most people must have borne falsehood on its face, and thus allow themselves to be made tools to vent private malice,

The loss of rice sustained by its getting damp was unavoidable, every precaution was taken, but considering the difficulties that had to be contended with, it reached Puruliah as well as could be expected.

The working of all the depots in the district were as much as was possible entrusted to the resident Zemindars and Police. A mohurir and establishment of pyadahs, cooks and servants being kept up at each by the committee. Taking them all in all these depots worked well and fully answered the wishes of the committee regarding them. There can, however, be no doubt that had a special officer been appointed, it would have been beneficial. There is little more to notice, especially in the proceeding of the committee. The only application they made which was actually not complied with was that made on 19th September for a special officer to superintend the depots. I was ultimately authorized, if necessary, to entertain paid supervision, but this was just what in Maunbhoom it was impossible to get, and it was too late then to make any arrangement for an efficient paid supervising officer to be obtained from elsewhere.

I append three Tables which give the statistics of the relief operations, one shewing depots opened and number relieved at each; another the expenditure, and the third, mortality in the district. I also enclose a copy of answer to some of Mr. Dampier's questions as they contain information which may be useful.

I would take the opportunity of bringing to the notice of the Board the assistance given to me by the Reverend Mr. Onasch, German Lutheran Mission, and by Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal. The former gentleman from the first has had the management of the Puruliah depot and Hospital, they were both, with his permission, opened on the mission ground and not far from his private residence. When, however, cholera broke out and it was considered unhealthy to collect such large masses of sickly people near the Bazar, the depot was removed to a spot about half mile from Mr Onasch's house, the Hospital remaining on the mission ground. Daily Mr. Onasch visited the depot at feeding time, no inclemency of weather deterring him from doing so, during the greatest heat of the hot weather or the heaviest rains, he was always there at mid-day, and morning and evening he was to be found in the Hospital, looking after the comforts of the poor dying creatures around him.

The management of both depot and Hospital has, I believe, been as perfect as could be, and I would allude to Dr. Sutherland's report in support of this. This result has been, I consider, solely owing to Mr. Onasch's untiring energy and the able manner in which he has carried out a self-imposed duty.

When it is remembered that this gentleman being at the head of the Puruliah Mission, had many other duties to perform, it will be seen that the work he undertook in connection with the relief operations, must have pressed very heavily on him, and I trust that he will receive the thanks of Government for conduct which has won for Mr. Onasch the respect of all classes in Puruliah, both among the Native and European population.

Baboo Issur Chunder Ghosal from the first took charge of the orphanage. It was opened on his own premises, and it was not till the number of children became too many for the accommodation he could give that I had to hire other houses, the whole remained in Baboo Ghosal's charge and his management has been everything that could be wished. The charitable feeling which induced this gentleman to undertake this charge and the manner in which he has carried it out cannot be too highly praised, and will, I hope, be noticed by Government.

I would also wish to notice the conduct of Mr. Wilson, Medical Officer, who since his appointment to Maunbhoom has daily visited the Hospital and prescribed for the sick, a pleasing contrast to the conduct of his predecessor, who did not go near the Hospital unless specially requested to do so. The liberality of the Ranee of Pandra and also that of the Jheriah Zemindar, who fed many of the starving people on their estates, should also be noticed; I should also mention that Mr. Ducas, Executive Engineer, opened a depot at Burrakur at which about 300 were fed daily for about three months.

In conclusion I would observe that whatever the public opinion may be as to the sufficiency or otherwise of Government aid, there is but one opinion held by the people in the district, viz., that under no other Raj would such extensive relief operations have been undertaken, and that the relief given has been instrumental in saving the lives of thousands.

From Major H. M. Boddam, Deputy Commissioner of Hazareebaugh, to the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore,—(No. 159, dated the 19th February 1867.)

Sir,

With reference to your memorandum No. 7A., without date, forwarding copy of letter No. 101B., from Secretary, Board of Revenue, to your address, I have the honor to forward herewith the Statement called for, together with a report from Mr. A. Wilson, Deputy Magistrate of Burhee, detailing the manner in which the sums made over to him were expended.

I have already reported to you in full the operations of the Relief Committee in the Sudder Sub-division of Hazareebaugh by letter No. 636, dated 6th October 1866, to which report I have only to add that in October 1866 Rupees 1380-3 were expended in providing food for the poor and destitute.

The following Members founded the Relief Committee and commenced their work from 1st August 1866:—Colonel Baumgartner, C. B, Commanding at Hazareebaugh, Reverend H. Moule, Chaplain, Reverend H Batsh, Singhanee Mission, Surgeon-Major Thompson, Her Majesty's 27th, Surgeon S. Delpratt, Civil Surgeon, with myself as Secretary and Treasurer.

From A. G. Wilson, Esq., Deputy Magistrate of Burhee, to Major H. M. Boddam, Deputy Commissioner of Hazareebaugh,—(No. 27, dated the 12th February 1867.)

Sir,

I have the honor, in compliance with the request contained in your memoranda Nos. 27 and 72 of the 14th January and 6th instant, consecutively, to forward herewith an account of the expenditure of the Rupees 1,000 assigned for the relief of the suffering poor in this Division.

2. I likewise beg to submit a Statement of the number of persons relieved, the quantity of grain distributed to the poor and the sum expended on the purchase thereof.

3. You will perceive that I had a balance of Rupees 138-7-3 in my hands on the 31st December last, of this sum 10 annas has been expended in January 1867.

4. The chief distress was amongst the inhabitants living on or in the neighbourhood of the Grand Trunk Road, and although I could have wished to have sent a greater quantity of grain to Buggodur, I did not think it advisable to do so, as there was no one there to distribute the food, and I had no confidence in the Police doing it properly. The more needy, however, came here and received relief.

5. The greatest amount of distress was experienced during the months of July, August and September, before the rain crops were gathered, and although privation in October was considerable, the Bhadoa crop, which was an abundant one, brought comfort to the sufferers and rendered relief unnecessary. The dhan has yielded an abundant harvest and nothing could be more favorable than the present appearance of the Rubbee crops.

In order to ascertain the market value or the annual net profits of any such property as is described in NOTE (a) and in NOTE (b), the Court may either of its own motion or on the application of any party to the suit issue a commission to any proper person, directing him to make such local or other investigation as may be necessary and to report thereon to the Court, and the decision of the Court, as to the market value or annual net profits shall be final. If in the result of any such investigation the Court shall find that the market-value or net profits has or have been erroneously estimated for the purpose of computing the stamp-duty, the Court shall either (as the case may be) refund the excess paid as such duty, or require the plaintiff to pay so much additional stamp-duty as would have been payable had the said market-value or net profits been correctly estimated, and in such case the suit shall be stayed until the additional duty shall have been paid.

Such difference shall be calculated by the Court according to the rules above mentioned, and shall be costs in the suit.

(d). If an appeal or plaint, which shall have been rejected by the Lower Court on any of the grounds mentioned in the Code of Civil Procedure, shall be ordered to be received, or if a suit shall be remanded in appeal, on any of the grounds mentioned in Section 351 of the same Code, for a second decision by the lower Court, the Appellate Court shall grant to the appellant a certificate, authorizing him to receive back from the Collector the full amount of stamp duty paid on the petition of appeal. Provided that, if, in the case of a remand in appeal, the order of remand shall not cover the whole of the subject-matter of the suit the certificate so granted shall not authorize the appellant to receive back more than so much duty as would have been originally payable on the part or parts of such subject-matter in respect whereof the suit has been remanded.

(e). When any appeal shall be presented to a Civil Court, not against the whole of a decision, but only against so much thereof as relates to a part or parts of the subject-matter of the suit, and, on the hearing of such appeal, the respondent shall take, under Section 348 of the Code of Civil Procedure, an objection to any part of the said decision other than the part appealed against, the Court shall not hear such objection until the respondent shall have paid the additional stamp duty which would have been payable had the appeal comprised the part of the decision so objected to. Such additional stamp duty shall be calculated by the Court according to the rules abovementioned, and shall be costs in the suit.

GENERAL RULE.—If the subject-matter of any plaint, written statement, petition, or copy of a decree or order cannot be conveniently comprised within one Stamp Paper of the value prescribed by the Schedule, one or more additional pieces of paper may be used bearing a Stamp of the value required for petitions. This Rule does not apply to copies of Judgments; and additional pieces of paper required for such copies need not be stamped.

No. 3626.—The 10th April 1867.—The following amended Notice is published for general information, in supersession of Notification No. 149, dated the 8th January last:—

Government Notice No. 1, 1867.

His Excellency the Administrator of the Government directs the publication, for general information, of the following amended Notice of the erection of a Light-house on the Bluff, at the south side of the entrance of Port Natal, in correction of the Notification given in Government Notice No. 122, 1866.

By His Excellency's Command,

D. Erskine,

Colonial Secy.

Colonial Office, Natal,
The 4th January 1867.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

A Light-house has been erected on the Bluff, at the south side of the entrance of Port Natal, at an elevation of 292 feet above high water, a light from which will be exhibited on the 23rd January 1867.

The Light-house is in Latitude 29° 52′ 50″ S., and Longitude 31° 3′ 35″ E.

The building is an iron tower, in the form of a frustrum of a cone, 81 feet high, painted white, centre of light being 70 feet above the base, exhibiting a revolving white light of the second class (dioptric), attaining its greatest brilliancy once every minute.

It is visible in all directions from North (round by East and South) to S. 59° W., and can be seen from a ship's deck 24 miles in clear weather.

The above light is not visible from the Aliwal shoal, which is 25 miles S., 53° W., from the Light-house; vessels should not, therefore, when coming from the southward and westward approach the shore nearer than four miles, or shoal their water under 10 fathoms, using the lead freely until they make the light well out from the deck, when they may stand in until it bears N. 59° E.,—which bearing will keep them outside all known danger—until they are abreast of the Umlazi River (about 9½ miles below the Light-house), when they must keep it more to the northward, as the land trends more to the eastward, giving the shore a good berth of a mile; and when the light bears about W. N. W., they can haul in to the northward for the anchorage; anchoring in 8½ to 10 fathoms, with the Light-house bearing S. W. to S. W. ½ S. distant one mile.

Admiralty Surveyor.

N. B.—The above bearings are magnetic.

6. Every bill, for any sum due on account of the rate or taxes leviable under the Act, shall, if possible, be presented to the individual named therein in person; but if such personal presentation be found impossible, the bill shall be left at his usual place of abode, and such delivery shall be deemed to be the presentation required by Section 44.

State and Prospects of the Jessore District.

From T. B. LANE, ESQ., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 580*M*, dated the 1st April 1867.)

I AM directed to submit herewith, for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor, copy of a letter from the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, with enclosure.

From R. B. CHAPMAN, ESQ., Officiating Commissioner of the Presidency Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 825, dated the 26th March 1867.)

SIR,

I HAVE the honor to submit, for the perusal of the Board of Revenue, the accompanying demi-official report by Mr. Monro, Collector of Jessore, of the state and prospects of his District.

2. I have full confidence in Mr. Monro's judgment and powers of observation, and I incline to make from the facts that he furnishes deductions more favorable than he does himself.

3. It is evident that there is no fear of famine or severe scarcity in Jessore at any rate, and I shall not be surprised to see prices yield presently.

MY DEAR CHAPMAN,

I HAVE now the pleasure to reply to your demi-official of 9th ultimo: I have not answered it sooner, in order that I might be able to satisfy myself personally on points which I wanted cleared up. I have now gone over almost every part of the District, and the answer which I give to your questions may be taken as conveying the result of personal observation, as well as of information communicated by others.

1st.—Expectations of the people as to crop of last year.

I may safely say that the expectations of the people, both as to the Ous, Amun crops, were fully realized. The Ous was almost universally a good crop, and although the Amun in some of the high lands failed on account of the early cessation of rain, which I communicated confidentially in September last, still the produce of the lower lands was so rich, that it amply made up for the deficiency caused by the failure of the high land crop. I have heard no complaints anywhere of the quality of produce. By all accounts the crop is of good quality. It must also be taken into consideration that the area of rice producing land sown last season was greater than that of the previous year. The reason of this I take to be that the ryots were anxious to reimburse themselves for the privations suffered last year, as well as to diminish the force of a similar calamity, should such befall them this year. Towards Khoolna the ryots on the trust estate and neighbouring zemindars went considerable distances to procure jummas of rice producing land, and I have no doubt that the hope of getting good dhani land, by the draining of the surrounding bheels, has a good deal to do with the anxiety of the people between Jessore, Ghoperghat, to have the Bhyrub Khal cut.

Further, the decrease in the cultivation of indigo, in indigo growing parts of the district, has had a good deal to do with the extension of rice cultivation. This I witnessed frequently in my tour.

As regards the produce of lands newly brought into cultivation, the hopes of the people were fully realized.

Old stores.

The stores of old rice I believe to have been almost everywhere exhausted. In the north-west part of the District there are a few golahs yet from which old rice is issued, and in Khoolna some of the mahajuns outwitted themselves by keeping up a quantity of old rice, hoping to sell it at a large profit in the month of Kartick. Prices fell then however, and the rice is now being brought forward. This is exceptional however, throughout the District old rice is not procurable in any but small quantities. I know that in Nurail, which is a great rice producing part of the district, importation from Pubna began in September last, when there was a fear of the Amun failing. This fact alone would show great shortness of stocks, for Jessore is not a consuming but a large exporting District.

Cold weather crop.

The cold weather crops have been excellent. In some part of the district peas have been a failure, but on the whole the outturn has been very good. I notice that a much larger proportion of chenna has this year been sown in the higher parts of the district. This crop came in very useful last year all along the Rabaduck and up towards Shenida, and the people seem to have profited by the hint. More luxuriant crops of mustard, linseed, and vetches, than were on the ground, when I passed through all parts of Magoorah Sub-Division I never saw.

Reason of present high prices.

This may be accounted for as follows:—The principle which the ryots, the producers, have adopted, is only to sell as much paddy as will pay off their mahajuns and zemindars' demands. The present high prices have enabled them to do this with about half the quantity usually required. The rest they have stored in the hope of future high prices, and it may in some cases be in the fear of coming scarcity. A people who are so improvident generally, are, I think, more likely to be influenced by the hope of gain than by the fear of future pressure. The mahajuns who have made very little profit out of their usual system of dera advances, keep back the rice which they have in their golahs, in the hope of future high prices, and hence the quantity thrown on the market both by ryots and mahajuns being so small, high prices still continue.

Amongst the better informed the idea also prevails that Government will be a large purchaser; this leads to keep up rates.

The ryots, too, have other means of subsistence. The sugar season enables them to procure ready money without encroaching on their stock of rice. The cold weather crops will carry them on for a month or two, and by the time that they will be pressed for money, the time for reaping the new Ous crop will not be far distant.

Condition of the ryots.

The circumstances of the cultivating class, as will be seen from the above remarks, are very good, and not the slightest anxiety, except in very exceptional instances, is felt by them. for the supply of food during the year, nor need any apprehension be entertained for them. The high prices will not affect them except favorably, but the large class, who are not cultivators, who live by labor, and even those among the middle class who live on stated pay, are anxious, and justly so, about the future. The present high prices will tell heavily on them, and I am afraid there is no chance of there being a fall in prices until after August. They will undoubtedly suffer privation as they did last year, but there is no chance of famine ever amongst them.

Exports, &c.

I have not noticed any unusual indications in the exports, I think, however, that the exports are less than they were last year, owing to the policy which both the ryots and mahajuns are pursuing described above. In the western part of the district, exports go on to Nuddea towards Khoolnea to Calcutta. From Nurail, and the country between Nurail and Khoolna, large exports take place from Basantea Hat, via Jessore to Nuddea.

I think I have given you above all the facts which bear upon the subject. I shall not fail, you may be sure, to pay the closest attention to the state of the people in the district, and let you know anything of importance.

J. Monro,
Officiating Collector of Jessore.

Importation of Grain into the Districts of Cuttack and South Balasore.

Memorandum by Junior Member, Board of Revenue, on the progress of the operations for the importation of Grain into the Districts of Cuttack and South Balasore.

IMPORTATION. 1.—The maximum quantity of grain assumed to be required for the relief of that portion of the Cuttack District which is to be supplied from the False Point and Machgaon depots, according to the Junior Member's minute of the 27th December last, may be taken at 5,20,000 maunds, of which Government has directed that one-half, or 260,000 maunds, shall be imported before the setting in of the S. W. Monsoon.

	Mds.
Machgaon	60,000
(For Cuttack) False Point ...	4,60,000
Total ...	5,20,000

2. Up to the end of February the amount supplied to these golahs, inclusive of balance of stock on the 31st December 1866, was 1,39,926 mds.(a), and despatches to the extent of 3,04,342 mds.(b) have been arranged for in all this month and April, giving a total of maunds 4,44,268, the excess of 1,84,268 being due to further orders lately received to increase the total importation for the Province from six to eight lakhs.

	Machgaon.	False Point.	Total.
	a 19,000	1,20,926	1,39,926
	b 32,000	2,72,342	3,04,342
Total ...	51,000	3,93,268	4,44,268

3. The total requirements of the Northern part of the Cuttack District and the southern part of the Balasore District, to be met from the import golahs on the Dhamra, may be taken at maunds 4,30,000, of which half, or 2,15,000, should be stored previous to the end of March.

4. Of this latter quantity only maunds 66,420 (inclusive of the balance of stock at the close of 1866) had been stored up to the end of February, while despatches to the extent of maunds 1,54,000 have been provided for during the current month, giving an aggregate of, say 2,20,000 maunds.

5. The importations at this river have, therefore, been carried out in a less successful manner than in the other import depots of the Province, having been retarded by several causes.

6. The chief cause of this backward state of the importations there, has been the shallowness of the water, which will not permit of vessels of greater draught than 12 or 13 feet entering the river. For this reason it was intended that the quantity of rice destined for these golahs should be imported by Native sloops, but although enough time was afforded to their owners to bring their sloops for survey, they delayed so doing, and a good fortnight or more of the most favorable season was lost. As the season advanced, the employment of such an unseaworthy class of vessels became hazardous, and arrangements were made for despatching large vessels which should anchor beyond the mouth of the river, and discharge into the sloops, which were to be used as lighters. Two steamers also were engaged to tow the lighters and sloops to and from the discharging vessels to the golahs, a distance varying from 12 to 28 miles.

7. The regularity of this mode of landing the cargo is liable to interruption whenever the sea at the anchoring ground becomes too rough to admit of the lighters lying alongside the anchoring vessels, and to obviate this difficulty as much as possible, masula boats have been engaged for the purpose of transhipment.

8. It is hoped that by these arrangements at least half the quantity proposed to be imported into the Dhamra, say 1,00,000 or 1,10,000 maunds, may be stored before the Monsoon sets in with violence, and the balance can easily be imported subsequently viâ False Point, and be forwarded on by inland rivers and creeks, when the rains commence, to the golahs on the Dhamra and its affluents.

9. A second cause of delay has been the unhealthiness of the locality, which led early in the season to the withdrawal of the officers by whom operations were conducted during the past year. Much time was unavoidably lost before their successors arrived at the Dhamra, and owing to the absence of supervision thus caused, and to the repeated illness of many of the subordinate agents, the landing and storing operations were much retarded. I may mention that on my visit to the Dhamra, I found the Superintendent of the golah completely prostrated from fever, and the writer scarcely able from the same cause to perform his duties; while a large proportion of the labouring gang were also incapacitated for work. The unhealthiness of this tract of country is so notorious, that even the inducement of high pay is insufficient to obtain men for service within it.

10. The sale of grain to the public during the months of January and February has amounted to 7,158 maunds only, but with a tendency to increase in that portion of the country which is supplied from the Kendrapara, Taldonda, and Patamondai sale depots.

11. The expenditure from the Government stock for the Relief Centres has been for the same months, 28,228.

12. The stock of Government grain in the Cuttack District on the 21st February amounted to 1,28,622, viz. :—

In the Machgaon depot for Cuttack	16,260
In the False Point or Burkood depot	84,926
Inland sale depots and in transit	77,436
Total	1,28,622

13. At the three import and sale depots of South Balasore no sales had been made to the public, while the expenditure of stock to the Relief Centres amounted to about 1,285 maunds, leaving the balance of stock on the 1st March at 41,000 maunds.

14. LANDING ARRANGEMENT.—Fair progress has been made in landing the despatches from Calcutta at Machgaon. There was some delay in unloading the vessels which first arrived in the beginning of February, but by the exertions of the Collector of Cuttack, who visited the spot, and of the Pooree Importation Officer, the want of boats was supplied, golahs constructed, and difficulties which at first appeared disheartening were overcome.

Machgaon Depot.

15. The importations for this golah have been discontinued during the current month (March) it having been found unsafe to send to that depot native sloops, which are the only class of vessels capable of entering the Davee River; but this golah can, should occasion require, be hereafter supplied by inland creeks from False Point or Burkood golah.

16. The unloading of the vessels for this port has averaged more than 1,000 bags a day; a less quantity, however, than was calculated to be daily taken out of the importing vessels. The deficiency has been owing partly to the want of coolies to assist the crews of the sailing vessels in putting a larger quantity over the side, and partly to the little Steamer Olga which had been lent to us by the East India Irrigation Canal Company, being found unequal to the work expected of her.

False Point or Burkood Golah.

17. The first cause was removed by the despatch of forty-two Lascars from Calcutta, for whose accommodation a hulk has been provisioned and moored in False Point Bay.

18. The Teesta, a Government Steamer, has taken the place of the Olga, but as she can make only one trip a day, owing to her depth of draught, more cargo boats or flats with an average capacity of 6,000 bags are required and have been ordered, and on their arrival an average of 2,500 bags a day should with certainty be landed, provided that the Teesta be confined to towing to and from the mouth of the Burkood creek, there leaving her boats to find their way to and from the golah with the tide. This must be insisted on, and the Teesta must not be allowed to wait for the flood to go right up to the Burkood golah.

19. If this arrangement be observed, the Steamers* which will arrive successively from Burmah, should be cleared well within the time specified in their Charter Parties.

* See Statement which accompanied Memorandum on a visit to False Point, despatched on 7th instant.

20. These arrangements, when completed, will allow of the importation of from 100,000 to 1,50,000 maunds a month from the 1st week of May throughout the South-West Monsoon, should further importations at that rate be hereafter required.

Importation golahs.

21. The construction of import store golahs is proceeding satisfactorily, with two exceptions.

22. At Burkood (False Point), golahs to store 70,000 maunds are completed. These will be increased to hold 100,000 maunds, and, with sufficient means of inland transport, will suffice.

23. In consequence of the greatly increased work, both in landing and transit, at this depot, an additional assistant on a salary of Rupees 100 is considered necessary, and is sanctioned hereby.

24. At Machgaon golahs have been completed to hold 50,000 maunds.

25. At Hansoon and Patamondai the old salt golahs have been repaired, and will hold all that can be imported into those depots.

26. At Chandbali sufficient golah accommodation has been provided.

27. At Dhamra there has been very considerable delay in providing the necessary storage room; only two golahs have been constructed, one large and one small; but another, the size of the former, should be run up as rapidly as possible. It is urged that there is great difficulty in procuring the requisite timber and other materials at this place, but I cannot allow this to be a sufficient excuse. The same want was experienced both at Pooree and Cuttack, but was successfully overcome by the energy of the officers in charge.

Salt depot golahs.

28. At Taldonda storage is, or will be ere the end of the month, provided for 200,000 maunds, which is all that is required.

29. At Kendrapara there has been considerable delay, but orders have been issued by the Commissioner to push on the work.

30. At Punchpilly only one golah, to hold 10,000 bags, is required, and has been completed.

31. In addition to these sale golahs, it has been determined, with a view to meet fully the probable requirements of the Famine Relief Committee, to establish the subordinate sale depots noted in the margin. For the one in the Bargong Pergunnah, West of the Patamondai import golah, Mr. Geddes has been, in connection with other duties, deputed to fix the exact site.

	Mds.
Juggutsingpore, to hold	20,000
Manpore „	20,000
Cuttack „	20,000
Marsugay „	2 ,000
Paint „	20,000
In Bargong Pergunnah, to hold	20,000

32. The golahs in these localities are in hand, or will shortly be commenced.

33. For the subordinate sale depots, the same scale of establishment as that sanctioned for the same class of depots in Pooree, namely, Rupees 100 a month, is sanctioned. Punchpilly properly belongs to this class, and its establishment should be reduced to Rupees 100.

34. At Taldonda the quantity of grain to be stored is double that of the next largest sale depot, and, therefore, the additional allowance to the Superintendent of Rupees 50 per mensem, which has been asked for, is hereby sanctioned.

35. The Commissioner will at the close of the month report the further progress made towards the completion of import and sale golahs.

36. I may here mention that while returning to Calcutta I inspected the golahs at Taldonda and Burkood, and I was well satisfied with the substantial manner in which they have been constructed. I also visited the Dhamra golahs, and these, although not quite so well built, are sufficiently good for their purpose.

37. As in Pooree, much has already been done during January and February to fill the inland golahs from the False Point and Machgaon depots, but to ensure those operations being carried out systematically, the subject has been most carefully considered in consultation with the Commissioner, the Collector, the Special Collector, and the District Importation Officer, and the scheme set forth in the annexed Statement has been prepared and adopted.

Inland Transit.

	Bags	Mds.
From Machgaon ...	500	1,000
„ False Point ...	32,321	64,642
Total ...	32,821	65,642

38. I am assured that there will not be the slightest difficulty in obtaining the requisite number of boats and carts, and if the river steamer and the two flats can be brought into False Point, the local authorities are confident of carrying out this scheme with certainty.

P. S.—I met her in the Dhamra on the 19th; she should have reached False Point on the following day.

39. It will be observed that the scheme provides for the conveyance into the interior, and for the stowage at the sale depots by the end of July, of all the rice which is to be landed at False Point up to the end of the first week of May, with the exception of that required for the three depots to be supplied from Taldonda, which it is proposed to fill monthly.

40. By this arrangement, the India and her flats will become available for the inland transport of any further quantities of rice which it may from time to time be determined to import, in addition to the eight lakhs already ordered and partly imported.

40½. The Commissioner has been instructed at once to direct the Collector of Cuttack to depute the District Importation Officer immediately to organize this scheme, and to prepare a Statement of any establishment required to supervise the transport arrangements, and to secure their regularity and the safety and good condition of the rice in transit.

41. A full report should be submitted at the close of this month of the progress made towards perfecting this scheme.

42. From a conversation with the Superintending Engineer, D. P. W., it appears that the works Nos. 4 and 5, entered in the Statement attached to Junior Member's minute of 27th December last, are in progress, and that the Department has in addition undertaken No. 7. "The remodelling and repairing of the existing track from Cuttack to Machgaon," which was entered as under the Magistrate's supervision, and has further taken in hand—1st, "the remodelling of the road from Cuttack to Taldonda," and 2nd, "of that from Phoolnacra to Madhub," which will join Cuttack with Pooree through Gope.

Public Works under D. P. W.

43. Both these latter lines pass through tracts of country most injuriously affected by the late inundation, and they should be the means of affording much relief to some of the most suffering parts of the Cuttack District.

44. There appears to be a great pressure of work on the Department Public Works, and additional supervising agency seems much required, or else disappointment will, it is feared, be felt to the extent to which the Department Public Works may be unable to assist in providing the means of livelihood for a large portion of the distressed population; and in case of any failure in these respects, the burthen on the Famine Relief Committee will be greatly increased.

45. If an opinion on such a subject may be given without presumption, it might be suggested that the present pressure, which is chiefly experienced in the want of sufficient and effective supervision, could be best relieved by temporarily separating the charge of the Tumlook, Hidgellee, and Midnapore Districts from that of the Cuttack District, and by assisting the Superintending Engineer, Cuttack Division, by the deputation of an additional Executive Engineer to aid the Superintending Engineer in all matters generally, but more especially with regard to the examination and report on some schemes for the extension of the operations of the East India Irrigation and Canal Company, which are, it is believed, under the consideration of Government.

Payment in grain of laborers employed in Public Works Department.

46. In consultation with the Commissioner, the annexed Rules (Appendix B) have been drawn up for conducting the sales of rice at a fixed rate to the laborers employed in Public Works, in accordance with the instructions of Government contained in the letter No. 69 of 15th February 1867.

47. In that letter it was ordered that the rice should be sold to the Department Public Works at the rate of Rupees 3-4 a maund, and retailed by the Civil authorities at such rate as would enable a laborer to earn by his labor enough for the subsistence of himself and family,—say two seers of rice a day.

48. It is difficult to divide the maund into seers at prices not involving the fractional part of a pie if sold at the rate of Rupees 3-4 per maund; but if the rate be fixed at Rupees 3-5-4 per maund, it admits of the easy division of the maund into seers, and would give twelve seers of rice for the rupee. (See Table, Appendix B.)

49. A laborer's daily wages being calculated at three annas per day, he would, therefore, after purchasing two seers at two annas eight pie, have four pie left for the purchase of salt and other expenses, so that, practically, the orders of Government would be carried out by the adoption of this rate.

Present condition of the country.

50. This subject will be fully discussed by the Special Famine Commissioner, but it is necessary to consider it with a view to ascertain whether the amount of rice to which it is at present proposed to restrict the Government importations will suffice.

51. There can be no doubt that great distress already exists in the whole of the low tracts (with one exception) extending from the Davee River to the Dhamra, with an average breadth of 30 miles, and it is to be feared that this distress will rapidly increase, reaching its climax about September, when, if the country be not again subjected to a calamitous inundation, relief may be expected from the influx of the surplus of the Beallee crops from the higher land to the North.

52. On the assumption that the population of this tract amounted to 200 souls per square mile, and that grain would have to be imported for half that number, the supply was estimated at 5,20,000 maunds for the country, to be provided from the import golahs of Machgaon and False Point.

53. I am now informed that a portion of this tract, lying midway between the Mahanuddy and the offshoots of the Kajooree, has escaped the effects of the inundation; and further, that the population immediately along the coast is far less numerous than it has been estimated to be.

54. To counterbalance any saving due to these causes, it will, I fear, be found that grain must be imported for three-fourths, rather than for one-half of the existing population, and I am inclined to fix the minimum of the supply for this portion of the Cuttack District at no lower figure than 6½ lakhs, an amount to which our importation could, if required be easily raised, and for which we must, I think, be prepared, should the expenditure of Government stock, within the next month or month and half, shew any necessity for such further importations.

55. Both the Special Collector, Mr. Geddes, who has lately passed through the Northern portion of the Cuttack District, and Mr. Irwin, the Sub-Divisional Officer of Bhaldruck, write more favorably of the condition of the tract of country extending from the South bank of the Brahmani River to the Northern boundary of the Bhaldruck Sub-Division. In portions of these tracts the Rubee crop has been good, and the Dalua or early rice crop promises well, while there have been extensive imports of grain from the neighbouring Gurjat or Hill Territories and from the Northern parts of Balasore.

56. These views are confirmed by a conversation I had with a very intelligent and wealthy Zemindar from Bhaldruck. He considers that the prices now ruling for rice in that part of the country, namely, Rupees 2 to 2-4 a maund, will not rise to a very much higher figure than Rupees 2-8 or 2-12 throughout the year, so that there will be little or no demand for Government rice at our present rate of Rupees 3-4 per maund.

57. Many abuses are said to exist in the relief afforded gratuitously throughout this tract, owing to the misconduct of the subordinate Agents of the Relief Committees, who indiscriminately admit all able-bodied persons to relief, although the Public Works throughout this part of the country give them ample means to earn their own livelihood.

58. The attention of the Local Relief Committee has been drawn to the subject, and I feel confident that those abuses will be rectified and a system of public relief afforded, which while assisting the really destitute, will not cause a greater drain on the Government stock than is now the case under the very unsatisfactory and lavish system introduced by the Relief Monarirs, in defiance, I may state, of the orders of the Committee.

59. There is, therefore, a probability of the proposed supply of 2,20,000 maunds of rice for this portion of the country sufficing for its wants, but should further experience prove this view to be too favorable, additional supplies can be thrown in through False Point throughout the year.

60. The Commissioner has been instructed to watch carefully the condition of this part of his Division, and to inform me, in good time, of the necessity for further supplies, in addition to those either provided or to be provided under existing orders.

Supervision and Accounts.

61. Owing to the excessive additional business, especially in the form of correspondence, which has been thrown upon the Commissioners in consequence of these import operations, it has been found necessary to retain the Special Collector, Mr. Geddes, chiefly at Cuttack for office duties.

62. This was perhaps, under the circumstances, unavoidable, but I consider it of the greatest importance that Mr. Geddes should be available for the constant inspection and personal supervision of the operations throughout the Province, for which office duties allow neither the Commissioner nor the Collectors sufficient leisure.

63. It has, therefore, been determined that Mr. Assistant Collector Manson, whose services can be spared for this purpose, shall act as an additional Assistant to the Commissioner, taking charge of all correspondence and more routine duties, and that Mr. Geddes shall be employed in constantly visiting the various depots and rectifying any errors or instances of neglect which may come to his knowledge.

64. To secure the due distribution of responsibility, it has been arranged that the Collectors of Pooree and Cuttack shall be held accountable for all import, sale, and transport operations in their respective Districts, working through their District Importation Officers, who will be in direct subordination to the Collector, and who should be employed solely in the interior.

65. The Special Collector will be employed, as above stated, in constant supervision. He will not ordinarily issue orders to the District Importation Officers, but will bring all defects to the notice of the Commissioner, and under his orders and in his name will correspond with the Collectors.

66. In special cases the Commissioner will depute him to carry out any special arrangements, and, if necessary for that purpose, give him special authority.

67. As regards Balasore, the District Officer of the Bhuddruck Sub-Division, in which alone import operations are required, will be placed in direct charge of those operations, as the scene of them is so far removed from Balasore that it is impossible for the Collector of Balasore to exercise any efficient control over them.

68. Amended instructions, as annexed, (Appendix C.,) have been issued with regard to the preparation and check of accounts, which it is hoped will prevent the recurrence of the very great delay in the submission of the monthly Cash Abstract and Stock Statements which has occurred during the past two months.

APPENDIX B.

Rules for the conduct of Sales of Rice to the Labourers employed by the Public Works Department.

1*st.*—The Department Public Works are to state the line of work where shops for the sale of grain to their labourers are required, the localities in which the shops are to be situated, and the probable daily or monthly quantity to be disbursed at each shop.

2*nd.*—The Department Public Works are to give certificates every ten days to their Contractors for work measured, stating the amount due the Contractor, amount paid in money, and amount to be given in grain at the rate of twelve seers the rupee, according to tickets.

3*rd.*—These tickets are to be printed off by the Department Public Works, with consecutive numbers; each ticket to be for twelve seers, equal in value to one rupee.

4*th.*—On shewing his certificate to the Moodi in charge of the shop, the Moodi will weigh over the amount of rice covered by the number of tickets, either to the Contractor or to the laborers to whom the Contractor may make over the tickets and Moodi will secure, and carefully retain, the said tickets in exchange for the rice weighed out.

5*th.*—The Moodi will enter the disbursement in his daily cash accounts, with date, noting on the opposite side the numbers of the tickets received in exchange, and he will fortnightly send to the Collector's Office his account, shewing total amount expended and balance of stock in hand. The amount expended must be covered by the tickets sent in, and for any difference the Moodi will have to pay.

6*th.*—These tickets will then be nicked like a Railway ticket in the Collector's Office, and forwarded to the Department Public Works; and a cheque on the Collector must be given in return by the Department Public Works, the amount of which will be credited to the Importation Fund, and the accounts properly adjusted.

7*th.*—With his fortnightly despatch of tickets to the Office, the Moodi should forward an indent for any further stock required to the Collector, who will give the necessary orders for the delivery of the full quantity, or such part as he may think proper, from the nearest sale golah, and for its despatch either by the Moodi should he contract for the transport, or by some other Agent or Contractor for transport. The Collector's order will be retained as the sale depot Superintendent's voucher.

8*th.*—The Moodies are to be paid such a monthly salary on such security as the Commissioner may think fit.

APPENDIX C.

Instructions regarding operations for the Importation and Sale of Grain in Orissa, in supersession of those which accompanied Board's letter No. 383B., dated the 16th January 1857.

ACCOUNTS.

It is of the greatest importance that the Board should be kept informed of the receipts and disbursements of the stock of grain at the several import and sale golahs. To prevent delay in the submission of this information, the stock accounts should be kept entirely distinct from all accounts connected with the receipts and expenditure of money. If this be done, there should be no difficulty in preparing at any moment the accounts of mere stock. The stock accounts should consist of—

2. Statement No. I.—Importation Fund Stock Account.

3. This Statement is to be used for import golahs, including import golahs, which are also sale golahs.

4. A similar Statement, to be numbered Statement II., is to be used for golahs which are only sale golahs; the only difference between it and Statement I. will be the substitution of the word "sale" for "import."

5. Columns 13 and 14 will be used only for grain delivered to Relief Committees for gratuitous distribution, or for sales by them at low rates.

6. Returns Nos. 1 and 2 should be prepared at each of the import and sale golahs on the 1st and 16th of each month, and forwarded direct to the Collector, who, after testing and correcting them if necessary, will forward copies of them without delay to the Commissioner. From the Commissioner's Office an aggregate Statement, in each form, for the Division must be forwarded with the least possible delay to the Board.

7. The special attention of the Commissioner is requested to prevent delay in the preparation and submission of these two stock accounts.

8. N. B.—By import golah is intended any golah into which Government rice is imported direct, whether rice be sold there or not; by Government sale golah, any Government golah into which rice is transported for sale from an import golah.

9. MONEY ACCOUNTS.—The accounts of the existing Importation Fund and of the Charitable Distribution Fund were closed at the end of the year 1866.

10. From the 1st January 1867, a new account has been opened, called the "Importation Fund," to which is to be credited all receipts for the sale of imported rice, whether to the Relief Committees or to others, such sales being made for the present at a uniform rate of Rupees 3-4 per Calcutta maund.

Per contra, all charges connected with the importation and sale operations are to be charged to that fund, such as purchase of rice, freight, landing, storage, &c., &c.

11. To enable the Board to keep the Collectors in funds, an estimate should be prepared and despatched by them on the 20th of each month, of their probable requirements for the following month, and the Collectors will either be placed in funds, or authorized to meet the demands up to the amount of that estimate.

12. It is not intended that the Collectors should be tied down to the exact sum of their estimate, but if they have reason to believe, during the course of the month, that their estimate will prove insufficient, an emergent estimate for the excess should be forwarded.

13. A monthly abstract cash account of the Importation Fund should be submitted for the Province, shewing separately, for each District, the receipts and expenditure; the first under the three heads of "receipts by sale of grain," sub-divided into 'cash' and 'transfer;' second, "miscellaneous receipts;" and third, "insufficient balances," and the latter under the heads of—

Landing charges.
Inland transport charges.
Depots, construction and repairs.
Establishments.
Miscellaneous expenditure, not coming under the former heads.
Inefficient balances.

14. It will not be necessary to give the items separately for each golah, but there should be a separate total for each District. On the back should be a memorandum for each head of receipts and disbursements, bringing forward former aggregate receipts and expenditure, so as to shew total receipts and expenditure up to date of the return.

15. The monthly abstract cash account for the province will be the only form of cash account required to be submitted to the Board for the Importation Fund; but the Commissioner will issue the necessary orders for keeping the proper subsidiary accounts at the several golahs for submission to him.

N. B.—All weight to be given in Calcutta weight,—80 tolahs to the seer.

16. The cash accounts of the Importation Fund (for the very early submission of which to the Board, there is not the same urgent necessity as in the case of the stock accounts) should be first forwarded to the Collector, with the necessary vouchers, by the Golah Superintendents.

17. The Collector, after carefully examining, checking, and, if necessary, correcting these accounts, will forward them to the Commissioner, in the form of an abstract cash account, accompanied by Schedules giving the necessary details; and in the Commissioner's Office the aggregate abstract cash account for the Board will be prepared.

18. The district monthly cash account of the Importation Fund should be prepared from a separate daily cash book, which should be kept in the Importation Fund Department, shewing, in detail, all receipts and disbursements on account of that Fund; only the aggregate receipts and expenditure being shewn in the Treasury accounts.

19. It is expected that the district abstract cash account for any one month will be received by the Commissioner by the 20th of the following month, and by the Board on the 1st of the succeeding month.

20. Full time has thus been given to allow of the accurate preparation of these returns, and in no case must further delay be allowed; and to ensure the attainment of this object, the Commissioner and the Collectors may be allowed the establishment noted below, to be employed solely for the preparation of these accounts, whose salaries can be charged to the Importation Fund.

22. These establishments are in supersession of all previous establishments allowed for the Account Department, whether with the Commissioner or Collectors.

23. SALE OF RICE.—For the present, sales of rice will be at the rate of Rupees 3-4 per maund of eighty tolahs to the seer for Calcutta rice, and at Rupees 2-12 per maund for the Burmah rice landed up to the end of February, and will be conducted solely at the Government import and sale golahs. Should the latter prove not sufficiently numerous, the Commissioner can establish such additional sale golahs with the requisite establishments, reporting his proceeding to the Board. The rate for the Burmah rice, to be landed subsequent to February, will be hereafter fixed on ascertaining the quality.

24. GRATUITOUS DISTRIBUTION AND SALES AT LOW RATES.—These operations will be conducted by the Special Famine Commissioner, under orders of the Calcutta Famine and Orphan Relief Committee, in consultation with the several Local Relief Committees.

25. All charges connected with the rice after it is delivered to the Relief Committee, will fall upon the Gratuitous Distribution Fund.

26. SALE OF GRAIN AT FAMINE RELIEF DEPOTS.—The Collector of each District will be furnished on the 20th of each month, under orders of the Special Famine Commissioner, with a Statement shewing the probable amount of rice required for the succeeding month at each of the relief depots, with the name of the sale depot from which the rice is to be purchased; a copy of each of these Statements will be forwarded to the Commissioner, who will prepare from them and forward to the Board, not later than the 25th, an aggregate Statement for the Province.

27. The Collector will, on receipt of the Statement, authorize the Superintendent of each sale depot to deliver to the Mohurirs of the relief depots rice up to the extent specified in the Statement.

28. For all rice so delivered, the Superintendent of the sale golahs will take from the Mohurir of the relief depot a receipt in due form, which he will the same day forward to the Collector, after making the necessary debit and credit in his account.

29. The Collector, on these receipts coming to hand, will credit to the Importation Fund the value of the rice, by a transfer from any sum which may be in his accounts, to the credit of the Special Famine Commissioner.

30. To prevent the possibility of the stock at the relief depots running short, owing to delay in attending to these forms, the Superintendent of the sale golahs may supply rice in anticipation or excess of the authority granted under paragraph 27, on a written requisition of the Mohurir of a relief depot stating that such supply is absolutely necessary to prevent the stoppage of relief; and such requisition is to be forwarded to the Collector, together with the receipt for the rice delivered thereon.

31. In the Board's Office there must be—

I.—Register of Shipping, containing—

(a.) Consecutive number of ships taken up.
(b.) Name and burden of vessels, in tons or maunds, and name of master.
(c.) Port to which despatched.
(d.) Date of despatch.
(e.) Amount of cargo shipped in bags and in maunds.
(f.) Date of arrival at port.
(g.) Date of clearance at port.
(h.) Amount of cargo delivered in bags and in maunds.

32. Entries (a.) to (e.) will be filled up by returns from Master Attendant, and (f.,) (g.,) (h.) from returns from Superintendent of the Import Golah to which the vessel is consigned.

33. II.—Cash-Book and Ledger of receipts and disbursements, and from this and from the Commissioner's and Master Attendant's cash accounts,—

34. III.—A monthly cash account should be prepared, shewing aggregate importation receipts and expenses.

35. For the receipts of grain by the Master Attendant, a cheque-book A. should be kept, shewing—

1. Date.
2. Amount of grain received.
3. Value as per contract.
4. Name of person to be paid.

36. The counterpart should be kept in the Master Attendant's Office, and the cheque made over to the payee, who would, on presentation of it at the Board's Office, receive payment for the amount, and give a receipt on the back of the cheque, which would be kept as a voucher.

37. A similar cheque-book B, but in triplicate, should be kept of vessels despatched, containing particulars of columns 1 to 5 of Register of shipping; one part to be kept in Master Attendant's Office, one sent to the Board to fill in the corresponding columns of the Register of Shipping, and the third given to the Master of the ship for delivery to the Superintendent of the Import Golah at which he has to make delivery. The Superintendent should also keep a book C., in triplicate, containing paticulars (f.) (g.,) (h.) of the Register. The first would be for record, the second for delivery to the Master of the ship, on presentation of which to the Master Attendant, the latter will note the amount of freight due on the back, and the amount will be paid on presentation to the Secretary, Board of Revenue, and the third for despatch by post to Board direct.

38. The Master-Attendant should forward to the Board on each Monday forenoon, a memorandum shewing the probable number and tonnage of vessels to be despatched during the week in Form D.

D.

Estimate of Despatch of Grain for week ending.

Name of Port.	Aggregate number and tonnage of Vessels to be despatched to each Port.	Remarks.

30. On the same day should be forwarded a memorandum of the deliveries of rice by the Contractor, in the following form:—

Date.	Amount of previous deliveries.	Amount of deliveries of the week up to date.	Total.	Amount deliverable up to date by contract.	Deficiency.	Remarks.

40. The Master Attendant should submit a monthly cash account, containing receipts, that is remittances from Board, and miscellaneous, and expenditure under the heads of—

Establishment.
Storage.
Shipping.
Miscellaneous.

41. The headings of Statements 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, and form of cheque for vessels discharged C, should be sent to Commissioner of Cuttack, to be there printed; the Register of Shipping and cheque-books of grain received, A, and vessels despatched, B, and estimate, D, should be printed in Calcutta.

42. Contract for Rice.—A contract has been effected for the delivery of four lakhs of maunds at the Government Dockyard in Calcutta between the 15th instant and the 15th of March. In addition to this quantity, there will be available from the 1st instant the balances of grain in store in the Province on that date, the cargoes of the Armenian from Calcutta, the Tynemouth from Rangoon, and the T. A. Gibbs from Chittagong, and the despatches from Calcutta by the Guide. The whole will probably aggregate a total of nearly five lakhs of maunds.

43. Testing Weighments, Receipts, and Despatch of Rice.—The Master Attendant has been supplied with musters of the rice that has been contracted for, and will test the quality as deliveries are made.

44. The Master Attendant will receive and test the rice, and ship in accordance with the instructions contained under the head of accounts.

45. Receipts and Weighment of Rice at Import and Sale Golahs.—Hitherto the imported rice has been received by bags only. From the commencement of the year, all rice received at, and despatched from, the import and sale golahs must be weighed and the bags marked accordingly, and the careful attention of the local authorities must be given to check and prevent all attempts at abstraction or theft.

LANDING ARRANGEMENT.

46. Dhamra.—All vessels for the Dhamra will be consigned to the Superintendent of that import golah, with instructions to deliver, according to the orders given by him, either at that golah or at the golahs of Hansoa, Patamondai, or Chandballi, all of which places are said to be accessible by the vessels of light draught which will be taken up for the Dhamra.

47. The Rooknadaipore golah will probably have to be supplied from the Dhamra golah, or from vessels anchored at that golah, by what are termed Barbojai boats.

48. False Point.—The employment of the Irrigation Company's small steamer and nine cargo-boats has been sanctioned for the conveyance of the rice from the vessels to the Burkood golah, together with the three Government cargo-boats. These should, if necessary, be supplemented by native boats.

49. Coolies, when required to expedite the clearing of cargoes, should be supplied to the vessels.

50. Endeavours should be made to pass on the rice as fast as it can be landed at Burkood on to the inland sale depots, Kendrapara, Taldonda, and Punchpilly, so that those depots may be first fully stored.

51. Machgaon.—Vessels may be expected to arrive at this import depot before the close of the month, and all preparations for clearing them should be completed; boats, if necessary, and coolies collected, and the channel marked off.

52. Pooree.—The additional five Masulah boats which it is proposed to build, (paragraph 36 of Memorandum above quoted) should be commenced at once, and when completed kept in reserve.

53. It is presumed that, in accordance to previous orders, the construction of the several import and sale golahs has been commenced and rapidly proceeded with, their establishments entertained up to the necessary strength, the requisite weighing apparatus provided, and application made for the deputation of Native Doctors and the supply of medicines.

54. Land Communication.—Pending the completion of the proposed Electric Telegraph line between False Point and Cuttack, measures must be taken to ensure as rapid and as certain means of communication between those two places as possible. This can be best done by the employment of dâk boats between False Point and Taldonda, and special runners between the latter and Cuttack. The same should be done to secure communication between the Dhamra Ports and Bhuddruck, and between Machgaon and Cuttack.

55. It is of the greatest importance that the import golahs should be in daily and speedy communication with the Sudder Station or Sub-Division, whence they may be directed and controlled.

V. H. SCHALCH,
Jr. Member, Board of Revenue.

From H. L. Harrison, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 1397, dated the 5th April 1867.)

With reference to your memorandum No. 591J, dated the 2nd instant, I am desired by the Lieutenant-Governor to express his approval of the proceedings of the Board on the subject of the progress of operations for the importation of grain into the Districts of Cuttack and South Balasore, and of the result of operations in connection with the provision of rice for Orissa up to the end of February last.

2. An extract, paragraphs 44 and 45 of Mr. Schalch's Memorandum, will be forwarded to the Public Works Department under this Government for immediate action.

Prospects of the Bhaugulpore Division as regards the Supply of Food.

From A. Money, Esq., C. B., Commissioner of Bhaugulpore, to the Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1, dated the 1st April 1867.)

Your memoranda Nos. 530 and 531 of the 8th February, forwarding letter from the Supreme Government, No. 1183 of the 4th February, called upon me for a report on the prospects of the districts of this Division during the current year as regards the supply of food.

2. This report has been delayed by the difficulty of getting returns in quickly from the several districts.

3. The Abstract of the information before me is as follows:—

PURNEAH.

4. On the west of the district near the Koosey River and towards the north-east of the district the Agheni or rice crop of 1866 was good.

5. To the north of the district the rice crop was a trifle below the average.

6. Through the whole centre of the district the crop was a short one.

7. In the south of the district the crop was decidedly poor and bad.

8. The Rubbee crop of various grains has been throughout the district a first-rate one.

BHAUGULPORE.

9. The rice crop throughout that part of the district which lies south of the Ganges was a very good crop.

10. In the other half of the district, i. e., the part north of the Ganges, the rice crops were fair to a distance of about 40 miles from the river. Above that point they began to fall off proceeding northwards to the extreme north of the district, where the crop was a very poor one.

11. The Junera or Indian corn crop generally throughout the district was very good, and the Rubbee crops, of which the cutting is now being completed, are excellent, better than for many years. In one or two places they have suffered partial damage from hail-storms, but this does not affect the general result.

MONGHYR.

12. The rice crop was a full 16 anna crop except quite towards the south, where (in Chukye) the crop was indifferent. Chukye, however, grows but a small quantity of rice as compared to most other parts of the district.

13. The Indian corn crop was an excellent one everywhere, and the Rubbee crop has also been a very abundant one, less, however, in Chukye than elsewhere.

SONTHAL PERGUNNAHS.

14. The Agheni rice crop and the Indian corn crop of 1866 were good in all five districts. The Rubbee crop just cut has been a remarkably good one.

15. From the above remarks it will be seen that the supply of food produced by all the late crops has been, except in the larger portion of Purneah, in the extreme north of Bhaugulpore, and in the most southern part of Monghyr, considerably above the average. There will be some distress in those places where the crops partly failed. Purneah, however, grows very much more rice than it consumes, and the only result there of short crops will be comparatively high prices and a check on exports.

16. In the far north of Bhaugulpore a large proportion of the inhabitants are men who work for wages. Many of them will probably have to migrate for work where food is more plentiful.

17. In Chukye, South Monghyr, there will be some privation, but if the Mohwa tree crop and the mango crop are average ones, the people will not be worse off than they very often are. There is some partial suffering always here and there throughout the country, especially in barren jungly tracts possessing no roads.

18. Notwithstanding the good crops in Deoghur, there may possibly be also a pressure on the people of that district, owing to the very large number of men employed on the new line of railway, most of whom come from other districts, and owing to the difficulty of importing rice from outside across a large breadth of country without roads.

19. I do not recommend any measures of relief in the way of works or other in any part of the Division.

20. The experience of the past year has only confirmed me in the view I held at the beginning of the distress in 1865, that all interference on the part of Government is accompanied by unavoidable disadvantages and drawbacks, and that it is therefore unwise to call in such assistance prematurely.

21. The remarks I have made as to the probability of general prosperity throughout the Division during the current year are of course subject to the possibility of an unforeseen amount of exportation. This is a cause which is beyond calculation. Exportation last year raised the price of rice in the eastern districts of Noacolly and Tipperah, where there had been no failure of crops, to 11 and 9 seers per rupee. This exportation was to the famine districts. This year Orissa alone is likely to require much beyond the supply of its own produce, but large exportation by sea might affect the available stores here or elsewhere. There is a tendency at present to a fall in prices, which would of course encourage exportation.

22. As owing to their depletion last year, the dealers' golahs, notwithstanding the good crops, contain smaller stocks than usual, any decided fall in prices would, I consider, be at present a misfortune to the country.

Condition and Prospects of Hazareebaugh.

From T. B. Lane, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 610M., dated the 4th April 1867)

In continuation of this Office letter No. 565M., dated the 29th March, I am directed to forward, for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor, copy of a letter from the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore and its annexure.

From Major H. M. Boddam, Deputy Commissioner of Hazareebaugh, to the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore,—(No 231, dated the 16th March 1867.)

In acknowledging the receipt of your communications as per margin, I have the honor to inform you that, after careful enquiries, I find there are twenty-four orphan children in this District left destitute and entirely dependent upon charity, of these seven are under the charge (temporary) of Baboo Kalidass Palit, Deputy Collector in charge Ramghur Estate, and the remainder are under the charge of Reverend H. Batsch, Lutheran Missionary, Singhance.

Memorandum No. 222, dated 11th February 1867.
" " 266, " 20th " "
" " 385, " 7th March "

2. There are no funds now in hand from which the subsistence of these children can be met. Mr. Batsch has been feeding those under his charge from the limited funds belonging to the Mission upon which these children are a very heavy charge, and Baboo Kalidass has been subsisting those under his charge from the funds of the estate of the late Maharajah till some other provision or arrangement can be made.

3. The children are all of the lowest castes, Bhoonyas, Koormies, &c., and, as far as I can learn from the conversation with the inhabitants of this District, the public are entirely indifferent whether the children are fed by the Missionaries or by people of their own caste.

4. I made very careful enquiries during my annual tour, entering into all the villages both along my line of march and around my camps, and I am happy to say that the very abundant harvest with which this District has been blessed, leads me to believe that there is no fear of a recurrence of any absolute want this year; grain will necessarily remain at a much higher price this year than in the year 1865 and former years, as the old stocks are entirely exhausted, but the amount of food gathered in this year is more than sufficient for the wants of this District.

5. The rice crop has given a full sixteen anna return on the quantity sown; much ground has unfortunately been left fallow owing to want of seed and want of means to obtain the seed corn or to purchase bullocks wherewith to plough the land, but as I have said before a greater return has been given from the smaller crop sown in many instances than has been received in the then previous years from a much larger extent of land cultivated.

6. The Rubbee crops too have been most abundant. The wheat is full in the ear and strong in straw; but this grain as well as gram (which has also proved a full crop) is only cultivated to any extent in Pergunnahs Chye and Goomoo, but everywhere these crops this year have proved abundant. Should however export to any great extent take place, there may be towards the months of July and August next, distress among the very lowest class of agriculturists and village artisans owing to the high prices which exportation would cause, but warned by the experience of last year, I am happy to say that the villages have hitherto husbanded their grain stocks, and I am in hopes that we shall pass through the year unscathed and untouched by distress above the usual amount that always prevails in every District.

I have therefore refrained from preparing any estimate for grain or money.

From H. L. HARRISON, Esq., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No 1417, dated the 5th April 1867.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 610M., dated the 4th instant, submitting a Report from the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore on the present state and future prospects of the Hazareebaugh District, and with reference to paragraphs 1 to 3 of Major Boddam's letter, to say that, pending the final decision of the General Famine Relief Committee as to the measures to be taken for affording relief to the orphans left destitute in consequence of the famine, the Lieutenant-Governor sanctions the sum of Rupees 2 a month being paid for the support of each of the 24 destitute orphan children at present dependant on private charity in the Hazareebaugh District.

Resinous Products of the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

From T. ANDERSON, Esq., Conservator of Forests, Lower Provinces, to the Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 228, dated the 27th March 1867.)

SIR,

IN reply to your No. 2699 of the 28th September 1866, I have the honor to submit the following report on the resinous products of the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

Without making enquiries in the districts where these products are obtained, it is impossible for me to state the quantity and value of the resinous products procurable in Bengal, and I am not competent to pronounce an opinion on the quality. For these reasons I shall at present submit only the information I possess on this subject, but I would recommend that copies of this report should be sent to the Civil Officers of the districts yielding resinous substances, and that they should be requested to supply samples for examination and professional report, with any local information they can procure on the nature and extent of the trade in such articles.

Coniferæ, the producers of tar and pitch and similar resinous matters, are exceedingly scarce in the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the only species being Pinus longifolia (occurring only on one ridge in British Sikhim, and there very sparingly,) and Pinus Khassyana (closely allied to Pinus Sinensis), a tree rather abundant in the Khasya Hills. Podocarpus neriifolius, the only other species Coniferæ in Bengal, is very rare, and besides is not known to yield any resinous substance.

In British Sikhim, hardly a pine tree has escaped being tapped and charred by the natives for its resin, which they use as a medicine in rheumatism; but the number of trees is so small that the yield from them is scarcely worth calculating. The pines of the Khasya Hills probably contain resin to the same extent as Pinus longifolia, but so far as I know no resin, tar or pitch, has ever been collected from them. The turpentine of Pinus longifolia is said to be of very fine quality, and according to Royle is chiefly prized by the natives on account of its resin. The oil of turpentine obtained from Pinus longifolia was pronounced in the General Hospital of Calcutta to be of very superior quality. I presume that the turpentine of Pinus Khassyana will scarcely differ from that of Pinus longifolia.

In Independent Sikhim other species of Coniferæ abound, but no resinous product from them reaches British territory. Vast forests of Abies Webbiana exist at heights above 8,000 feet, and at comparatively short distances from Darjeeling.

In the Lower Provinces of Bengal, resinous substances are yielded principally by species of Dipterocarpeæ, and in Chittagong where trees of this order abound, wood oil or gurjun is extensively collected. This substance, obtained by tapping the tree to the new wood at the period when the sap ascends, is yielded principally by Dipterocarpus lævis Ham, a tree common in Chittagong and Tipperah, and extending into the northern provinces of Burmah. D. costatus and D. incanus, natives of Chittagong, yield wood oil equally with D. lævis. In Burmah, other species occur, some of them new to science and the most of them are rich in resinous exudations. In the Andaman Islands, Mr. Kurz, the Curator of the Herbarium of the Botanical Gardens, has lately detected three species of the genus: they are D. lævis, D. alatus, and a new species.

A vast quantity of wood oil (gurjun) might be collected from these trees in the Chittagong and Tipperah Districts, and probably in the Andaman Islands. In this natural order Shorea robusta, the Sal, also abounds in resinous matter, which is collected and sold in the bazars of North-Western India under the name dhoona. In Bengal, this substance is probably imported from the forests of the Morung, on the Nepal Frontier. Shorea Tumbugaia, a species from Southern India, also yields dammer in abundance, which Dr. Roxburgh says is employed instead of pitch. Vateria indica of Southern India and Ceylon affords an abundant gum resin, said to resemble copal varnish. In Ceylon, this substance is used for burning in religious ceremonies. Hopea odorata of Burmah and Arracan, nearly allied to Sal, also exudes a resin.

Thwaites says (enumeration of Ceylon Plants, p. 35,) a large quantity of colorless gum resin exudes from the bark and branches of Doona Zeylanica, the Doom gas of the Cingalese, which when dissolved in spirits of wine or turpentine makes an excellent varnish.

Many of the species of the natural order. Burseraceæ also abound in resinous substances, and several of them are found in Bengal. The products of most of them are used very locally, while others, such as the aromatic resins, being used as medicines or incense, are extensively known. The plants yielding these substances belong principally to the genera Boswellia and Balsamodendron. Canarium Benghalense and other species contain resinous matter; that exuding from C. Benghalense, a tree very common in Sikhim, Bhootan and Eastern Bengal, is said to resemble copal.

Melanorrhœa usitata, a large tree of the natural order. Anacardiaceæ produces the well known varnish of Burmah, where the tree is called Theetsee. The tree was discovered in Eastern Bengal by Dr. Wallich, who states that at Munipore it is known by the name Kheu. Dr. Wallich has in the Plantæ Asiatica Rariores given a full account of this tree and the varnish obtained from it. The following extracts are from Dr. Wallich's remarks on the tree:

"The first time I met with this very interesting tree was at a small village below Prome, on the River Irrawaddi, where a few had been planted; and on my return from Ava I found it again in abundance on the hills surrounding the first-mentioned town."

Dr. Wallich further says, he afterwards identified that tree with Kheu, or varnish tree of Munipore on the North-East Districts of Sylhet and Tipperah, and that Captain Grant who commanded at Munipore sent him the following particulars about the Kheu tree:—

"The tree grows in great abundance at Kubbu, an extensive valley in the abovementioned principality, forming large forests in conjunction with the two staple timber trees of Continental India, the Saul and Teak, (Shorea robusta and Tectona Grandis), especially the former; numbers of the gigantic wood oil tree (Dipterocarpus) are also found in company with it. The size of it varies, but in general it attains very large dimensions." Captain Grant speaks of trees having clear stems of 42 feet to the first branch, with a circumference near the ground of 13 feet, and he mentions that they are known to attain a much greater size. All the individuals grow in the same manner, that is, they reach a great height before throwing out any branches. Mr. Smith, a resident of Sylhet, also supplied the following information about the Melanorrhœa to Mr. Colebrooke, at that time in charge of the Botanical Gardens. He says:

"I have discovered a sort of varnish, which I consider as the identical one made use of by the Chinese in their Eastern and North-Eastern Provinces. It is procurable in great quantities from Munipore, where it is used for paying river crafts, and for varnishing vessels destined to contain liquids, such as oil, ghee (clarified butter), milk, honey, or water. The drug is conveyed to Sylhet for sale by the merchants, who come down annually with horses and other objects of trade. The tree which yields it grows to an amazing size. I am informed that it attains one hundred cubits in height and twenty cubits circumference, and even more. It forms extensive forests, which commence at a distance of three days' journey from the capital, and stretch in a northerly and easterly direction towards China for many miles."

Dr. Wallich states that "in the neighbourhood of Prome a considerable quantity of varnish is extracted from the tree; but very little is obtained at Martaban, owing, as I was told, to the poverty of the soil, and partly also to the circumstance of there being none of the people in that part whose business it is to perform the process. This latter is very simple: short points of a thin sort of bamboo, sharpened at one end like a writing pen and shut up at the other, are inserted in a slanting direction into wounds made through the bark of the trunk and principal boughs, and left there for twenty-four or forty-eight hours, after which they are removed, and their contents, which rarely exceed a quarter of an ounce, emptied into a basket made of bamboo or rattan previously varnished over. As many as a hundred bamboos are sometimes seen sticking into a single trunk during the collecting season, which lasts as long as the tree is destitute of leaves, namely, from January until April; and they are renewed as long as the juice will flow. A good tree is reckoned to produce from 1½ to 2, 3, and even 4 viss annually: a viss being equal to about 3½ lbs. Avoirdupoise. In its pure state it is sold at Prome at the rate of our tical, or 2s. 6d. the viss. At Martaban, where every thing was dear when I was there, the drug was retailed at 2 Madras Rupees per viss; it was of an inferior quality, and mixed with sesamum oil; an adulteration which is often practised.

"The extensive use to which this varnish is applied, indicates that it must be a very cheap commodity. Almost every article of household furniture, destined to contain either solid or liquid food, is lacquered by means of it. At a village close to Pagam on the Irrawaddi, called Gnaunee, where this sort of manufacture is carried on very extensively and to great perfection. I endeavoured to obtain some information relating to the precise mode of lacquering: but I could learn nothing further than this, that the article to be varnished must first be prepared with a coating of pounded calcined bones; after which the varnish is laid on thinly, either in its pure state or variously coloured by means of red or other pigments. I was told that the most essential as well as difficult part of the operation consists in the process of drying, which must be effected in a very slow and gradual manner; for which purpose the articles are placed in damp and cool subterraneous vaults, where they are kept for several months until the varnish has become perfectly dry. Another object for which the drug is extensively employed, is as a size or glue in the process of gilding; nothing more being required than to besmear the surface thinly with the varnish, and then immediately to apply the gold leaf. If it is considered how very extensively that art is practised by the Burmah nation, it being among their most frequent acts of devotion and piety to contribute to the gilding of their numerous religious edifices and idols, it will be evident that a great quantity of the drug must be consumed for that purpose alone. Finally, the beautiful Pali writing of the religious order of the Burmahs on ivory, palm-leaves, or metal, is entirely done with this varnish in its native and pure state."

A common varnish is also procured in the Malayan islands from a species of Glieta (Stagmaria varniaflua, Jack); it is said to be the celebrated black varnish of Japan.

In the same order of plants the fruit of Holigarna longifolia, a large tree, yields an oily substance, which is used by painters for fixing colours and also for varnishing shields.

If in the result of any such investigation the Court shall find that the market-value or net profits has or have been erroneously estimated for the purpose of computing the stamp-duty, the Court shall either (as the case may be) refund the excess paid as such duty, or require the plaintiff to pay so much additional stamp-duty as would have been payable had the said market-value or net profits been correctly estimated, and in such case the suit shall be stayed until the additional duty shall have been paid.

If an appeal or plaint, which shall have been rejected by the lower Court on any of the grounds mentioned in the Code of Civil Procedure, shall be ordered to be received, or if a suit shall be remanded in appeal, on any of the grounds mentioned in Section 351 of the same Code, for a second decision by the lower Court, the Appellate Court shall grant to the appellant a certificate, authorizing him to receive back from the Collector the full amount of stamp duty paid on the petition of appeal. Provided that, if, in the case of a remand in appeal, the order of remand shall not cover the whole of the subject-matter of the suit the certificate so granted shall not authorize the appellant to receive back more than so much duty as would have been originally payable on the part or parts of such subject-matter in respect whereof the suit has been remanded.

(e). When any appeal shall be presented to a Civil Court, not against the whole of a decision, but only against so much thereof as relates to a part or parts of the subject-matter of the suit, and, on the hearing of such appeal, the respondent shall take, under Section 348 of the Code of Civil Procedure, an objection to any part of the said decision other than the part appealed against, the Court shall not hear such objection until the respondent shall have paid the additional stamp duty which would have been payable had the appeal comprised the part of the decision so objected to. Such additional stamp duty shall be calculated by the Court according to the rules abovementioned, and shall be costs in the suit.

An Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of Bombay, No. 203, dated 21st February 1867, representing the inconvenience to Government Officials in that Presidency from the substitution of Money Orders for Privilege Transfer Receipts.

Read also—

A letter No. 261, dated 2nd March 1867, from the Government of Bombay, pointing out the serious objections that result from the restriction contained in the Rules regarding the new Money Order System by which Government Officials in common with others can only remit a sum of Rs. 100 in one order.

Read—

A report No. 1375, dated 28th March 1867, from the Comptroller General of Accounts, proposing, with a view to obviate the inconvenience complained of, that Government Officials who had been allowed Privilege Remittance Transfer Receipts may be permitted to have Money Orders to the full extent to which they were allowed the Receipts, but that no one order shall exceed Rs. 100 except in Bengal, where the maximum is Rs. 150.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council, on a review of all the circumstances of the case, is pleased to sanction the extension of the amount of each Money Order to Rs. 150 throughout India, and hopes that this extended accommodation, together with the Currency Notes which will be issued and cashed freely by officers in charge of treasuries, will render unnecessary a recurrence to the practice of Privilege Remittances.

ORDERED, that a copy of the above be sent to the Government of Bombay and the Comptroller-General of Accounts.

Also that it be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

DECLARATION UNDER SECTION 2, ACT VI. OF 1867.

The 22nd April 1867.—Whereas it appears to the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that land is required to be taken for a public purpose, viz., for the Calcutta Water Works, it is hereby declared that, for the above purpose, two plots of land, A and B, measuring 5-17-6 chittacks, more or less, situated in Mouzah Moneerampore, Pergunnah Calcutta, District 24-Pergunnahs, are required. Their extent, limits, and position are as follows:—

Plot A.—4 beegahs 3 cottahs and 5 chittacks, more or less, in area extends in a straight line 3,000 feet by 20 from the eastern limit of the Moneerampore house compound up to the Cantonment Road, passing in its entire length through the village of Moneerampore, and through lands in the occupation of Dwarkanauth Mookerjee, Koylas Chunder Ghose, Govind Chunder Sudookhan. Sreenauth, Chunder Mohun, Nilmoney, Koylas Chunder, and Radhaprosaud Chowdries, Dinnobundhoo Bannerjee, Kistanund Biswas, Nilmoney Bannerjee, Shaik Bhoodhoo, Shaik Junghy, Shibchurn Tawarce, and Promoth Chunder Gangooly.

Plot B.—1 beegah 17 cottahs, more or less, in area extends in a straight line 800 feet in length and 20 feet in width, from the junction of the Grand Trunk and Railway Station Road to the bend in the Orderly Bazar Road, and from that point in a westerly direction to the Military Parade ground in another straight line 530 feet by 20. It passes through lands belonging to Government, the heirs of the late Ranee Rashmoney Dassee and to Shaik Mozohur Ally.

This Declaration is made, under the provisions of Act VI. of 1857, to all to whom it may concern.

The following Order issued by the Government of India, in the Home Department, is re-published for general information:—

No. 3626.—The 10th April 1867.—The following amended Notice is published for general information, in supersession of Notification No. 140, dated the 8th January last:—

Government Notice No. 1, 1867.

His Excellency the Administrator of the Government directs the publication, for general information, of the following amended Notice of the erection of a Light-house on the Bluff, at the south side of the entrance of Port Natal, in correction of the Notification given in Government Notice No. 122, 1866.

By His Excellency's Command,

D. ERSKINE,
Colonial Secy.

COLONIAL OFFICE, NATAL,
The 4th January 1867.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

A Light-house has been erected on the Bluff, at the south side of the entrance of Port Natal, at an elevation of 292 feet above high water, a light from which will be exhibited on the 23rd January 1867.

The Light-house is in Latitude 29° 52′ 50″ S., and Longitude 31° 3′ 35″ E.

The building is an iron tower, in the form of a frustrum of a cone, 81 feet high, painted white, centre of light being 70 feet above the base, exhibiting a revolving white light of the second class (dioptric), attaining its greatest brilliancy once every minute.

It is visible in all directions from North (round by East and South) to S. 69° W., and can be seen from a ship's deck 24 miles in clear weather.

The above light is not visible from the Aliwal shoal, which is 25 miles S., 53° W., from the Light-house; vessels should not, therefore, when coming from the southward and westward approach the shore nearer than four miles, or shoal their water under 40 fathoms, using the lead freely until they make the light well out from the deck, when they may stand in until it bears N. 59° E.,—which bearing will keep them outside all known danger—until they are abreast of the Umlazi River (about 9½ miles below the Light-house), when they must keep it more to the northward, as the land trends more to the eastward, giving the shore a good berth of a mile; and when the light bears about W. N. W., they can haul into the northward for the anchorage; anchoring in 8½ to 10 fathoms, with the Light-house bearing S. W. to S. W. ½ S. distant one mile.

W. E. Archdeacon, Master, R N.,
Admiralty Surveyor.

N. B.—The above bearings are magnetic.

(c) This includes charges on account of establishments entertained in 1865, and hence the slight difference between the amount and that shewn in the detailed statement on the reverse of this.

(d) The balance of Rupees 2,000 in the 1st December 1865 brought forward in this Return will not correspond with the amount shewn in the Return of 1865, owing to errors in the District Return of that year.

Report on the effects of Famine on the Schools and educational Institutions in the South-West Division of Bengal.

Memorandum from W. S. ATKINSON, Esq, Director of Public Instruction.—(No. 978, dated the 6th March 1867.)

FORWARDED to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal for information, in continuation of this Office No. 859, dated 27th February.

From W. W. HUNTER, ESQ., B. A., formerly Officiating Inspector of Schools for the South-West Division of Bengal, to the Director of Public Instruction,—(dated St. Ann's Mount, Scotland.)

REFERRING to your letter requesting me to put into an official form my observations on the effect of the famine upon education in the South-West Division of Bengal, I have the honor to report.

Until the middle of June I am not aware that the scarcity exercised any influence upon the schools under my superintendence, but about that period a general restlessness on the part of the masters began to make itself apparent. It rarely happens that a teacher is able to find a situation in his own village or town, and those who go forth to seek their fortunes generally leave their families according to the native custom in the paternal residence. As the famine grew more intense such men were besieged with letters representing the distressed state of their families, and imploring them to come home and endeavour to set things to rights. One teacher told me that the village corn-dealer had refused to advance any more food to his family, and therefore he wanted a month's leave. Another had received a letter from his wife, saying that the landlord was threatening to execute an old decree; but if her husband could come home and make some arrangement, the distraint might be stayed. But the most general cause of anxiety had reference to the June rice sowings. Seed was with difficulty to be obtained by any one, and many of the village usurers objected to advancing the precious commodity to families whose heads were living away from home. These, and similar causes, produced a general uneasiness very difficult to deal with. All that could be done was, by personal influence to discourage teachers from applying officially for leave, and to encourage them by moving about myself, and by insisting on my Deputy Inspectors moving about as much as the flooded state of the country permitted.

In August matter became worse. The local fevers which are always prevalent towards the end of the rainy season, took a particularly virulent and infectious type; long continued and unusual floods shut off considerable numbers of the pupils from the schools; and cholera made its appearance simultaneously in several of the districts within my circle. Applications for closing schools on account of the latter disease became frequent, and after careful inquiry I found it expedient in many cases to grant them. In some places a cholera panic occurred. If a boy got a sore stomach he immediately cried out he had cholera, two or three schools closed in anticipation of official sanction; and, notwithstanding a circular I had issued, laying down the procedure to be followed when cholera broke out among the pupils, one large institution shut up and the masters ran away before communicating with me on the subject.

If at any time rigid and constant inspection was more necessary than at another, it was now. But of the Deputy Inspectors one had died of cholera while on circuit, two were ill of fever, another was constantly applying for leave, and the rest were so disinclined to move from head-quarters, that I had more than once to remark on the fewness of the schools visited. Their disinclination was not without some show of reason, as the rains were so excessive, that it was difficult to keep one's self dry in a hired palkee, and frequently necessary to wait several hours on the bank of small rivers before they became fordable; indeed, notwithstanding the superior comforts with which I was able to travel, I never completed a tour without having fever. It had become necessary to take some decisive step, and at the beginning of September I started from Beerbhoom, the northern boundary of my Division, intending to visit each district till I reached the Orissa sea-shore on the south.

Beerbhoom.—In the district of Beerbhoom itself the famine had never been very intense, and the floods at the end of June, by destroying the Railway bridges, gave employment and good wages to all who wanted work. It was not found necessary to begin any system of public relief till nearly the end of the rains, and then only on a very small scale, the recipients being, with few exceptions, lepros or aged persons incapable of labour. The scarcity exercised no perceptible influence upon education in Beerbhoom; indeed, in more than one school the fees were raised without affecting the attendance. The East India Railway intersected the district, distributing food at the lowest market prices and along its course. At Synthea, one of the stations on the line, I found rice selling at six pounds to the rupee cheaper than at Soorie,* the civil capital of Beerbhoom.

* Soorie is only eleven miles from Synthea.

Burdwan.—In the adjoining district of Burdwan the famine had been much more severe. Relief operations were actively at work; the Maharajah feeding, as I was informed, from eight to nine thousand persons every day, and providing hospitals, attendance, and medical comforts for the sick. I naturally expected to find the schools had suffered, and was quite unprepared for the following figures furnished by the head master of the respective institutions :—

Statement shewing the number of Pupils at the Burdwan Town Schools on 2nd September 1865 and 1st September 1866.

	In September 1865.			In September 1866.

Total ...	741	137	878	814	180	994	27	143

In the Town of Burdwan, therefore, the number of pupils had increased by 116, or more than thirteen per cent. during the famine year, and the quality of the education sought had risen in a still higher proportion. Boys had left the Maharajah's Vernacular school, which shews a decrease of twenty-seven pupils, and gone to the Maharajah's English schools, which shew an increase of 128, or one-fifth of the whole number on the roll in the previous September. The Missionary schools, if I remember rightly, had also prospered, but I have no return of the exact numbers.

It had been resolved by the Relief Committee at Burdwan to extend their operations to the rural parts, and Mymaree, a village sixteen miles to the south-east, was selected as a site for a rice depot. This locality had suffered so severely from the famine, that many of the inhabitants had deserted their homes and fled either to Burdwan or Calcutta. As one of the objects which I had proposed to myself on setting out, was to ascertain the influence of the famine upon education in places where the scarcity had been most intense, I proceeded to Mymaree and inspected the schools which received Government aid. The following Table shews the number of pupils in the present and the preceding September :—

	September 1865.			September 1866.
	Number present.	Number absent.	Total.	Number present.	Number absent.	Total.	Increase in 1866.
English School	60	21	81	86	16	102	21
Vernacular School	35	11	46	39	11	50	4
Total ...	95	32	127	125	27	152	25

As in the Town of Burdwan, so also in the village of Mymaree, education had advanced both in quantity and quality during the famine year. The Vernacular or lower school had obtained only four additional pupils, or less than nine per cent. of the attendance in 1865 ; the number of students who had sought a higher class education in the English school had increased by twenty-one, or more than twenty-five per cent. As I was informed that a school at Ahmoodpore (or Anaudopore), a few miles from Mymaree, had lost several pupils, I visited it. But I found the loss to be apparent rather than real, there being 151 boys actually present against 142 in July 1865, although the number on the rolls was only 158 against 160 in the preceding year.

This extension of education during a year of unprecedented scarcity took me by surprise. I at first supposed it was only local, but the Deputy Inspector of Burdwan assured that the numerical strength of the schools, particularly of the upper ones, was increased throughout his whole district, and the inspection which I subsequently made of the institutions in the north-west portion of it verified his statement. In and around one small town, Mancur, now a Railway Station, where a few years ago a single illiterate Brahmin doled out his meagre stock of knowledge to the children, squatting upon the ground, exposed to the weather and destitute of books, I found four excellent schools, including private* and aided institutions, all of which had grown in strength and usefulness during the past year. Of the upper class one I have a formal return, exhibiting the following remarkable increase :—

* One of these is an excellent girls' school, held in a landholder's residence.

	September 1865.			September 1866.
	Number of boys present.	Number absent.	Total.	Number of boys present.	Number absent.	Total.	Increase.
Mancur School	104	15	119	149	9	158	39

The increase, therefore, during the famine year amounted to nearly one-third of the whole strength of the school in 1865.

Nature of the Famine.—The truth is that the famine did not touch the classes who seek an education in our schools. In Orissa the case may be different; but this remark applies to all the districts which I visited, including among them the most severely afflicted localities in Lower Bengal. Our schools derive support from four classes; the landholders, the village bankers (mahajuns), the better sort of shop-keepers, and the substantial cultivators whose holdings amount to or exceed seven acres. To these ranks of society the famine was an inconvenience, neither more nor less grave than to the English inhabitants, and in very few cases did it amount to a sufficient cause for withdrawing children from school. On the other hand, a large proportion of these classes profited by the famine; many of the landholders and most of the village bankers, a class which combines corn-dealing with money-lending, had large stores of grain which they disposed of at famine prices; the upper classes of shop-keepers also, by laying in their stocks according to their wont at the end of harvest when rice was comparatively cheap, made unusual profits. The case of the cultivators was different. In Western Bengal (Lower Provinces) tillage is carried on by means of advances generally obtained from the village banker, occasionally from the landholder himself. These rural capitalists foresaw that the scanty harvest of 1865 would render cultivation very profitable in 1866, and made their advances on an unusually liberal scale Land, that had lain so long untilled, that the little ridges (ails) between the fields were obliterated, was again ploughed up, and in every district along the west of Lower Bengal, from Beerbhoom to Midnapore, cultivation was extended into the jungle and pushed up to dry elevations, where it had never been attempted before. For this year (1866-67) a meagre crop would be a profitable one, and a low class of land that in ordinary seasons would not pay the cost of tillage might be highly remunerative. These expectations turned out to be just. In one locality through which I passed, between Bancoorah and Bishenpore, the September crops were selling at the unprecedented price of £15 per acre as they stood on the fields.

In order that the land should be cultivated, however, the cultivators had to be fed. The blessed difference between the present and former famines in Lower Bengal is that a class of rural capitalists existed to feed them. Instead of the cultivator dying of starvation and his land going out of tillage for want of seed, money-lenders were anxious to advance food, landlords were willing to remit rents on consideration of obtaining a share in the crops at harvest time. At the close of the famine of 1769-70, one-third of Bengal had relapsed into jungle. During the famine of 1865-66, the margin of cultivation has been extended over many square miles which had, in prosperous years, lain waste. Both famines altered for a time the relation of rural labour to capital. The cultivator became a subject of competition. After the famine of 1769, five millions of the population had disappeared, and there was more land than there were people to till it. Each landholder tried to entice away the tenants on his neighbour's estate. A large class of non-resident tenants (Paikhaust ryots) was developed, and the quarrels of the Zemindars on this subject were not unfrequently espoused with angry zeal by the Collectors of their respective districts. During the famine of 1866, the rural capitalists found it to their interest to extend the area of cultivation; and as the number of cultivators did not increase with the suddenly increased demand, agricultural labour was in a position to make its bargain with capital on new and improved terms.

Comparison between the Famines of 1769-70 and of 1865-66

Notwithstanding the high prices therefore, the cultivator was enabled to pursue his ordinary course and to enjoy most of his ordinary comforts, and the few instances in which substantial farmers withdrew their children from school were more than compensated by additions from another source. For a famine, like a war, is prolific of new men, and the first thing that a successful speculator in Bengal does, is to send his children to school.

Analysis of the classes who sought public relief.—During my tour I visited relief depots in the seven districts and sub-districts marginally noted, and endeavoured, so far as I could, to make myself acquainted with the previous circumstances of the recipients of public charity. It was impossible to speak to every one in the throng, but as nearly as I can estimate, I came personally into contact with certainly not less, and probably many more, than five thousand such persons. Each of them had his tale of reverses, which none of them allowed to suffer for want of a little coloring; but I did not meet with a single man who professed to have been in the position of a substantial cultivator, that is, a holder of seven acres or upwards, nor with a single woman who professed to be the widow of such a man. Many of them said they had had land, but in very few instances had the quantity amounted to two acres, and nine-tenths of them were professional beggars, leprous and maimed persons, cripples, day labourers who eked out their wages by means of public charity; the wives and children of artisans who had deserted their homes and gone to the great cities in search of employment; vast multitudes of half savages from the starved hill districts, and pilgrims who had fallen sick upon the high road, with many similar strays and waifs who had drifted into the rice depots.

1. Beerbhoom.
2. Burdwan.
3. Raneegunge.
4. Bancoorah.
5. Bishenpore.
6. Garbatah.
7. Midnapore.

Raneegunge.—The place where such strays and waifs were most conspicuous was Raneegunge, situated near the great north road which unites the Lower with the Upper Provinces, it became the nightly receptacle of miserable footsore objects, many of whom perished by the way side and even in the streets on their way to the depot. A still greater number died of the effects of over-eating after weeks of starvation. Notwithstanding the zealous efforts of the gentleman who conducted the relief operations, it was impossible to move out of doors without feeling one's self in the midst of a great famine, yet the large school of Searsole, situated a little beyond the outskirts of the town, had prospered to such an extent that the managers felt the time had come to give a higher class of education, and to this end proposed certain alterations in the pay of the masters. The following Return shews the increase of attendance:—

	1st September 1865.			1st September 1866.			Increase in 1866.
	Number of boys present.	Number absent.	Total number on roll.	Number of boys present.	Number absent.	Total number on roll.
Searsole School ..	76	38	114	105	24	129	15.

It was not this increase, however satisfactory as it certainly is, that chiefly impressed me. I remember being particularly struck by the well-clad bright faced boys inside the school and the misery which prevailed around.

Bancoorah —From Raneegunge I proceeded to Bancoorah. Here the Relief Depot was daily crowded with upwards of two thousand paupers, and the Government rice mart, where grain was sold at reduced prices, was equally well attended. One depot near the town was assigned for casual and healthy paupers; another on the further side of the river was set apart for diseased persons, and a regular system was adapted by means of tickets to ensure a daily supply to such as were thrown permanently on public charity. I see that the Official Return for the week ending 28th September states the average daily number of non-labourers in receipt of relief at 8,221 for the whole district. The unfortunate people were, for the most part, day laborers, with their wives and families, from the neighbouring stone quarries. As the scarcity became more intense, several humane masters in various parts of the country raised the wages of their workmen, but it was found impossible in this department of labour to make the increase bear any proportion to the enhanced price of food. While the father hewed stone in the quarry, the wife and children obtained relief at the rice depot, and the working of the scheme proved on the whole satisfactory. I was unable to find a single person among the throng who had previous to the famine held what is usually termed a respectable position in life. The famine had not in any way affected the numerical strength of our schools in the chief town, and indeed so prosperous had been the operations of the past year, that the Committee of Public Instruction, shortly after my arrival, memorialized for an increase of the Head-Master's pay.

Bishenpore.—Perhaps the place in all Bengal in which the ravages of the famine were most visible, was Bishenpore. I proceeded to this town in company with the Civil Surgeon of Bancoorah, Dr. Vincent Richards, to whose humanity the poor people of that district owe much. Cholera had been raging in Bishenpore for several months, and the Bengal Government had deemed it necessary to depute a native medical man to the task of dealing with the evil. "Cholera has broken out here in a most virulent form," wrote the Relieving Officer in August last :—"It is, if possible, worse than the last attack, and bids fair to exterminate the whole of Bishenpore." I found this town, once the most important in Western Bengal, Lower Provinces, turned into a pauper city. Its many colored silks could find no vend, the weavers had deserted their homes, and instead of the ceaseless rattle of the shuttle, stillness reigned in its streets. The weavers who remained were prevented, by considerations of caste, from accepting relief at the depot, and I became personally acquainted with many poor families in the last stage of voluntary starvation. The young children who had not been formally inducted into their caste were allowed to frequent the depot, and obtained a plentiful meal every evening. It was reported, too, that the fathers who fled from their families were by no means particular in the distant cities, but public opinion and ancient prejudice were too strong for those who remained at home. I urged one man who could hardly rise from weakness to repair to the rice depot before it was too late. "Shall I eat the unclean food in the presence of my wife and of my father" was his reply. Serious as are the difficulties connected with a judicious distribution of uncooked rice, my experience at Bishenpore led me to think that in all places where there is a large and respectable population of artisans, such a distribution on a small scale should always be made to supplement the less discriminating bounty of the boiled rice depots. I afterwards found this idea excellently carried out in the district of Midnapore.

If in any place the famine should have affected the numbers of our schools, it should have been in and around Bishenpore. Up to the present year we have only had one school at Bishenpore, and none nearer to it than Oonda, eleven miles to the north on the great road. The school at Bishenpore is one of the twenty-six that were originally organized entirely at the expense of Government, with a view to create a demand for education in backward parts where such a demand did not of itself exist. My predecessor, Mr. Harrison, contemplated putting the school on the sounder basis of the aided system, according to which the inhabitants would guarantee a certain amount monthly in support of the school, and Government would supplement the sum thus guaranteed by a grant-in-aid. It was not found expedient, however, to carry this plan out, and until the famine year Bishenpore remained among the list of those backward places to which the grant-in-aid system could not prudently be applied. In October last, after the famine had done its worst, I had not been in the town six hours before I received two deputations, one requesting a grant for an upper class English school in Bishenpore, which private efforts had called into existence and successfully carried through the year of scarcity; the other for a Vernacular school, a few miles distant, in a village which until the year of famine hardly boasted a single Patshallah. I visited both these new institutions and found them in every way worthy of Government aid. The English school in Bishenpore was held in what had formerly been a temple, but the idols were now tumbled out into the yard and the apartments fitted up as class rooms. There were about twenty boys busy over English books, and as there was no black board, I made one of them go over rather a difficult Proposition in Euclid by means of a figure drawn upon the floor. The other school at Ramsagur was even more satisfactory, the original Government school had probably developed the demand for a higher class education in Bishenpore, but in Ramsagur the demand was spontaneous on the part of the people. I found thirty-five well clad intelligent lads hard at work upon Geography, History and Mathematics; of whom the youngest boy had more accurate ideas of the external world and of the past than the most learned Brahmin in the time of his grandfather.

I naturally expected that these new and superior institutions would have withdrawn many of the pupils from the original Government school. The new English school had certainly done so, attracting as such schools always do the head boys of the Vernacular institution. On visiting the latter, therefore, I was much surprised to find fifty-six boys actually present against twenty-eight on the last day the school was open in the previous September (1865). My first visit was made, if I remember rightly, on the 27th September 1866. I visited the school again in October; the numbers were the more satisfactory as I had not been expected; indeed, on the last open day of September 1866 there were forty-six boys present against twenty-eight boys on the corresponding day in the previous year. The nominal number on the roll had decreased however, as I had issued orders at an early period of the famine year to strike off all boys who ceased to be bonâ fide students, so that I might ascertain to what extent the famine was affecting our school. Thus on the last open day of September 1865, out of a nominal roll of seventy-six pupils only twenty-eight were present. On the last open day in September 1866 there were only sixty-nine on the roll; but of these, in spite of cholera and famine, forty-six were present, or sixty-four per cent. more than in the previous year, it cannot be expected that the rival English school will not attract by its higher class education many of the pupils of the old lower class institution; but this is precisely the object which the original school was designed to bring about, and I left Bishenpore fully convinced that the time had come to remove the old school to some more backward locality and to apply the grant-in-aid system to that city.

Gurbatah.—From Bishenpore I travelled to Gurbatah. In this place the labouring population was so enfeebled by famine, that the Indigo Planters had to feed up the men whom they employed in the vats; and in spite of the rations thus given in addition to the regular pay, one gentleman assured me that he had lost a large proportion of the dye from the inability of the labourers to stamp the plant with sufficient force. I inspected with more than ordinary interest the schools here. I found that while the Relief Depots in the vicinity were crowded by the families of day labourers and jungle people, the number of pupils on our rolls had increased from fifty-nine in September 1865 to ninety-two in September 1866, and that a successful effort had been made to raise the character of the education given. Both the English and Vernacular Departments were prospering in the highest degree, a native gentleman of fortune freely giving his services as honorary head master of the English side.

Deduction from the foregoing.—After examples such as these, I feel it would be superfluous to swell this report by similar instances. I have selected the very localities in which the famine was most severely felt; I have cited schools of every class from the Maharajah's at Burdwan, whence ambitious boys go up to take honors at the University, down to the humble original school at Bishenpore. The result of my inquiries places, I think, beyond question that the famine has not affected the numerical strength of our schools, and as a corollary therefrom, that it has not affected in any important degree the classes from which our schools derive their pupils. Whenever I entered a district, I asked the Deputy Inspector whether the schools had suffered numerically; the usual answer was in the negative, and indeed the number of additional schools organised during the famine month has seldom, I believe, been equalled in my Division during the same period of time. Whenever a Head-master complained that his pupils had fallen off in consequence of the famine, I made his statement a subject of careful inquiry. In one instance, and in one only, I found that the scarcity was the real cause of the falling off; in all others, I ascertained that the decrease was due to the ignorance or unpopularity of the Head-master himself, and that the famine was only a stalking horse behind which he concealed his own incompetency. The single case in which the famine was responsible for the diminution of the attendance was Palashdanga in Banccorah, but here, owing to local droughts, the people had reaped no harvest for two years, and after all the school had only fallen off from eighty pupils in October 1865, when the present famine may be said to have begun, to seventy-three pupils in August 1866, which is the latest month for which I possess an official return of the attendance. Some of the explanations were sufficiently ridiculous. The Head-master of the Gopalpore school had allowed his pupils to dwindle from seventy-four in January 1865 to forty-five in August 1866, and the fees from Rupees 32-4 to Rupees 10-4. He loudly complained of the famine as the cause. I ascertained from local inquiries that the famine had been no worse there than elsewhere. "Indeed, some of the boys have left the school," he next writes, "owing to the scarcity of food: but they have not left the school solely for the scarcity of food, but for the aversion they have to labour requisite for the acquisition of knowledge. They are generally dull and fond of ease and therefore they do not like to be subject to the strict rules of a school, while some are two big to continue their studies." Another master, the Head Pundit of Lago-Darapore Model School, had also much to say about the famine. That his school had fallen off greatly during the past two years was clear, but fortunately for the validity of his explanation the Deputy Inspector of his district wrote to me about the same period that the school had "gradually fallen off since March 1865, owing, as it appears to me, to the unpopulatity of the Head Pundit who fails by his manners to attract the sympathy and good will of the people of the village." The letter concludes with a request that I should remove the Head Pundit, and from subsequent conversation with the Deputy Inspector, I think his letter might have been couched in even stronger terms.

The question as to the thoroughness of our school system.

It may possibly suggest itself to some minds that the foregoing pages may be cited to prove that our system of education does not penetrate the masses of the people quite as fairly as they may be taken to shew that the famine did not reach the respectable classes. This idea presented itself forcibly to myself when I found how greatly public instruction had increased in Burdwan during the famine year. With a view to testing its accuracy, I visited not only our own schools of every grade, but also Missionary schools which are supposed to reach a lower stratum of society than our secular institutions and the patshallahs or indigenous village schools, which go still deeper. I found, however, that the missionary institutions had prospered quite as greatly as our own. In Beerbhoom their progress had been so satisfactory, that I felt justified in recommending them for Government aid. In Mymaree, where the famine was said to have been peculiarly severe, the result of missionary tuition during the year under report was as follows:—

The Missionary schools.

	September 1865.			September 1866.
	Number of boys present.	Number of boys absent.	Total number on roll.	Number of boys present.	Number of boys absent.	Total number on roll.	Increase in 1866.

Our village schools.

With regard to the village Indigenous Schools the result of my inquiries was not so uniform; in many places the number had increased; in most villages they had at any rate stood their ground, and in a very few they were said to have diminished. The village Pundit of Mymaree, an ignorant deaf old man, entirely blind of one eye and nearly so of the other, lamented that his school had fallen off from thirty-eight and sometimes forty boys to thirty-three, the number I found actually present. When the proportion of absentees was taken into account, it became apparent he had not much to complain of. As no books are kept by the village Pundits it was impossible for them to furnish trustworthy returns, but the general result of my investigation went to shew that both in the Missionary and in the Indigenous schools education had progressed during the famine year. In short, that all the classes, from the highest to the lowest, who cared to have their children instructed had been able to keep their children at school.

Notwithstanding the statistics I have adduced in the foregoing pages, however, I should be very unwilling to say that the famine has not exercised a deleterious influence upon public instruction in my division. The number of pupils have increased, the proportion of the pupils who seek a higher class education has increased in a still greater degree, but in estimating the efficiency of public instruction other things besides these have to be considered. In the first place it has rendered many of my best teachers dissatisfied, and I am afraid permanently dissatisfied with their position. To a Native Gentleman who is a highly finished English Scholar the Educational Department holds out high prizes, but to the rank and file in the Vernacular Schools, the men through whom we reach the masses of the people, feel that they are not paid either for the work they do, or for the previous training which enables them to do such work. I refrained from troubling you with complaints on this subject during the famine, as the difficulty of living on their pay at that period might have been urged by every class of officials. I did what I could, however, to ascertain whether their complaints were well founded, and, without venturing to suggest any general alteration in pay, a suggestion which is beyond my province, I beg to record my belief that the Vernacular teachers were the class of officials who may be said to have first broken down in the famine; who had in a more painful degree than any other class no previous savings to fall back upon; and that their pay is permanently less adequate to the work they do than the pay of Ministerial Officers in the Magisterial, the Collectorate, or the Registery Department.

The way in which the famine effected our schools for evil.

Dissatisfaction of the teachers.

The teachers, harassed for the means of obtaining their daily bread and agitated by distressing accounts about their families at home, worked with divided interest, and often, I am sorry to say, with no interest at all. I had sometimes reason to fear that in their desire to go home, and at the same time to continue to draw full pay, they exaggerated the danger of the cholera or other epidemic which were in their village, with a view to obtaining my sanction to temporarily closing the school. It is certain that the system of tests which I devised in the case of such applications greatly lessened their frequency, and after I had set out on my tour I do not remember that a single additional application of this nature was received.

The hardships of the vernacular teachers were exaggerated in some cases, I am afraid, from a very discreditable cause. The more necessitous the master, the more he is dependent upon the local managers of the school, and the less apt is he to bring any irregularities on their part to the notice of the Deputy Inspector or of myself. This year capital could be so advantageously employed and with such speedy rerurns, that persons through whose hands money passed were strongly tempted temporarily to retain it. Practically, almost the whole salaries of the teachers in vernacular schools passes through the hands of some important man in the village, who under the title of Secretary or Manager draws the pay bills. A large proportion of these persons are landed gentlemen, of high position and perfect honor; many of them, indeed, have to my knowledge regularly advanced their full salaries to the masters before the bill was even sent to me for audit. But it often happens that a petty village trader becomes rich, and finding a numerous circle of sons and nephews growing up about him, thinks it to his honor and to their advantage to set up a school. He and his kinsmen guarantee half the expenditure; Government gives a grant for the other half; the school is under our inspection, but he is recognized in the village as the real head, and public opinion is strongly against any appeal from his decisions. Such men from their habits of business often make excellent managers, but among them are certain of the meaner sort, who, in consideration of having risked money by guaranting half the expenses, expect some pecuniary profit in return. They frequently insist upon the teachers buying their provisions at their shops, and such compulsory dealing is almost always unfavourable to the purchaser, and sometimes they retain the whole pay of the teachers for three or even six months after they draw it from the treasury. It is difficult to deal with this evil as the masters will not complain, but I made it a subject of particular inquiry at every school I visited, and strongly urged it on the honor of the managers not to keep back the salaries of the teachers for a single day in this hard season. Many of the managers at once volunteered to pay, at their own risk, the whole salaries on the first of each month without waiting for my audit, and where I found a manager dealing with his school as if it were a private speculation, I visited his fault so severely that those who could not be prompted by honor were, I hope, restrained by fear.

Effect on the School Buildings.

The most visible effect of the famine was upon the Educational Buildings. Money could be so well employed in bringing rice from where it was plentiful to where it was scarce, that the managers grudged the usual repairs out of their private funds, nor did I feel inclined, considering the gain which the poor people in my division, the most heavily afflicted in Bengal, derived from the importation of food, to visit the delinquents very severely. Many school houses which were unfinished when the famine began obtained a large attendance during the famine, but the buildings remained unfinished till the end of the year. The utmost severity I was capable of in such cases was to refuse the managers maps and the other material appliances of education till the doors and windows were put in. It was not with regard to the new schools, however, that my forbearance was most severely tried. Straw was so dear that even rich men postponed thatching their own houses in order to keep alive their cattle, and very few of the school roofs received more than a patch here and there. The rains were unusually heavy and long continued, and in some schools it came at last to this that the boys had to be crowded together in the dry corners while a well trodden puddle gradually formed in the middle of the floor. There was an easy remedy for this, namely, to refuse to audit the pay bills till the repairs were made, but under the circumstances I thought the cure would have been worse than the disease. I have little doubt that the two plentiful harvests with which the people have since that time been blessed have long before this removed the evil.

The foregoing observations apply only to the districts lying within Bengal Proper. My original purpose of proceeding to Orissa was not fulfilled. Throughout the tour I had been suffering from dysentery, and a few hours after I reached my head-quarters, Midnapore, I was seized by the disease which compelled me to leave India. As I was carried on boardship in a state of semi-unconsciousness, many papers which would have thrown additional light on the subjects of which I have been treating were left behind.

On carefully reviewing what I have written, I fear that I have noticed too frequently the faults and too seldom the virtues which the famine disclosed in those placed under my care. It tried all severely; some sunk under it; one Deputy Inspector died from the vigilant discharge of his duty, as heroically as a man dies in the front of a battle, and although a few individual members were unsteady the department as a whole stood firm. My disappointments were infinitely fewer than the cases in which my expectations were more than fulfilled, and I am convinced that it is to the patience and fortitude of my subordinates that this report has been a record of progress instead of a narrative of retrogression during a most trying year.

Sale of Rice at Kendroparah.

From T. B. LANE, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 607M., dated the 4th April 1867.)

I AM directed to forward herewith, for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor, copy of a letter, No. 169, dated the 28th March, from the Commissioner of Cuttack.

From T. E. RAVENSHAW, Esq., Officiating Commissioner of the Cuttack Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 169, dated the 28th March 1867.)

I GATHER the following particulars regarding the state of the country from Mr. Geddes' Diary of observation made on his way to Dhamrah at Kendraparah on 9th March :—

2. Rice in the local bazar was selling at about 10 local seers or 12½ Calcutta seers per rupee. Government rice had not met with large demand, and the golah sales to the public were about 10 to 20 maunds per day.

3. There were about 5,000 paupers, chiefly women, receiving relief rations at 7 chittaks of rice per day and doing but nominal work, many of the women were able-bodied; the Moonsiff, a very intelligent officer, was of opinion that the husbands of many of these women had emigrated to Calcutta and elsewhere in search of work, and are disinclined to return, being unable to maintain their families or fearing to return on account of caste prejudices, should they find their families had lapsed into a state of degradation. Considerable distress still exists in Pergunnahs Takun, Ooteekun, Aul, Autkonta and Koojung, and it was anticipated that the Tuccanee advances now offered by Government through Zemindars will do much good. More hopeful accounts are given of the country west of Kendraparah, where the crops have been better, and the ryots were supposed to have sufficient stocks of grain in hand. Between Kendraparah and Puttamoondai much Dalooa crop has been planted and required rain, which has since fallen in abundance, and I trust these crops are now safe.

4. At Puttamoondai about 10,000 light labor coolies were being employed on the road; of these 9,000 were in a condition fit for independent labor, and will be gradually drafted off to the Public Works Department and Irrigation Company, whose demand for labor is still insufficiently met. Relief here has been probably over-done, and the Assistant Engineer complained that the work executed was simply nominal; the effects, however, even of over-done relief were apparent in the improved condition of the paupers, and are not to be regretted.

5. The demand for Government rice at Puttamoondai was considerable, amounting to an average of 36 bags per day, sold for cash, while 3,915 bags had been distributed in relief between 1st January and 21st February; the major part of this had been supplied as rations to the light labor coolies. The average consumption of rice at Puttamoondai had been about 112 bags per day. Between Puttamoondai and Hunsoa along the course of the Berhaminee and on both banks, there were splendid growing crops of Dalooa rice, chunna, tobacco, &c. The breadth of cultivation extending for ¼ to 1 mile inland on either side; some portion of this being artificially irrigated at high tides.

6. The cultivation in the Berhaminee contrasts most favorably with that on the banks of the Mohanuddy, particularly in the Koojung Rajah's Estate, and this is attributed to the ryots on the former receiving fair treatment from their landlords, while the Koojung Rajah's rule is peculiarly oppressive, and the ryots receive no assistance or encouragement.

7. Rain fell during Mr. Geddes' visit, and he was surprised to see so many ploughs immediately set to work; the cultivators say some of them have seed, and others that they can procure it from elsewhere, particularly from Bhuddruck sub-division. Rice was procurable in the local hauts at about 9 Cuttack or 12 Calcutta seers per rupee; there was tittle trade, as most of the population are cultivators.

8. In Kunika complaints were heard of the Deputy Collector's want of supervision, and irregular and improper payment of laborers employed in repairing the embankments under his management; this has been brought to the Collector's notice.

9. At Hansooa Mr. Geddes found that the relief system was being grossly abused by the officer in charge of the relief centre. From 500 to 515 Brahmins and Kayests receiving daily rations of dry rice 10 chittacks per man, and no labor whatever was demanded; most of these recipients of charitable relief were sturdy beggars; so that the returns of distress at Hansooa are evidently fallacious. I have brought the matter to the notice of the Special Relief Commissioner, and it will be rectified.

10. The demand for sales of Government rice at Hansooa has been very small, not more than three or four bags per day, and it was not considered probable that any great present increase may be expected, as the people were drawing supplies from the Gurjats and from Bhuddruck, which, supplemented by their own crops, are likely to keep them going; the price at which rice was being procured from Bhuddruck and the uplands averaged about 16 Calcutta seers per rupee. This is further supplied by the fact that so far but little or no sales of Government rice have been effected at any of the Bhuddruck Government rice depots.

11. Mr. Geddes met several boats laden with rice coming down the Berhaminee river towards Cuttack, and several empty sloops which had come down from Calcutta with spices and miscellaneous cargoes, shews that this description of cargo is more profitable than grain. Generally Mr. Geddes expresses an opinion that, so far as his observations went, the state of the country generally is very much better than the relief returns of distress would at first sight imply; and I have little reason to doubt the correctness of the conclusion at which Mr. Geddes has arrived.

From H. L. HARRISON, Esq, Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 1499, dated the 11th April 1867.)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 607*M.*, dated the 4th instant, and with reference to the 8th paragraph of the report therewith submitted, from the Commissioner of the Cuttack Division, I am to request that the Board will be so good as to call for and submit, for the information of Government, a report from the Collector on the subject of the complaints made against the Deputy Collector of want of supervision and careless and improper payment of laborers.

2. A copy of this correspondence, which will be published, will be forwarded to the Chairman of the General Famine Relief Committee and to the Government of India in the Home Department, for information.

Telegram from Secretary to Government of Bombay, No. 15, dated 23rd January 1867.

We have divided the Act into seven parts, arranged, so far as possible, in conformity with the English Merchant Shipping Act of 1854.

In Part I, we have made some alterations in the definitions, and have introduced (Section 4) the provisions of Act V of 1850 (for freedom of the Coasting Trade of India), which will be repealed.

In Part II, we have adopted the rules for the registration and measurement of vessels from the latest English legislation, retaining the special provision of Act X of 1841 for giving passes to the ships of Native States. We have made registration compulsory on all British Ships over fifteen tons burden, following in this the English law. This will so far supersede the provisions of Act XIX of 1838 (for the compulsory registration of all coasting vessels in the Bombay Presidency,) which we therefore propose to repeal, leaving it to the Government of Bombay to re-enact in the period that will elapse before this Bill becomes law any of its provisions that may be considered necessary for the registration of vessels under fifteen tons burden. The terms of Section 96 of our Bill enable all Local Governments to make similar rules. In accordance with a suggestion of the Financial Department, fees for registration will be credited to the general revenue, and not to the Local Government, and the limit hitherto put on the Government of India, in fixing the amount of these fees, has been removed.

In Part III, we have used the designation of Mercantile Marine Office instead of Shipping Office, as done in England. We have provided for the examination of engineers, and have raised the examination fees of masters, mates, and engineers to an equality with the English scale. We have given general power to the Local Government to exempt any ships under two hundred tons, and manned by Natives only, from the necessity of having certificated masters and mates, and in accordance with the strong representation of the Steam Navigation Companies, we have provided (Section 171) for the validity of the engagement of engineers and stewards engaged in England for lengthened periods. We have introduced the provisions of the latest English Acts with reference to the discharge of British seamen abroad, but we have not as yet proposed any specific alteration in the Section on which was based the recent ruling of the Calcutta High Court—that the shipping master was bound to recognize any discharge of seamen if both master and seamen consented, as we prefer to wait and see what action will be taken in England on the representation that has been made by the Government of India. We have adapted to India the Sections that relate to the manner in which enquiries into misconduct are to be conducted and certificates of service or competency cancelled or suspended. We have also introduced and made general the provisions of an Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, for enforcing the usage of hoisting signals in ships entering harbours.

We have added a proviso to Section 103 as to fees on engagements and discharges of seamen, to the effect that when seamen are discharged and re-engaged for the same vessel for the same day, only half of the fee otherwise leviable for a discharge on an engagement shall be paid; this will meet the representation of the Peninsular and Oriental, and of the British Indian Steam Navigation Companies, whose vessels make exceptionally numerous voyages.

We have also added a Section (185) with the object of giving power to the Local Governments to order a survey of any vessel whatever, before it puts to sea from any port in British India, whenever there is reason for doubting its sea-worthiness, and the Officer of Customs will be prohibited from giving such vessel a port-clearance until it is surveyed and certified to be seaworthy. The necessity of this provision has been represented by the Governments of Madras and Bombay, and we recommend that the cost of the survey should be defrayed by the State.

Part IV is composed of various enactments, some general and some local, and provides for the periodical survey of steamers and otherwise for the prevention of accidents at sea.

In Part V, we have given power to certain officials at a distance from the seats of the Local Governments to which they are subject, to order an enquiry into wrecks and accidents at sea, and have added a Section (260) to enable the Local Governments to remove wrecks at sea, beyond the limits of harbours. With reference to a question raised by the Government of Bombay, we are of opinion that the finding of the persons appointed to enquire into wrecks should not be final, but subject to the confirmation of the Local Government.

Part VI contains general regulations for the survey and good management of Native Passenger ships. We have consolidated in one chapter the laws relating to Arabian pilgrim ships, and to Bengal Native passenger ships, now contained in Act XXI of 1858, Act XXV of 1859, and Madras Act XI of 1862.

In Part VII, we have adopted the provisions of the English law, adding a Section which takes the place of two Sections of the English Merchant Shipping Act (101 and 203), by which the punishment for forging certain documents that relate to merchant ships was provided. The proposed Section will have the effect of making the forgery of such documents equally punishable, whether the public office from which they profess to emanate be in India or not. We think it needless to make any special provision for punishing the forgery of any documents that come under the designation of valuable securities, as the terms of Section 267 of the Indian Penal Code are ample to meet such cases.

Having proposed so many important alterations, we think it right to submit a first report, with the recommendation that it and the Bill as now amended be published in the Gazette, and that copies be sent for careful revision to all persons practically acquainted with the subject. We would also recommend that copies should be sent to the Secretary of State, and that the further consideration of the Bill be postponed for the present.

BRITISH SHIPS; THEIR OWNERSHIP, MEASUREMENT AND REGISTRY.

CHAPTER I.

Description and ownership of British Ships.

5. No ship shall be deemed to be a British ship unless she belongs wholly to owners of the following description; that is to say—

Description and ownership of British ships.

(1.) Natural-born British subjects:

Provided that no natural-born subject who has taken the oath of allegiance to any foreign Sovereign or State shall be entitled to be such owner as aforesaid, unless he has, subsequently to taking such last-mentioned oath, taken the oath of allegiance to Her Majesty, and is and continues to be, during the whole period of his so being an owner, resident in some place within Her Majesty's dominions, or, if not so resident, a member of a British factory, or partner in a house actually carrying on business in the United Kingdom or in some other place within Her Majesty's dominions:

(2.) Persons made denizens by Letters of Denization, or naturalized by or pursuant to any Act of the Imperial Legislature, or by or pursuant to any Act or Ordinance of the proper legislative authority in any British possession:

Provided that such persons are and continue to be, during the whole period of their so being owners, resident in some place within Her Majesty's dominions, or, if not so resident, members of a British factory, or partners in a house actually carrying on business in the United Kingdom or in some other place within Her Majesty's dominions, and have taken the oath of allegiance to Her Majesty subsequently to the period of their being so made denizens or naturalized:

(3.) Bodies corporate established under, subject to the laws of, and having their principal place of business in the United Kingdom or some British possession.

6. Every British ship plying between any British Indian ports, or between any British Indian port and any other port, must be registered in manner hereinafter mentioned, except ships duly registered under Act No. X of 1841, or the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, before or after this Act comes into operation, and except ships not exceeding fifteen tons burden employed solely in fishing or trading on the rivers or coasts of British India:

British ships with certain exceptions must be registered.

And no ship hereby required to be registered shall, unless registered, be recognized as a British ship; and no officer of Customs shall grant a clearance to any ship hereby required to be registered for the purpose of enabling her to proceed to sea as a British ship unless the master of such ship, upon being required so to do, produces to him such certificate of registry as is hereinafter mentioned; and if such ship attempts to proceed to sea as a British ship without a clearance, such officer may detain such ship until such certificate is produced to him.

CHAPTER II.

Measurement of Tonnage.

7. Throughout the following Rules, the tonnage-deck shall be taken to be the upper deck in ships which have less than three decks, and to be the second deck from below in all other ships; and in carrying such Rules into effect, all measurements shall be taken in feet, and fractions of feet, and all fractions of feet shall be expressed in decimals.

Tonnage-deck; feet; decimals.

8. The tonnage of every ship to be registered, with the exceptions mentioned in the next succeeding Section, shall previously to her being registered be ascertained by the following Rule, hereinafter called Rule I; and the tonnage of every ship to which such Rule can be applied, whether she is about to be registered or not, shall be ascertained by the same Rule.

For ships to be registered and other ships of which the hold is clear.

RULE I.

(1.) Measure the length of the ship in a straight line along the upper side of the tonnage deck, from the inside of the inner plank (average thickness) at the side of the stem to the inside of the midship stern timber or plank there, as the case may be (average thickness) deducting from this length what is due to the rake of the bow in the thickness of the deck, and what is due to the rake of the stern timber in the thickness of the deck, and also what is due to the rake of the stern timber in one-third of the round of the beam; divide the length so taken into the number of equal parts required by the following Table, according to the class in such Table to which the ship belongs.

Lengths.

Table.

Class 1.—Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement 50 feet long or under, into four equal parts.

Class 2.— Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement above 50 feet long and not exceeding 120, into six equal parts.

Class 3.—Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement above 120 feet long and not exceeding 180, into eight equal parts.

Class 4.—Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement above 180 feet long and not exceeding 225, into ten equal parts.

Class 5.—Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement above 225 feet long, into twelve equal parts.

Transverse areas.

(2.) Then, the hold being first sufficiently cleared to admit of the required depths and breadths being properly taken, find the transverse area of such ship at each point of division of the length as follows:—measure the depth at each point of division, from a point at a distance of one-third of the round of the beam below such deck, or, in case of a break, below a line stretched in continuation thereof, to the upper side of the floor timber at the inside of the limber strake, after deducting the average thickness of the ceiling which is between the bilge planks and limber strake; then, if the depth at the midship division of the length do not exceed sixteen feet, divide each depth into four equal parts; then measure the inside horizontal breadth at each of the three points of division, and also at the upper and lower points of the depth, extending each measurement to the average thickness of that part of the ceiling which is between the points of measurement; number these breadths from above (i. e., numbering the upper breadth one, and so on down to the lowest breadth); multiply the second and fourth by four, and the third by two; add these products together, and to the sum add the first breadth and the fifth, multiply the quantity thus obtained by one-third of the common interval between the breadths, and the product shall be deemed the transverse area; but if the midship depth exceed sixteen feet, divide each depth into six equal parts instead of four, and measure as before directed the horizontal breadths at the five points of division, and also at the upper and lower points of the depth; number them from above as before; multiply the second, fourth, and sixth by four, and the third and fifth by two; add these products together, and to the sum add the first breadth and the seventh; multiply the quantity thus obtained by one-third of the common interval between the breadths, and the product shall be deemed the transverse area.

Computation from areas.

(3.) Having thus ascertained the transverse area at each point of division of the length of the ship as required by the above Table, proceed to ascertain the register tonnage of the ship in the following manner:—Number the areas successively 1, 2, 3, &c., No. 1 being at the extreme limit of the length at the bow, and the last number at the extreme limit of the length at the stern; then, whether the length be divided according to the Table into four or twelve parts as in classes 1 and 5, or any intermediate number as in classes 2, 3 and 4, multiply the second and every even numbered area by four, and the third and every odd numbered area (except the first and last) by two; add these products together, and to the sum add the first and last if they yield anything; multiply the quantity thus obtained by one-third of the common interval between the areas, and the product will be the cubical contents of the space under the tonnage deck: divide this product by one hundred, and the quotient being the tonnage under the tonnage deck shall be deemed to be the register tonnage of the ship, subject to the additions and deductions hereinafter mentioned.

Poop and any other closed-in space.

(4.) If there be a break, a poop, or any other permanent closed-in space on the upper deck, available for cargo or stores, or for the berthing or accommodation of passengers or crew, the tonnage of such space shall be ascertained as follows:—Measure the interval mean length of such space in feet, and divide it into two equal parts; measure at the middle of its height three inside breadths, namely, one at each end and the other at the middle of the length; then to the sum of the end breaths add four times the middle breadth, and multiply the whole sum by one-third of the common interval between the breadths; the product will give the mean horizontal area of such space; then measure the mean height, and multiply by it the mean horizontal area; divide the product by one hundred, and the quotient shall be deemed to be the tonnage of such space, and shall be added to the tonnage under the tonnage deck, ascertained as aforesaid, subject to the following provisoes; first, that nothing shall be added for a closed-in space solely appropriated to the berthing of the crew, unless such space exceeds one-twentieth of the remaining tonnage of the ship, and in case of such excess the excess only shall be added; and, secondly, that nothing shall be added in respect of any building erected for the shelter of deck passengers, and approved by such officer as the Local Government shall appoint in this behalf.

In case of two or more decks.

(5.) If the ship has a third deck, commonly called a spar deck, the tonnage of the space between it and the tonnage deck shall be ascertained as follows:—Measure in feet the inside length of the space at the middle of its height from the plank at the side of the stem to the lining on the timbers at the stern, and divide the length into the same number of equal parts into which the length of the tonnage deck is divided as above directed; measure (also at the middle of its height) the inside breadth of the space at each of the points of division, also the breadth of the stem and the breadth at the stern; number them successively 1, 2, 3, &c., commencing at the stem: multiply the second and all the other even numbered breadths by four, and the third and all the other odd numbered breadths (except the first and last) by two; to the sum of these products add the first and last breadths; multiply the whole sum by one-third of the common interval between the breadths, and the result will give in superficial feet the mean horizontal area of such space; measure the mean height of such space and multiply by it the mean horizontal area, and the product will be the cubical contents of the space; divide this product by one hundred, and the quotient shall be deemed to be the tonnage of such space, and shall be added to the other tonnage of the ship ascertained as aforesaid; and if the ship has more than three decks, the tonnage of each space between decks above the tonnage deck shall be severally ascertained in manner above described, and shall be added to the tonnage of the ship ascertained as aforesaid.

For ships not requiring registry with cargo on board.

9. Ships which, requiring to be measured for any purpose other than registry, have cargo on board, and ships which, requiring to be measured for the purpose of registry, cannot be measured by the Rule above given, shall be measured by the following Rule, hereinafter called Rule II.

RULE II.

Length.

(1.) Measure the length on the upper deck from the outside of the outer plank at the stem to the aftside of the stern post, deducting therefrom the distance between the aftside of the stern post and the rabbet of the stern post at the point where the counter plank crosses it; measure also the greatest breadth of the ship to the outside of the outer planking or wales, and then, having first marked on the outside of the ship on both sides thereof the height of the upper deck at the ship's sides, girt the ship at the greatest breadth in a direction perpendicular to the keel from the height so marked on the outside of the ship, on the one side to the height so marked, on the other side by passing a chain under the keel; to half the girth

Girting of the ship.

thus taken, add half the main breadth; square the sum; multiply the result by the length of the ship taken as aforesaid; then multiply this product by the factor ·0018 (eighteen-ten-thousandths) in the case of ships built of wood, and by ·0021 (twenty-one-ten-thousands) in the case of ships built of iron, and the product shall be deemed the register tonnage of the ship subject to the additions and deductions hereinafter mentioned.

Poop and other closed-in spaces on upper deck.

(2.) If there be a break, a poop, or other closed-in space on the upper deck, the tonnage of such space shall be ascertained by multiplying together the mean length, breadth and depth of such space, and dividing the product by 100, and the quotient so obtained shall be deemed to be the tonnage of such space, and shall subject to the deduction for a closed-in space appropriated to the crew as mentioned in Rule I, be added to the tonnage of the ship ascertained as aforesaid.

Ships measured under Rule II may be measured under Rule I.

The owner of any ship which is measured under Rule II contained in this Section, may at any subsequent period apply to the Local Government to have the said ship re-measured under Rule I contained in Section 8, and the said Government may thereupon and upon payment of such fee not exceeding four rupees for each transverse section as they may authorize, direct the said ship to be re-measured accordingly, and the number denoting the register tonnage shall be altered accordingly.

RULE III.

Allowance for engine-room in steamers.

10. In every ship propelled by steam or other power requiring engine-room, an allowance shall be made for the space occupied by the propelling power, and the amount so allowed shall be deducted from the gross tonnage of the ship ascertained as aforesaid, and the remainder shall be deemed to be the register tonnage of such ship, and such deduction shall be estimated as follows; (that is to say),—

To be rateable in ordinary steamers.

(a.) As regards ships propelled by paddle-wheels, in which the tonnage of the space solely occupied by and necessary for the proper working of the boilers and machinery is above twenty per cent. and under thirty per cent. of the gross tonnage of the ship, such deduction shall be thirty-seven one-hundredths of such gross tonnage; and in ships propelled by screws, in which the tonnage of such space is above thirteen per cent. and under twenty per cent. of such gross tonnage, such deduction shall be thirty-two one-hundredths of such gross tonnage.

May be measured where the space is unusually large or small.

(b.) As regards all other ships, the deduction shall, if the registering officer and the owner both agree thereto, be estimated in the same manner, but either of them may in his discretion require the space to be measured and the deduction estimated accordingly; and whenever such measurement is so required, the deduction shall consist of the tonnage of the space actually occupied by or required to be inclosed for the proper working of the boilers and machinery, with the addition in the case of ships propelled by paddle-wheels of one-half, and in the case of ships propelled by screws of three-fourths of the tonnage of such space; and the measurement and use of such space shall be governed by the following rules; (that is to say)—

Mode of measurement.

(1.) Measure the mean depth of the space from its crown to the ceiling at the limber strake, measure also three, or, if necessary, more than three breadths of the space at the middle of its depth, taking one of such measurements at each end, and another at the middle of the length; take the mean of such breadth; measure also the mean length of the space between the foremost and aftermost bulkheads or limits of its length, excluding such parts, if any, as are not actually occupied by or required for the proper working of the machinery; multiply together these three dimensions of length, breadth and depth, and the product will be the cubical contents of the space below the crown; then find the cubical contents of the space or spaces, if any, above the crown aforesaid, which are framed-in for the machinery or for the admission of light and air, by multiplying together the length, depth and breadth thereof; add such contents to the cubical contents of the space below the crown; divide the sum by 100; and the result shall be deemed to be the tonnage of the said space:

In case of separate compartments.

(2.) If, in any ship in which the space aforesaid is to be measured, the engines and boilers are fitted in separate compartments, the contents of each shall be measured severally in like manner, according to the above rules, and the sum of their several results shall be deemed to be the tonnage of the said space:

Shaft trunk of screw steamer.

(3.) In the case of screw steamers in which the space aforesaid is to be measured, the contents of the shaft trunk shall be added to and deemed to form part of such space, and shall be ascertained by multiplying together the mean length, breadth and depth of the trunk, and dividing the product by 100:

Alteration of engine-room.

(4.) If, in any ship in which the space aforesaid is to be measured, any alteration be made in the length or capacity of such space, or if any cabins be fitted in such space such ship shall be deemed to be a ship not registered until re-measurement:

Penalty for carrying goods in such space.

(5.) If, in any ship in which the space aforesaid is to be measured, any goods or stores are stowed or carried in such space, the master and owner shall each be liable to a penalty not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

Rule IV.

Open ships how measured.

11. In ascertaining the tonnage of open ships, the upper edge of the upper strake is to form the boundary line of measurement, and the depths shall be taken from an athwartship line, extended from upper edge to upper edge of the said strake at each division of the length.

Tonnage and number of certificate to be carved on main beam.

12. In every registered British ship, the number denoting the register tonnage, ascertained as hereinbefore directed, and the number of her certificate of registry, shall be deeply carved or otherwise permanently marked on her main beam, and shall be so continued; and and if it at any time cease to be so continued, such ship shall no longer be recognized as a British ship.

Tonnage when once ascertained to be ever after deemed the tonnage

13. Whenever the tonnage of any ship has been ascertained and registered in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the same shall thenceforth be deemed to be the tonnage of such ship, and be repeated in every subsequent registry thereof, unless any alteration is made in the form or capacity of such ship, or unless it is discovered that the tonnage of such ship has been erroneously computed; and in either of such cases such ship shall be re-measured, and her tonnage determined and registered according to the rules hereinbefore contained in that behalf.

Re-measurement of ships already registered may be made, but not to be compulsory

14. The rules for the measurement of tonnage herein contained shall not make it necessary to alter the present registered tonnage of any British ship registered before this Act comes into operation; but if the owner of any such ship desires to have the same re-measured according to such rules, he may apply to the registering officer for the purpose, and such officer shall thereupon, and on payment of such reasonable charge for the expenses of re-measurement, not exceeding the sum of three rupees and twelve annas for each transverse section, as he may authorize, direct such re-measurement to be made, and such ship shall thereupon be re-measured according to such rules as aforesaid, or according to such of them as may be applicable; and the number denoting the registered tonnage shall be altered accordingly

Power to re-measure engine-rooms improperly extended.

15. If it appears to the registering officer that in any steamship measured before this Act comes into operation, store-rooms or coal-bunkers have been introduced into or thrown across the engine-room, so that the deduction from the tonnage on account of the engine-room is larger than it ought to be, the said officer may, if he think fit, direct such engine-room to be re-measured according to the rules in force before this Act comes into operation, excluding the space occupied by such store-rooms or coal-bunkers, or may, if the owner so desire, cause the ship to be re-measured according to the rules hereinbefore contained, and subject to the conditions contained in the last preceding Section; and after re-measurement the said officer shall cause the ship to be registered anew, or the registry thereof to be altered, as the case may require.

Officers may be appointed and regulations made for measurement of ships.

16. The registering officer may, with the sanction of the Local Government, appoint such persons to superintend the survey and admeasurement of ships as he thinks fit; and may, with the approval of the Local Government, make such regulations for that purpose as may be necessary; and also, with the like approval, make such modifications and alterations as from time to time become necessary in the tonnage rules hereby prescribed, in order to the more accurate and uniform application thereof, and the effectual carrying out of the principle of admeasurement therein adopted.

65. The following Rules shall be observed as to certificates of mortgage; (that is to say) :—

(1). The power shall be exercised in conformity with the directions contained in the certificate:

(2). A record of every mortgage made thereunder shall be endorsed thereon by a Registrar:

(3). No mortgage bonâ fide made thereunder shall be impeached by reason of the person by whom the power was given dying before the making of such mortgage:

(4). Whenever the certificate contains a specification of the place or places at which, and a limit of time not exceeding twelve months within which the power is to be exercised, no mortgage bonâ fide made to a mortgagee without notice shall be impeached by reason of the insolvency of the person by whom the power was given:

(5). Every mortgage which is so registered as aforesaid on the certificate shall have priority over all mortgages of the same ship or share, created subsequently to the date of the entry of the certificate in the register-book; and if there be more mortgages than one so indorsed, the respective mortgagees claiming thereunder shall, notwithstanding any express, implied or constructive notice, be entitled one before the other according to the date at which a record of each instrument is indorsed on the certificate, and not according to the date of the instrument creating the mortgage:

(6). Subject to the foregoing rules, every mortgagee whose mortgage is registered on the certificate shall have the same rights and powers and be subject to the same liabilities, as he would have had and been subject to if his mortgage had been registered in the register-book instead of on the certificate:

(7). The discharge of any mortgage so registered on the certificate may be indorsed thereon by any Registrar, upon the production of such evidence as is hereby required to be produced to the Registrar on the entry of the discharge of a mortgage in the register-book, and upon such indorsement being made, the estate, if any, which passed to the mortgagee shall vest in the same person or persons in whom the same would, having regard to intervening acts and circumstances, if any, have vested if no such mortgage had been made:

(8). Upon the delivery of any certificate of mortgage to the Registrar by whom it was granted he shall, after recording in the Register-book in such manner as to preserve its priority any unsatisfied mortgage registered thereon, cancel such certificate, and enter the fact of such cancellation in the register-book; and every certificate so cancelled shall be void to all intents.

66. The following Rules shall be observed as to certificates of sale; (that is to say) :—

(1). No such certificate shall be granted except for the sale of an entire ship:

(2). The power shall be exercised in conformity with the directions contained in the certificate:

(3). No sale bonâ fide made to a purchaser for valuable consideration shall be impeached by reason of the person by whom the power was given dying before the making of such sale:

(4). Whenever the certificate contains a specification of the place or places at which, and a limit of time not exceeding twelve months within which, the power is to be exercised, no sale bonâ fide made to a purchaser for valuable consideration without notice shall be impeached by reason of the insolvency of the person by whom the power was given:

(5). Any transfer made to a person qualified to be the owner of British ships shall be by bill of sale in the form hereinbefore mentioned, or as near thereto as circumstances permit:

(6). If the ship is sold to a person qualified to hold British ships, the ship shall be registered anew; but notice of all mortgages enumerated on the certificate of sale shall be entered in the register-book:

(7). Previously to such registry anew, there shall be produced to the Registrar required to make the same the bill of sale by which the ship is transferred, the certificate of sale and the certificate of registry of such ship:

(8). Such last-mentioned Registrar shall retain the certificates of sale and registry, and after having endorsed on both of such instruments an entry of the fact of a sale having taken place, shall forward the said certificates to the Registrar of the port appearing on such certificates to be the former port of registry of the ship, and such last-mentioned Registrar shall thereupon make a memorandum of the sale in his register-book, and the registry of the ship in such book shall be considered as closed, except as far as relates to any unsatisfied mortgages or existing certificates of mortgage entered therein .

(9). On such registry anew, the description of the ship contained in her original certificate of registry may be transferred to the new register-book, without her being re-surveyed, and the declaration to be made by the purchaser shall be the same as would be required to be made by an ordinary transferree :

(10). If the ship is sold to a person not qualified to be the owner of a British ship, the bill of sale by which the ship is transferred, the certificate of sale and the certificate of registry shall be produced to some Registrar, who shall retain the certificates of sale and registry, and, having endorsed thereon the fact of such ship having been sold to persons not qualified to be owners of British ships, shall forward such certificates to the Registrar of the port appearing on the certificate of registry to be the port of registry of such ship ; and such last-mentioned Registrar shall thereupon make a Memorandum of the sale in his register-book, and the registry of the ship in such book shall be considered as closed, except so far as relates to any unsatisfied mortgages or existing certificates of mortgage entered therein :

(11). If upon a sale being made to an unqualified person default is made in the production of such certificates as are mentioned in the last rule, such unqualified person shall be considered by British law as having acquired no title to or interest in the ship ; and further, the party upon whose application such certificate was granted, and the persons exercising the power, shall each incur a penalty not exceeding one thousand rupees :

(12). If no sale is made in conformity with the certificate of sale, such certificate shall be delivered to the Registrar by whom the same was granted ; and such Registrar shall thereupon cancel it, and enter the fact of such cancellation in the register-book ; and every certificate so cancelled shall be void to all intents.

Power of Local Government in case of loss of certificate of mortgage or sale.

67. Upon proof at any time to the satisfaction of the Local Government that any certificate of mortgage or sale is lost or so obliterated as to be useless, and that the powers thereby given have never been exercised, or if they have been exercised, then, upon proof of the several matters and things that have been done thereunder, it shall be lawful for the Registrar, with the sanction of the said Local Government, as circumstances may require, either to issue a new certificate, or to direct such entries to be made in the register-book, or such other matter or thing to be done as might have been made or done if no such loss or obliteration had taken place.

Revocation of certificates of mortgage or sale.

68. The registered owner for the time being of any ship or share therein in respect of which a certificate of mortgage or sale has been granted, specifying the place or places where the power thereby given is to be exercised, may, by an instrument under his hand made in the form O in the first Schedule hereto, or as near thereto as circumstances permit, authorize the Registrar by whom such certificate was granted, to give notice to the Registrar or Registrars at such place or places, that such certificate is revoked ; and notice shall be given accordingly ; and all Registrars receiving such notice shall record the same, and shall exhibit the same to all persons who may apply to them for the purpose of effecting or obtaining a mortgage or transfer under the said certificate of mortgage or sale ; and after such notice has been so recorded the said certificate shall, so far as concerns any mortgage or sale to be thereafter made at such place, be deemed to be revoked and of no effect. Every Registrar recording any such notice shall thereupon state to the Registrar by whom the certificate was granted, whether any previous exercise of the power to which such certificate refers has taken place.

Equities not excluded by this Act

69. The expression "beneficial interest," whenever used in this Part, includes interests arising under contract and other equitable interests ; and the intention of this Act is that, without prejudice to the provisions herein contained for preventing notice of trusts from being entered in the register-book or received by the Registrar, and without prejudice to the powers of disposition and of giving receipts hereby conferred on registered owners and mortgagee and without prejudice to the provisions herein contained relating to the exclusion of unqualified persons from the ownership of British ships, equities may be enforced against owners and mortgagees of ships in respect of their interest therein, in the same manner as equities may be enforced against them in respect of any other moveable property.

Chapter VIII.

Registry anew, and Transfer of Registry.

Alteration in ship to be registered.

70. Whenever any registered ship is so altered as not to correspond with the particulars relating to her tonnage or description contained in the register-book, then, if such alteration is made at a port where there is a Registrar, the Registrar of such port, but if made elsewhere, the Registrar of the first port having a Registrar at which the ship arrives after her alteration, shall, on application made to him, and on the receipt of a certificate from the proper surveyor specifying the nature of such alteration, either retain the old certificate of registry and grant a new certificate of registry containing a description of the ship as altered, or endorse on the existing certificate a memorandum of such alteration, and subscribe his name to such endorsement. The Registrar to whom such application as aforesaid is made, if he is the Registrar of the port of registry of the ship, shall himself enter in his register-book the particulars of the alteration so made, and the fact of such new certificate having been granted or endorsement having been made on the existing certificate : but if he is not such last-mentioned Registrar, he shall forthwith report such particulars and facts as aforesaid, accompanied by the old certificate of registry in cases where a new one has been granted, to the Registrar of the port of registry of the ship, who shall retain such old certificate (if any), and enter such particulars and facts in his register-book accordingly.

71. When the Registrar to whom application is made in respect of any such alteration as aforesaid is the Registrar of the port of registry, he may, if he thinks fit, instead of registering such alteration, require such ship to be registered anew in manner hereinbefore directed on the first registry of a ship, and if he is not such Registrar as last hereinbefore mentioned, he may nevertheless require such ship to be registered anew, but he shall in such last-mentioned case grant a provisional certificate or make a provisional indorsement of the alteration made, in manner hereinbefore directed in cases where no registry anew is required, taking care to add to such certificate or indorsement a statement that the same is made provisionally, and to insert in his report to the Registrar of the port of registry of the ship a like statment.

On alteration, registry anew may be required.

72. Every such provisional certificate or certificate provisionally indorsed, shall within ten days after the first subsequent arrival of the ship at her port of discharge in British India, be delivered up to the Registrar thereof, who shall thereupon cause such ship to be registered anew, in the same manner in all respects as hereinbefore required on the first registry of any ship.

Grant of provisional certificate in respect of alteration.

73. On failure of such registry anew, of any ship or registry of alteration of any ship so altered as aforesaid, such ship shall be deemed not duly registered, and shall no longer be recognized as a British ship

74. If upon any change of ownership in any ship the owner or owners desire to have such ship registered anew, although such registry anew is not required by this Act, it shall be lawful for the Registrar of the port at which such ship is already registered, on the delivery up to him of the existing certificate of registry and on the other requisites to registry, or such of them as the Registrar thinks material, being duly complied with, to make such registry anew, and grant a certificate thereof.

On change of owners, registry anew may be granted if required.

75. The registry of any ship may be transferred from one port to another upon the application of all parties appearing on the register to be interested in such ship, whether as owners or mortgagees, such application to be expressed by a declaration in writing made and subscribed, if the party so required to make and subscribe the same resides at or within five miles of the Custom House of the port from which such ship is to be transferred, in the presence of the Registrar of such port, but if beyond that distance, in the presence of any Registrar or of any Magistrate.

Registry may be transferred from port to port.

76. Upon such application being made as is hereinbefore mentioned and upon the delivery to the Registrar of either of the ports next hereinafter mentioned of the certificate of registry, the Registrar of the port at which such ship is already registered shall transmit to the Registrar of the port at which such ship is intended to be registered notice of such application having been made to him, together with a true copy of all particulars relating to such ship, and the names of all the parties appearing by his book to be interested as owners or mortgagees in such ship. Such last-mentioned Registrar shall, upon the receipt of such notice, enter all such particulars and names in his book of registry, and grant a fresh certificate of registry, and thenceforth such ship shall be considered as registered at and belonging to such last-mentioned port, and the name of such last-mentioned port shall be substituted on the stern of such ship in lieu of the name of the port previously appearing thereon.

Manner of transfer of registry.

77. The transfer of the registry of any ship in manner aforesaid shall not in any way affect the rights of the several persons interested either as owners or mortgagees in such ship, but such rights shall in all respects be maintained and continued in the same manner as if no such transfer had been effected.

Transfer of registry not to affect rights of owners.

Power for Local Government in special cases to grant a pass to a ship not registered.

85. In cases where it appears to the Local Government that by reason of special circumstances it would be desirable that permission should be granted to any British ship to pass, without being previously registered, from one port or place in British India to any other port or place in British India, it shall be lawful for the Local Government to grant a pass accordingly, and such pass shall, for the time and within the limits therein mentioned, have the same effect as a certificate of registry.

Provision for cases of minority or other incapacity.

86. If any person interested in any ship or any share therein, is by reason of minority, lunacy, or other inability, incapable of making any declaration or doing any thing required or permitted by this Act to be made or done by such incapable person in respect of registry, then the guardian or committee, if any, of such incapable person, or, if there be none, any person appointed by any Court or Judge possessing jurisdiction in respect of the property of incapable persons, upon the petition of any person on behalf of such incapable person, or of any other person interested in the making such declaration or doing such thing, may make such declaration, or a declaration as nearly corresponding thereto as circumstances permit, and do such thing in the name and on behalf of such incapable person; and all acts done by such substitute shall be as effectual as if done by the person for whom he is substituted.

For unduly assuming a British character.

(1). If any person uses the British flag, and assumes the British national character on board any ship owned in whole or in part by any person not entitled by law to own British ships, for the purpose of making such ship appear to be a British ship, such ship shall be forfeited to Her Majesty, unless such assumption has been made for the purpose of escaping capture by an enemy or by a foreign ship-of-war in exercise of some belligerent right; and in any proceeding for enforcing any such forfeiture, the burden of proving a title to use the British flag and assume the British national character shall lie upon the person using and assuming the same:

For concealment of British or assumption of foreign character.

(2). If the master or owner of any British ship does or permits to be done any matter or thing, or carries or permits to be carried any papers or documents, with intent to conceal the British character of such ship from any person entitled by British law to enquire into the same, or to assume a foreign character, or with intent to deceive any such person as lastly hereinbefore mentioned, such ship shall be forfeited to Her Majesty; and the master, if he commits or is privy to the commission of the offence, shall incur a penalty not exceeding one thousand rupees.

For false declaration of ownership.

(4). If any person, on behalf of himself or any other person or body of persons, in any declaration touching the qualification of himself or such other person or body of persons to own British ships or any shares therein, makes any statement which is false, and which he either knows or believes to be false, or does not believe to be true, the declarant shall incur a penalty not exceeding one shousand rupees, and the ship or share in respect of which such declaration is made, if the same has not been forfeited under the foregoing provision shall, to the extent of the interest therein of the person making the declaration, and, unless it is shown that he had no

90. No such officer as aforesaid shall be responsible, either civilly or criminally, to any person whomsoever, in respect of the seizure or detention of any ship that has been seized or detained by him in pursuance of the provisions herein contained, notwithstanding that such ship is not brought in for adjudication, or, if so brought in, is declared not to be liable to forfeiture, if it is shown to the satisfaction of the Court before whom any trial relating to such ship or such seizure or detention is held that there were reasonable grounds for such seizure or detention; but if no such grounds are shewn, such Court may award payment of costs and damages to any party aggrieved, and make such other order in the premises as it thinks just.

Penalty for carrying improper colours.

91. If any colours usually worn by Her Majesty's ships, or any colours resembling those of Her Majesty, or any distinctive national colours, except the red ensign usually worn by merchant ships, or except the union jack with a white border, or if the pendant usually carried by Her Majesty's ships, or any pendant in anywise resembling such pendant, are or is hoisted on board any ship or boat belonging to any subject of Her Majesty, without warrant for so doing from Her Majesty or from the Admiralty, the master of such ship or boat, or the owner thereof if on board the same, and every other person hoisting or joining or assisting in hoisting the same, shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding five thousand rupees. It shall be lawful for any officer on full pay in the Military or Naval Service of Her Majesty, or any Magistrate or British officer of the Customs to board any such ship or boat, and to take away any such jack, colours or pendant; and such jack, colours or pendant shall be forfeited to Her Majesty.

CHAPTER I.

Mercantile Marine Offices.

Mercantile Marine Offices.

100. An office shall be established at each of the ports of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, and at such other ports as the Governor General of India in Council shall hereafter deem necessary. For every such office there shall be a Superintendent to be called the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office of Calcutta, Madras or otherwise, as the case may be, with such necessary Deputy Superintendents, clerks and servants, at such salaries and subject to such regulations as the Local Government shall from time to time, with the sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, direct and appoint. Every act done by or before any Deputy Superintendent duly appointed shall have the same effect as if done by or before a Superintendent.

Appointment, removal, and control of Superintendents and Deputy Superintendents.

101. The Local Government shall have power to appoint and remove such Superintendents and Deputy Superintendents who shall respectively be subject to the control of that Government, or of any intermediate authority which it may appoint.

It shall also be the duty of the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendents to give to all persons desirous of apprenticing boys to the sea-service, and duly authorized so to do by Act No. XIX. of 1850 (concerning the binding of apprentices), and also to masters and owners of ships requiring apprentices, such assistance as may be in their power for facilitating the making of such apprenticeships.

voyage in an unseaworthy condition, the Local Government may appoint any person as an Inspector, with such remuneration as such Government shall think fit, to report to the Superintendent or other such officer whether or not the hull, boats and equipments of the ship are sufficient and in good condition. Seamen to be allowed to go ashore to make complaints to a Magistrate.

186. If any seaman or apprentice whilst on board any ship states to the master that he desires to make complaint to a Magistrate, an officer in command of any ship of Her Majesty, a Consular Officer, or a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office against the master or any of the crew, the said master shall, if the ship is then at a place where there is any such Magistrate, Naval or Consular Officer or Superintendent, so soon as the service of the ship will permit, and if the ship is not then at such a place, as soon after her first arrival at such a place as the service of the ship will permit, allow such seaman to go ashore, or send him ashore in proper custody, so that he may be enabled to make such complaint, and shall in default incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Chapter VIII.

Of Protection of Seamen from Imposition.

Sale of and charge upon wages to be invalid

187. No wages due or accruing to any seaman or apprentice shall be subject to attachment from any Court. Every payment of wages to a seaman shall be valid in law, notwithstanding any previous sale or assignment of such wages or of any incumbrance thereon. No assignment or sale of such wages, or of salvage made prior to the accruing thereof, shall bind the party making the same. No power of attorney or authority for the receipt of any such wages or salvage shall be irrevocable.

No debt exceeding three rupees to be recoverable till end of voyage.

188. No debt exceeding in amount three rupees, incurred by any seaman after he has engaged to serve, shall be recoverable until the service agreed for is concluded.

Penalty for overcharges by lodging-house-keepers.

189. If any person demands or receives from any seaman or apprentice payment in respect of his board or lodging in the house of such person for a longer period than such seaman or apprentice has actually resided or boarded therein, he shall incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Penalty for detaining seamen's effects.

190. If any person receives or takes into his possession or under his control any monies, documents or effects of any seaman or apprentice, and does not return the same or pay the value thereof when required by such seaman or apprentice, subject to such deduction as may be justly due to him from such seaman or apprentice in respect of board or lodging or otherwise, or absconds therewith, he shall incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred rupees. Any Magistrate may, besides inflicting such penalty by summary order, direct the amount or value of such monies, documents or effects, subject to such deduction as aforesaid, to be forthwith paid to such seaman or apprentice.

Persons not to go on board before final arrival of ship without permission.

191. Every person who not being in the service of Her Majesty, and not being duly authorized by law for the purpose, goes on board any ship about to arrive at the place of her destination before her actual arrival at the place of her discharge, without the permission of the master, shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding two hundred rupees. The master or person in charge of such ship may take any such person so going on board as aforesaid into custody, and deliver him up forthwith to any Police officer, to be by him taken before a Magistrate to be dealt with according to the provisions of this Act.

Penalty for solicitations by lodging-house-keepers.

192. If, within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any ship at any port in British India, any person then being on board such ship solicits any seaman to become a lodger at the house of any person letting lodgings for hire, or takes out of such ship any effects of any seaman except under his personal direction and with the permission of the master, he shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding fifty rupees.

Chapter IX.

Of Discipline.

Penalty for misconduct, endangering ship, or life or limb.

193. Any master of or any seaman or apprentice belonging to any ship registered at, trading with, or being at any port or place in British India, who by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, does any act tending to the immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage of such ship, or tending immediately to endanger the life or limb of any person belonging to or on board of such ship, or who by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, refuses or omits to do any lawful act proper and requisite to be done by him for preserving such ship from immediate loss, destruction or serious damage, or for preserving any person belonging to or on board of such ship from immediate danger to life or limb shall, for every such offence, be liable to simple or rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years.

Explanation.—To sustain a charge under this Section, it is not necessary that the act done or omitted should be followed by actual loss, destruction, or damage of the ship.

Admiralty Court in British India may in certain cases remove master and appoint a new master.

194. Any Court having Admiralty jurisdiction in British India may, upon application by the owner of any ship being within the jurisdiction of such Court, or by the part owner or consignee, or by the agent of the owner, or by any certificated mate, or by one-third or more of the crew of such ship, and upon proof on oath to the satisfaction of such Court that the removal of the master of such ship is necessary, remove him accordingly; and may also, with the consent of the owner or his agent, or the consignee of the ship, or if there is no owner or agent of the owner or consignee of the ship within the jurisdiction of the Court, then without such consent, appoint a new master in his stead, and may also make such order and may require such security in respect of costs in the matter as it thinks fit.

Court authorized to make enquiry into charges against masters, mates, and engineers, and to report to Local Government.

195. Every Court having Admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary Criminal Jurisdiction at every port in British India where there is no Court having Admiralty jurisdiction, may, upon application by the Advocate General of the Presidency in which such Court is situate, or by any of the applicants mentioned in Section 194, or by the Magistrate of the District as defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure, or by the master (when the charge is against a mate or engineer) investigate and try charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of any master, mate, or engineer of any ship, who shall have obtained his certificate from the Board of Trade or from any Local Government, and make enquiry as to shipwreck or other casualties affecting ships, which such wreck or casualties may have occurred. If on such investigation it shall appear to any such Court as aforesaid that the loss or abandonment of or any serious damage to any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by the wrongful act or default of any such master, mate or engineer or that any such master, mate or engineer has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness, or tyranny, such Court may suspend, for such period as it shall think fit, or may cancel such certificate, whether of competency or service, of such master, mate or engineer, and the Court shall report the same to the Local Government within whose limits such Court is situated: Provided that no certificate shall be cancelled or suspended, unless a copy of the report, or a statement of the case upon which the investigation is made, shall have been furnished to the owner of the certificate before the commencement of the investigation.

Proviso.

Procedure of Court.

196. Every Court by which any investigation or trial is held under Section 195, shall, at the conclusion of the case or as soon afterwards as possible, state in open Court the decision to which they may have come with respect to cancelling or suspending certificates, and shall, whether the certificate has been granted by the Board of Trade or by a Local Government, send a full report upon the case with the evidence to the Local Government within whose limits the Court is situate; and shall also, if they determine to cancel or suspend any such certificate, forward the same to such Local Government with their report. The Local Government shall thereupon, in cases where the certificate has been granted by the Board of Trade, transmit the report and the evidence to such Board, and in cases where the certificate has been granted by another Local Government, transmit the report and the evidence to such Government; and, if the Court has determined to cancel or suspend the certificate, shall also forward the certificate to the Board of Trade or the other Local Government as the case may be.

Local Government may direct investigation in cases of incompetency and misconduct.

197. If the Local Government, on the information of any Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, or on any other ground, has reason to believe that any master, mate or engineer who has obtained a certificate of competency or service from such Government or from any other Local Government is, from incompetency or misconduct, unfit to discharge his duties, it may direct any Board or officer at or near to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, to institute an investigation; and thereupon such Board or officer shall conduct the investigation into such charge of incompetency or misconduct and shall, on the conclusion of the investigation, make a report upon the case to the Local Government which ordered the investigation.

Powers of Court, &c., in making enquiries.

198. For the purpose of any investigation under Section 195 or Section 197, the Court, Board or officer may summon the master, mate or engineer, as the case may be, to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence, either in person or otherwise, and may summon and examine witnesses, and may make such order with respect to the costs of such investigation, and may require such security for costs, as such Court, Board or officer may deem just. Every order in respect of costs under this Section may be enforced in like manner as a fine may be enforced by a Magistrate in the port where such investigation is held.

Local Government may cancel or suspend certificates in certain cases.

199. The Local Government may suspend or cancel the certificate (whether of competency or service) granted by such Government or by any other Local Government under Act No. I of 1859 or this Act, to any master, mate or engineer in the following cases; (that is to say):—

Loss, abandonment, or serious damage by default of master, mate or engineer.

(1.) If upon any investigation conducted under the provisions of Sections 255, 257 and 258, it is reported that the loss or abandonment of or serious damage to any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default :

Conviction of any offence.

(2.) If he is shown to have been convicted of any offence.

Master, mate or engineer to deliver up his certificate.

200. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under the provisions of this Act, shall deliver it to the Superintendent of a Mercantitle Marine Office, or to such other person as the Court or the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate shall direct ; and in default shall for each offence incur a penalty not exceeding five hundred rupees : Provided that, if the Local Government which cancels or suspends a certificate of a master, mate or engineer is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government which so cancels or suspends the certificate shall report the proceedings and the fact of cancelment or suspension to the Local Government which granted such certificate : Provided also, that it shall be competent to any Local Government at any subsequent time to grant to any person whose certificate has been cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

Penalty for not delivering it.

Report to other Local Governments.

Saving of powers vested in certain Admiralty Courts

201. Nothing contained in Sections 195 to 200 both inclusive, shall be held to affect the powers of removal vested by Section 240 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, or Section 194 of this Act, in Courts having Admiralty jurisdiction in British India. The said powers may be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary Criminal jurisdiction at any port in British India where there is no Court having Admiralty jurisdiction, if the master or mate shall have received his certificate from any Local Government.

Same powers may be exercised by chief Criminal Court in British Indian Port, where there is no Admiralty Court.

Offences of seamen and apprentices, and their punishments.

202. Whenever any seaman who has been lawfully engaged or any apprentice to the sea-service commits any of the following offences, he shall be liable to be punished summarily by any person exercising the full powers of a Magistrate, or (in the case of an European British subject) by a Justice of the Peace in manner following ; (that is to say) :—

Desertion.

(1.) For desertion he shall be liable to simple or rigorous imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, and also to forfeit all or any part of the clothes and effects he leaves on board, and all or any part of the wages or emoluments which he has then earned ; and also, if such desertion takes place at any port or place not in British India, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit all or any part of the wages or emoluments he may earn in any other ship in which he may be employed until his next return to any port or place in British India, and to satisfy any excess of wages paid by the master or owner of the ship from which he deserts, to any substitute engaged in his place at a higher rate of wages than the rate stipulated so be paid to him :

Explanation.—"Desertion," as here used, means abandoning the ship without the intention of returning, and without just cause.

Neglecting or refusing to join, or to go to sea ; absence within twenty-four hours before sailing, and absence without leave.

(2.) For neglecting or refusing without reasonable cause to join his ship or to proceed to sea in his ship, or for absence without leave at any time within twenty-four hours of the ship's sailing from any port either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, or for absence at any time without leave and without sufficient reason from his ship or from his duty, not amounting to desertion or not treated as such by the master, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding ten weeks, with or without hard labour, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding the amount of two days' pay, and in addition for every twenty-four hours of absence, either a sum not exceeding six days' pay or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute ;

Quitting without leave before ship is secured.

(3.) For quitting the ship without leave after her arrival at her port of delivery and before she is placed in security, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding one month's pay :

Act of disobedience.

(4.) For wilful disobedience to any lawful command, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding four weeks, with or without hard labour, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding two days' pay :

Continued disobedience.

(5.) For continued wilful disobedience to lawful commands or continued wilful neglect of duty, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour, and alo at the discretion of the Court to forfeit for every twenty-four hours' continuance of such disobedience or neglect, either a sum not exceeding six days' pay or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute :

Assault on officers.

(6.) For assaulting any master or mate, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour :

Combining to disobey.

(7.) For combining with any other or others of the crew to disobey lawful commands, or to neglect duty, or to impede the navigation of the ship, or the progress of the voyage, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour :

Wilful damage and embezzlement.

(8.) For wilfully damaging the ship, embezzling, or wilfully damaging any of her stores or cargo, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum equal in amount to the loss thereby sustained, and also at the discretion of the Court to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour :

Act of smuggling, causing loss to owner.

(9.) For any act of smuggling of which he is convicted and whereby loss or damage is occasioned to the master or owner, he shall be liable to pay to such master or owner such a sum as is sufficient to reimburse the master or owner for such loss or damage; and the whole or a proportionate part of his wages may be retained in satisfaction or on account of such liability, without prejudice to any further remedy.

Entry of offences to be made in official log, and to be read over, or a copy given to the offender; his reply, if any, to be also entered.

203. Upon the commission of any of the offences enumerated in the last preceding Section, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and shall be signed by the master, and also by the mute or one of the crew; and the offender, if still in the ship, shall, before the next subsequent arrival of the ship at any port, or if she is at the time in port, before her departure therefrom, either be furnished with a copy of such entry, or have the same read over distinctly and audibly to him, and may thereupon make such reply thereto as he thinks fit. A statement that a copy of the said entry has been so furnished, or that the same has been so read over as aforesaid, and the reply (if any) made by the offender, shall likewise be entered and signed in manner aforesaid. In any subsequent legal proceeding the entries hereinbefore required shall if practicable be produced or proved, and in default of such production or proof, the Court hearing the case may at its discretion refuse to receive evidence of the offence.

Seamen whom masters of ships are compelled to convey, and persons going to sea in ships without leave, to be subject to penalties for breach of discipline.

204. Every seafaring person whom the master of any ship is under the authority of this Act or any law compelled to take on board and convey, and every person who goes to sea in any ship without the consent of the master or owner or other person entitled to give such consent, shall, so long as he remains in such ship, be subject to the same laws and regulations for preserving discipline, and to the same penalties and punishments for offences constituting or tending to a breach of discipline, to which he would be subject if he were a member of the crew and had signed the agreement.

Master or owner may apprehend deserters without warrant.

205. Whenever, either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, any seaman or apprentice neglects or refuses to join, or deserts from or refuses to proceed to sea in any ship in which he is duly engaged to serve, or is found otherwise absenting himself therefrom without leave, the master or any mate, or the owner, ship's husband or consignee, may, with or without the assistance of Police officers, who are hereby directed to give the same if required, apprehend him without first procuring a warrant; and may thereupon in any case, and shall, in case he so requires and it is practicable, convey him before some Court capable of taking cognizance of the matter, to be dealt with according to law; and may for the purpose of conveying him before such Court detain him in custody for a period not exceeding twenty-four hours or such shorter time as may be necessary; or may, if he does not so require or if there is no such Court at or near the place, at once convey him on board. If any such apprehension appears to the Court before which the case is brought to have been made on improper or on insufficient grounds, or if it shall appear that any such neglect, refusal or absence was owing to a reasonable apprehension that the ship is in such a state or so loaded as to endanger the life of the seaman or apprentice, the master, mate, owner, ship's husband or consignee who makes the apprehension or causes the same to be made, shall incur a penalty not exceeding two hundred rupees; but such penalty, if inflicted, shall be a bar to any suit for false imprisonment in respect of such apprehension.

Deserters may be sent on board in lieu of being imprisoned.

206. Whenever any seaman or apprentice is brought before any Court on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join, or to proceed to sea in any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, such Court may, if the master or the owner or his agent so requires, instead of committing the offender to prison, cause him to be conveyed on board for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or deliver him to the master or any mate of the ship, or the owner or his agent to be by him so conveyed, and may in such case order any costs and expenses properly incurred by or on behalf of the master or owner by reason of the offence to be paid by the offender, and if necessary to be deducted from any wages which he has then earned, or which by virtue of his then existing engagement he may afterwards earn.

Seamen imprisoned for desertion or breach of discipline, may be sent on board before termination of sentence.

207. If any seaman or apprentice is imprisoned on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join, or to proceed to sea in any ship in which he is engaged to serve, having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, or of having committed any other breach of discipline, and if during such imprisonment and before his engagement is at an end, his services are required on board his ship, any Magistrate may, at the request of the master or of the owner or his agent, cause such seaman or apprentice to be conveyed on board his said ship for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or to be delivered to the master or any mate of the ship, or to the owner or his agent, to be by him so conveyed notwithstanding that the termination of the period for which he was sentenced to imprisonment has not arrived. The officer in charge of the gaol in which such seaman or apprentice is confined, shall obey all orders given by a Magistrate under this Section.

Entries and certificates of desertion abroad to be copied, sent home, and admitted in evidence.

208. In all cases of desertion from any ship registered at a port or place in British India, while such ship is at any place out of British India, the master shall produce the entry of such desertion in the official log-book to the person or persons required by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, to endorse on the agreement a certificate of such desertion. Such person or persons shall thereupon make and certify a copy of such entry and also a copy of the said certificate of desertion. The master shall forthwith transmit such copies to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Officer at the port where such seaman was engaged, who shall, if required, cause the same to be produced in any legal proceeding. Such copies, if purporting to be so made and certified as aforesaid, shall in any legal proceeding relating to such desertion be received as evidence of the entries therein appearing.

Facilities for proving desertion so far as concerns forfeiture of wages.

209. Whenever a question arises whether the wages of any seaman or apprentice are forfeited for desertion, it shall be sufficient for the party insisting on the forfeiture to show that such seaman or apprentice was duly engaged in, or that he belonged to the ship from which he is alleged to have deserted, and that he quitted such ship before the completion of the voyage or engagement, or if such voyage was to terminate at any port or place in British India and the ship has not returned, that he is absent from her, and that an entry of the desertion has been duly made in the official log-book. Thereupon the desertion shall, so far as relates to any forfeiture of wages or emoluments under the provisions hereinbefore contained, be deemed to be proved, unless the seaman or apprentice can produce a proper certificate of discharge, or can otherwise show to the satisfaction of the Court that he had sufficient reasons for leaving his ship.

Explanation.—By desertion the wages for the whole voyage which was not completed at the time of the desertion are forfeited, but not the wages of any other completed voyage.

Costs of procuring imprisonment may to the extent of thirty rupees be deducted from wages.

210. Whenever, in any proceeding relating to seaman's wages, it is shown that any seaman or apprentice has in the course of the voyage been convicted of any offence by any competent tribunal and rightfully punished therefor by imprisonment or otherwise, the Court hearing the case may direct a part of the wages due to such seaman not exceeding thirty rupees, to be applied in reimbursing any costs properly incurred by the master in procuring such conviction and punishment.

Ascertainment of amount of forfeiture when seamen contract for the voyage.

211. Whenever any seaman contracts for wages by the voyage, or by the run, or by the share, and not by the month or other stated period of time the amount of forfeiture to be incurred under this Act shall be taken to be an amount bearing the same proportion to the whole wages or share as the period hereinbefore mentioned in fixing the amount of such forfeiture (as the case may be) bears to the whole time spent in the voyage. If the whole time spent in the voyage does not exceed the period for which the pay is to be forfeited, the forfeiture shall extend to the whole wages or share.

Application of forfeitures.

212. All clothes, effects, wages and emoluments which under the provisions hereinbefore contained are forfeited for desertion, shall be applied in the first instance in or towards the re-imbursement of the expenses occasioned by such desertion to the master or owner of the ship from which the desertion has taken place, and may, if earned subsequently to the desertion, be recovered by such master, or by the owner or his agent, in the same manner as the deserter might have recovered the same if they had not been forfeited; and in any legal proceedings relating to such wages, the Court may order the same to be paid accordingly; and subject to such re-imbursement, the same shall be paid into the public treasury and carried to the account of Government. In all other cases of forfeiture of wages under the provisions hereinbefore contained, the forfeiture shall, in the absence of any specific directions to the contrary, be for the benefit of the master or owner by whom the wages are payable.

Questions of forfeiture may be decided in suits for wages.

213. Any question concerning the forfeiture or deductions from the wages of any seaman or apprentice, may be determined in any proceeding lawfully instituted with respect to such wages, notwithstanding that the offence in respect of which such question arises, though hereby made punishable by imprisonment as well as forfeiture, has not been made the subject of any criminal proceeding.

Penalty for false statement as to last ship or name.

214. If any seaman, on or before being engaged, wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement of the name of his last ship or last alleged ship, or wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement of his own name, he shall incur a penalty not exceeding fifty rupees. Such penalty may be deducted from any wages he may earn by virtue of such engagement as aforesaid, and shall, subject to re-imbursement of the loss and expenses (if any) occasioned by any previous desertion, be paid and applied in the same manner as other penalties payable under this Act.

Fines to be deducted from wages and paid to Superintendent.

215. Whenever any seaman commits an act of misconduct for which his agreement imposes a fine, and which it is intended to punish by enforcing such fine, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and a copy of such entry shall be furnished or the same shall be read over to the offender, and an entry of such reading over, and of the reply (if any) made by the offender, shall be made in the manner and subject to the conditions hereinbefore specified with respect to the offences against discipline specified in and punishable under this Act. Such fine shall be deducted and paid over as follows; (that is to say), if the offender is discharged at any port or place in British India, and the offence and other entries in respect thereof as aforesaid are proved, in the case of a foreign-going ship to the satisfaction of the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office before whom the offender is discharged, and in the case of a home-trade ship to the satisfaction of the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at or nearest to the place at which the crew is discharged, the master or owner shall deduct such fine from the wages of the offender and pay the same over to such Superintendent. If before the final discharge of the crew in British India, any such offender as aforesaid enters into any of Her Majesty's ships or is discharged at any place not in British India, and the offence and such entries as aforesaid are proved to the satisfaction of the officer in command of the ship into which he so enters, or of the Consular Officer, officer of Customs or other person by whose sanction he is so discharged, the fine shall thereupon be deducted as aforesaid, and an entry of such deduction shall then be made in the official log-book (if any) and signed by such officer or other person. On the return of the ship to British India, the master or owner shall pay over such fine, in the case of foreign-going ships to the Superintendent before whom the crew is discharged, and in the case of home-trade ships to the Superintendent at or nearest to the place at which the crew is discharged. If any master or owner neglects or refuses to pay over any such fine in manner aforesaid, he shall for each such offence incur a penalty not exceeding six times the amount of the fine retained by him: Provided that no act of misconduct for which any such fine as aforesaid has been inflicted and paid shall be otherwise punished under the provisions of this Act.

Penalty for enticing to desert and harbouring deserters.

216. Every person who by any means whatever persuades or attempts to persuade any seaman or apprentice to neglect or refuse to join or proceed to sea in or to desert from his ship, or otherwise to absent himself from his duty, shall for each such offence, in respect of each such seaman or apprentice, incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred rupees. Every person who wilfully harbours or secretes any seaman or apprentice who has deserted from his ship, or who has wilfully neglected or refused to join or has deserted from his ship, knowing or having reason to believe such seaman or apprentice to have so done, shall for every such seaman or apprentice so harboured or secreted incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Penalty for obtaining passage surreptitiously.

217. Any person who secretes himself and goes to sea in any ship without the consent of either the owner, consignee or master, or of a mate or of any person in charge of such ship, or of any other person entitled to give such consent, shall incur a penalty not exceeding two hundred rupees, or be liable to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding four weeks.

On change of masters, documents hereby required to be handed over to successor.

218. If during the progress of a voyage the master of any ship registered at any port or place in British India is superseded, or for any other reason quits the ship and is succeeded in the command by some other person, he shall deliver to his successor the various documents relating to the navigation of the ship and to the crew thereof which are in his custody; and shall in default incur a penalty not exceeding one thousand rupees. Such successor shall, immediately on assuming the command of the ship, enter in the official log a list of the documents so delivered to him.

An official log-book of every ship registered at any port or place in British India, except home-trade ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons, shall be kept in a form sanctioned by the Local Government; and such official log may, at the discretion of the master or owner, either be kept distinct from the ordinary ship's log or united therewith, so that in all cases all the blanks in the official log be duly filled up.

285. Whereas by Section 99 of an Act of the Imperial Parliament, called "The Passengers' Act, 1855," it is enacted that "it shall be lawful for the Governor General of India in Council, from time to time, by any Act or Acts to be passed for that purpose, to declare that this Act or any part thereof shall apply to the carriage of passengers upon any voyage, from any ports or places within the territories of British India, to be specified in such Act or Acts, to any other places whatsoever to be also specified in such Act or Acts:" and it is thereby also enacted that, "on the passing of such Indian Act or Acts, and whilst the same shall remain in force, all such parts of this Act as shall be adopted therein shall apply to and extend to the carriage of passengers upon such voyages as in the said Indian Act or Acts shall be specified, and the provisions of such Indian Act shall be enforced in all Her Majesty's possessions in like manner as the provisions of this Act may be enforced." And whereas it is expedient to make certain parts of the said Act of Parliament applicable to the carriage of passengers upon the voyages hereinafter specified; It is enacted as follows:—

Sections 286 and 287 applicable to passengers upon certain voyages.

The provisions contained in Sections 286 and 287 apply to the carriage of passengers upon the following voyages:—

Voyages from the ports of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay under Act No. XIII. of 1864 (to consolidate and amend the laws relating to the emigration of Native labourers), to the Mauritius, Jamaica, British Guiana, Trinidad, Saint Lucia, and Grenada:

Voyages from ports in British India, under Chapter I of this Part, to ports in the Red Sea or Persian Gulf.

Governors or Consuls may pay expenses of passengers taken off a passenger ship.

286. If the passengers on any such voyage as is specified in Section 285 shall be taken off from the ship carrying such passengers, or shall be picked up at sea from any boat, raft or otherwise, it shall be lawful, if the port or place to which they shall be conveyed shall be in any of Her Majesty's colonial possessions, for the Governor of such colony or for any person authorized by him for the purpose, or, if in any foreign country, for Her Majesty's Consular Officers at such port or place therein, to defray all or any part of the expenses thereby incurred.

Governors or Consuls may send on passengers if master of ship fail to do so.

287. If any passenger of any such passenger ship as aforesaid shall, without any neglect or default of his own, find himself within any colonial or foreign port or place other than that at which he may have contracted to land, it shall be lawful for the Governor of such colony or for any person authorized by him for the purpose, or for Her Majesty's Consular Officer at such foreign port of place, as the case may be, to forward such passenger to his intended destination, unless the master of such ship shall, within forty-eight hours of the arrival of such passenger, give to the Governor or Consular Officer, as the case may be, a written undertaking to forward or carry on

Passengers forwarded under Section 287 not to be entitled to compensation.

Part VII.

It shall not be necessary in any case to prove the signature or official character of the person appearing to have signed any such deposition; and in any criminal proceeding, such certificate as aforesaid shall, unless the contrary is proved, be sufficient evidence of the accused having been present in manner hereby certified.

Proviso.

290. All penalties imposed by this Act may be recovered, if for offences committed outside the local limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, in the manner prescribed by the Code of Criminal Procedure, and if for offences committed within those limits, in the manner prescribed by any Act regulating the Police of such towns in force for the time being.
